Ike Rules Out Tax Cuts Now

• Republicans Hail Message, Demos Find Fault

Johnson Hits At "Political Overtones"

Some Legislators Still Hope For Tax Reduction In 1956

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — A chorus of praise for President Eisenhower's State of the Union message rose from the Republican side of Congress today. Democrats heard "political overtones" in it and found fault on many other counts.

The President's emphasis on a balanced budget won widespread applause but some legislators in both parties still spoke hopefully of a tax cut this year.

"I am still hopeful that the budget will be balanced in 1956 and will justify some reductions in lower and middle income brackets," said Sen. George of Georgia, a Democratic leader.

Too Optimistic, Demos Say

"There may be a possibility of reducing individual income taxes," commented Sen. Flanders (R-Vt), while another leading Republican, Sen. Dirksen of Illinois, said he considers Eisenhower has left the question of taxes "open pretty much for what action Congress may decide."

Democratic criticism of the President's report was concentrated mainly on what party members called its vagueness and overly optimistic tone.

The Democratic leader in the Senate, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, expressed "deep disappointment and great regret" at the "political overtones."

"Overly Rosy" Picture

"Most Americans know that the domestic situation is not as rosy as it has been pictured and that the international situation is not as rosy as it has been pictured and that the international situation is of deep concern," Johnson also said in a statement approved by the Democratic policy committee in the Senate.

Some other Democrats, like Rep. John Bell Williams of Mississippi, said they felt Eisenhower was looking over the head of Congress toward the voters.

"It sounds like an announcement for re-election," Williams said. "It was the most patently political document in years."

On the other hand, Sen. Ives (R-NY) described the message as "a text for sound government."

Baltimore Transit Strike Vote Looms

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Transit Workers Union today called for a strike vote after contract talks with the Baltimore Transit Co. broke down shortly after they had been resumed.

Officers of the international union had been called here to join local negotiations as talks with company officials resumed after a three-week recess.

But an hour later, Frank Baummer, president of Division 1300, Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, said the negotiations had been recessed.

Baummer said the talks were stopped when the company declined to discuss new wage proposals.

He said the transit firm's 2,500 union members would take a strike vote Jan. 20 if there is no progress in negotiations by then.

Pennsy And TWU Agree On 18½-Cent Package Hike

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad and the Transport Workers Union agreed today on a new contract providing an 18½ cent-an-hour package wage hike for 22,500 nonoperating employes.

Michael J. Quill, TWU president, called the settlement "the largest in the history of railroad negotiating." He added:

"It consists of 9½ cents an hour across the board, 4 cents an hour in lieu of a health and welfare plan and an average cost of 1½ cents an hour for a 4-cent-an-hour inequity payment to 8,000 freight car inspectors and repairmen. All three wage items are retroactive to Dec. 1, 1955."

The agreement also included a clause providing seven paid holidays which the union valued at 3½ cents an hour.

A "new and improved" grievance procedure also was established. It provides that each grievance must be settled within 30 days on each level of discussion. It also sets up a board with final, binding power to resolve any disputes. The board is to be composed of two union and two management representatives. If there is a deadlock, the National Mediation Board will appoint an impartial fifth member.

Student Red China Says Held Captive Will Be Deported

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — A Chinese student, alleged by Red China to be held against his will in a Missouri mental hospital, is to be deported to his homeland next Sunday.

The Immigration Service made the announcement today. It said that after considerable delay, the British have come through with a transit visa which will enable the student, 36-year-old Liu Yung-Ming, to pass through Hong Kong, described as the only available gateway for delivering Liu to Red China.

When Communist China made a charge of forcible detention of Liu last week, through diplomatic channels and the Red Cross, immigration officials said they have been anxious to get rid of Liu for four years, but had been unable to get the Hong Kong transit visa for him. There were indications the British felt he might remain in Hong Kong, where his father lives, and possibly become a British charge.

Kamin, McCarthy Contempt Case Witness, Freed

BOSTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—A federal judge ruled today that Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) acted outside the jurisdiction of his committee two years ago in a one-man probe of subversion in defense plants.

In handing down his lengthy opinion, Judge Bailey Aldrich acquitted Leon J. Kamin, 28, former research assistant at Harvard, of charges of contempt of Congress.

Aldrich said the Senate Committee on Government Ooperations—of which the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee is a part—had no powers to investigate the general subject of communism; that government operation meant the operation of government departments, not private operation of private industry, even though under government contract.

Kamin Defied McCarthy

Kamin, now connected with Queens University, Kingston, Ont., refused to answer Sen. McCarthy—in the same building where today's opinion was handed down—as to whether he knew any Communists in defense plants.

Kamin had admitted being a member of the Communist party at times betwen 1945 and 1950.

Evidence had been introduced that Kamin worked in Harvard's project at Beavertail Point, Jamestown, R. I., on radar equipment. And a Harvard official had testified Kamin did not have "authorized access" to classified material or contracts.

Group Exceeded Authority

"It seems to me," Judge Aldrich's opinion said, "that as a pure matter of language private operation of private industry is not 'activity performed by the government' on an operational level', and that the general economy and efficiency of such private operation is beyond the scope of the committee. I cannot believe that Congress intended otherwise."

The court agreed that the presence of Communists in defense plants could be a matter of legitimate congressional concern, but said the investigation this committee sought to carry on was beyond the scope of its granted authority.

Westinghouse Urges Vote On Ending Strike

Corporation Spurns Proposal To Set Up Fact-Finding Board

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5 (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp. today turned thumbs down on a Federal Mediation Service proposal for a three-man fact-finding board to seek a basis for settling a 12-week-old strike.

Instead, Robert D. Blasier, Westinghouse vice president in charge of industrial relations, suggested the federal agency conduct a secret ballot among the striking workers to see if they want to continue the walkout.

IUE Agreed To Plan

James B. Carey, president of the striking AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers, told the mediation board yesterday the union would agree to a fact-finding board. He also said the IUE members would return to work if both sides agreed the board's decision should be binding.

Blasier, following a day of conferences with other company officials in Pittsburgh, telegraphed his answer to the head mediator, Joseph F. Finnegan, in Philadelphia. The company official said:

"We believe our employes, whose job security is at stake, understand the issues better than any fact-finder who has no personal stake whatsoever in the resolution of these issues.

Balloting Would Be Secret

"Therefore, we respectfully request that the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service consider recommending to the parties that, as an alternate to your proposal, a secret ballot be conducted under your service's auspices on whether the IUE-represented employes wish to accept the company's offer and return to work, or continue the strike. We will cooperate in every way to assist you in expediting the holding of such an election."

The union represents about 44,000 striking employes at 30 Westinghouse plants. The strike was called to back up demands for a wage increase under a reopening clause in a two-year contract signed in 1954.

Tito And Nasser Blast Alliances

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 5 (AP)—President Tito and Prime Minister Gamal Abdel Nasser today jointly denounced military pacts and blocs as "suicidal and increasing world tension."

A statement agreed on by Nasser and the visiting Yugoslav leader during their Nile River trip to the Cairo Dam was released by Yugoslav Minister of State Koca Popovic during a news conference.

Tito and Nasser emphasized what they called the "policy of nonalignment" practiced by both their countries as making a vital contribution to world peace.

They declared their nonalignment with the major power blocs is "not passive, but a positive, active and constructive policy seeking to lead to worldwide collective security and to a substantial extension of the area of peace in the world."

The statement observed there has been a general reduction of tension in the world during the past year, but urged a new approach to relax tensions further.

Witnesses Clam Up At Security Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Four witnesses refused today to tell senators searching for Red influences in the press and other news fields whether they had ever been Communists.

One of the witnesses, Dan Mahoney, a rewriteman on the staff of the New York Daily Mirror, said "no sir, I am not," when asked whether he now is a Communist. However, he refused to tell whether he had ever been a Communist.

The other three—William A. Price, a reporter for the New York Daily News; Richard O. Boyer, a free lance writer of Groton-On-Hudson, N.Y., and Otto Albertson, a composing room employe of the New York Times—refused to say whether they now are Communists or have been in the past.

Price, in declining to answer questions, refused to invoke the Fifth Amendment's privilege against compulsory self-incrimination. He based his refusals on the First Amendment, which covers the right of free speech.

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) repeatedly "ordered and directed" Price to answer questions put to him, saying the subcommittee did not recognize his refusal to answer on the ground of the First Amendment. Eastland and counsel J. G. Sourwine told him he could refuse to answer under the Fifth Amendment, but not the First.

Boyer and Mahoney invoked the Fifth Amendment after being told their refusal to answer on the ground of the First Amendment was not recognized. Albertson was the only one of the four witnesses heard today who did not make an issue of the First Amendment. He simply claimed the protection of the Fifth.

The New York Times said editorially today that, "It seems quite obvious that the Eastland investigation has been aimed with particular emphasis at The New York Times." Eastland replied that The New York Times is not under investigation. He has said the inquiry was aimed at communism wherever found, and not at any particular newspaper or group of newspapers.

Three of the seven witnesses called yesterday were employes of the Times. Three others were former employes.

U.S. Army Plans Nike Units In West Europe

HEIDELBERG, Germany Jan. 5 (AP)—The United States Army plans to install its Nike supersonic anti-aircraft guided missiles in Western Europe, it was announced today.

Army headquarters here said survey of sites for the radar-controlled weapons would begin immediately. The announcement described the plan as "a significant step strengthening the over-all European air defense system."

Jimmy Stewart Injured During Filming Of Movie

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (AP)—Actor James Stewart suffered a painfully wrenched back when a parachute dragged him 50 yards during the filming of the movie "Spirit of St. Louis" last night.

Stewart, who plays Charles Lindbergh, was supposed to have bailed out of a plane during a blizzard and landed in a field. A battery of wind machines hurled artificial snow and caught Stewart's parachute, which jerked him from his feet and dragged him over rough ground.

X-ray pictures were taken today to determine the extent of the back injuries.

Ike Breakfasts With Brazilian President-Elect

KEY WEST, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP) — President Eisenhower today sent Congress a generally optimistic State of the Union report, had breakfast with the President-elect of Brazil, and then relaxed with friends in the Florida sun.

It was another day of almost complete leisure for the convalescing President, preparatory to a work session here tomorrow with Secretary of Agriculture Benson on the special farm message Eisenhower plans to present to Congress Monday.

Farmer Aid Pledged

The problem of declining farm income brought one departure from the generally bright picture he painted in his State of the Union document. With the problem already looming as a campaign issue in this presidential and congressional year, Eisenhower pledged the administration will do everything in its power to help the farmer.

After dispatching the message to Washington, Eisenhower went to his office here and discussed its contents for about seven minutes before television cameras and a radio microphone.

"The national economy, in the general picture, is in very splendid shape," he said.

Balanced Budget Forecast

He predicted balanced federal budgets for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, and for the next year. He ruled out tax cuts at this time, but left the way open for reductions when spending income and outgo actually are in balance.

In his television-radio remarks filmed and recorded for later use at various times, Eisenhower said "we must begin to make some payments" on the 280-million-dollar national debt," if we are to avoid passing on to our children an impossible burden of debt."

President Sees Budget Balance

National Debt Token Payment Contemplated

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower laid before Congress today a massive "program for the Republic" that contemplates a balanced budget, a token payment on the national debt, but no tax cuts now.

In language paralleling that of some leaders of both parties in Congress, Eisenhower spoke against lowering taxes at the expense of "fiscal integrity" and a balanced budget; against "going further into debt to give ourselves a tax cut at the expense of our children."

He forecast that government income will match outgo by midyear, and said he would propose a continued balance for the year following. Many Republicans and some Democrats applauded that, but the reaction to the message in general was the usual melange of plaudits and digs, keyed pretty much to party allegiances in this election-year Congress.

Farm, Road, School Aid

The presidential report encompassed recommendations — some new, some old, most of them advertised in advance—for a stepped-up, "many-sided attack" on the farm problem, for highway, school, housing, health and disaster relief programs.

It urged immigration legislation, aid for chronically depressed communities, labor law changes, an atom-powered commercial ship, water and power projects, equal pay for equal work for women, and an investigation to determine whether Negroes are being deprived of their right to vote and are being "subjected to unwarranted economic pressures."

With Russia's leaders following "tactics of retreat and zigzag" and still unwilling "to create the indispensable conditions for a secure and lasting peace," Eisenhower proposed "constant improvement" of America's defenses and those of the free world.

8,500-Word Document

He backed this up with a bid for limited authority to make longer-term foreign aid commitments, a request for a substantial boost in funds to spread understanding of America through the U.S. Information Agency, and a promise to keep up the pressure against the "vast wrongs" of a divided Germany, the "bondage of millions elsewhere, and the exclusion of Japan from United Nations membership."

The 8,500-word document was plunked down in Senate and House and read to the legislators while the President continued recuperating from a September heart attack at Key West, Fla.

Nowhere in it was there a definite clue as to how long Eisenhower proposes to stay around to give stewardship to his program—the biggest political puzzle of a politically-minded Congress.

But in tone and content it was much like the message a year ago which a number of Democrats, at least, interpreted as something of an announcement for a second term try.

Although some legislators were not giving up hopes for squeezing in a tax cut later on, there was considerable support for Eisenhower's financial stand.

Apparently seeking to allay any

Demos Demand President Keep Farm Promises

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — A farm debate flared up in the Senate late today, accompanied by Democratic demands that President Eisenhower "keep the promises" he made to agriculture in 1952.

The argument began a few hours after Eisenhower, in his State of the Union message, said he will open a stepped-up attack on the "deep-seated problems" plaguing farmers.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) complained that Eisenhower "promised more than any other candidate" four years ago and "has delivered less." Now that another election looms, Humphrey said, the President is adopting many farm proposals that Humphrey, as a Democrat, has pushed for three years.

President Makes Appeal

In today's message to Congress, the President urged that the plight of agriculture be placed "above and beyond politics."

"Too much is at stake," he said. "No group is more fundamental to our national life than our farmers."

Humphrey suggested that Eisenhower call in Secretary of Agriculture Benson, read to him the farm pledges Eisenhower made in 1952, and then instruct him to "carry them out or resign."

This brought Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) to his feet with a protest that the Democrats, now in control of the Senate and House, "have done nothing" about the legislation referred to by Humphrey.

Earlier, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate's Democratic leader, said it is obvious that the Eisenhower administration "has become frantic about the farm situation."

Concern "Tardy But Welcome"

"The deep concern—which somehow did not find expression until an election year—is welcome even though it is tardy," Johnson declared.

Sen. Langer (R-ND) also took the President to task, saying he permitted rye, oats and wheat to come in from Canada last year when the prices of these crops were declining in the United States.

He spoke after Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) got up to urge that the government's seven billion-dollar supply of surplus farm products be given away if necessary.

French Forces Kill 34 Algerian Rebels

ALGIERS, Algeria, Jan. 5 (AP)—French forces killed at least 34 rebels in scattered clashes in Algeria today. Two pro-French Algerians were slain by insurgents at Guelas in eastern Algeria and one French soldier died in battle.

In the biggest action, 21 rebels were shot down and seven taken prisoner in a fight with a French paratroop detachment. The battle occurred east of Batna in the Constantine area. The French said one paratrooper was killed and another wounded.

The other 13 rebels were killed in several separate actions, some near the Moroccan border.

Germany Gives Adenauer His Biggest Birthday Party

BONN, Germany, Jan. 5 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was 80 today—and his countrymen gave him his biggest birthday party.

Tributes and gifts by the thousands flowed in to the "grand old man" of Germany from his people and world statesmen of both sides of the Iron Curtain.

The Bonn Republic's leaders and foreign diplomats trooped to the white Chancellery on the Rhine to wish him "herzliche glueckwuensche (hearty good wishes)." Throughout the nation, newspapers printed huge pictures of Adenauer and praise of his statesmanship.

Hundreds of Germans paid their respects by standing throughout the day in raw winter chill at the entrance to the Chancellery. All mail delivered in Bonn bore a postmark of roses in his honor. Adenauer is a famous rose grower.

It was a great day for the iron-willed man who in six years has piloted West Germany from ruin to recovery and a position of honor in the free world. And Adenauer, despite a head cold, enjoyed every minute of his all-day birthday celebration.

There were congratulatory messages from President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Eden, Soviet Premier Bulganin, Sir Winston Churchill and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. From Pope Pius XII he received the Vatican's second highest award—the Order of the Golden Spur.

A book and three paintings were sent by President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

Grace Kelly, Prince Of Monaco To Wed Soon After Easter

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5 (AP)—Grace Kelly, blonde, beautiful and elegant star of the movies, today announced her betrothal to Prince Rainier of Monaco and said the wedding date will be soon after Easter.

Announcement of the engagement, which came after a courtship on the Riviera, was made jointly in Monte Carlo and by Miss Kelly's parents in Philadelphia.

Plans for the actual marriage were disclosed later in the day at a news conference in the Kelly home—an event which sent hundreds of newsmen and photographers, film cameramen and television technicians to the scene.

Grace's father, John B. Kelly, millionaire builder, gazed with a slight touch of dismay at the big crowd and said:

"It's a good thing that I built this house myself or there'd be no place for any of them."

The humor in his voice and in his demeanor generally showed plainly that it was to be a jolly occasion.

Both Miss Kelly and the prince, head of the tiny European principality and considered one of the most eligible bachelors in the world, were in high spirits, indeed.

Someone asked the star if she planned a large family.

She laughed, nodded a blithe yes. Then her mother, herself a decidedly attractive woman, cut in: "Why certainly she'll have a large family. I'm a grandmother and I like a lot of grandchildren."

The prince, all in blue except for his shoes, told the gathering that his bride-to-be will be known in Monaco as, "Her Serene Highness, Princess of Monaco."

Miss Kelly said the actual wedding date has not been set, nor has it been decided where the ceremony will be performed. She added it doubtless will be either in Philadelphia or Monaco.

"I am leaving for the West Coast this weekend," she went on, "to start work on one of two pictures I'm contracted for. Work on the first one is scheduled to start Jan. 17, and this assignment should take about two months."

She said she intended to take a leave of absence after completing the two pictures, but declined to say whether she would retire from the screen after her marriage.

"I plan to live in Monaco," she said. And that was all.

In Monaco itself, the news was received with lively enthusiasm. At Monte Carlo, the country's capital and site of the famed casino that provides most of Monaco's revenue, official and private buildings were gayly decorated with flags and bunting.

The Monacans were overjoyed that their prince had found the fiancee he had gone to America to seek—and there was also the little matter of the tiny kingdom's future.

Should Prince Ranier die without heir, Monaco—which requires its 1,000 permanent residents to pay no taxes—would revert to French rule with French tax rates prevailing.

Witnesses Clam Up At Security Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Four witnesses refused today to tell senators searching for Red influences in the press and other news fields whether they had ever been Communists.

One of the witnesses, Dan Mahoney, a rewriteman on the staff of the New York Daily Mirror, said "no sir, I am not," when asked whether he now is a Communist. However, he refused to tell whether he had ever been a Communist.

The other three—William A. Price, a reporter for the New York Daily News; Richard O. Boyer, a free lance writer of Groton-On-Hudson, N.Y., and Otto Albertson, a composing room employe of the New York Times—refused to say whether they now are Communists or have been in the past.

Price, in declining to answer questions, refused to invoke the Fifth Amendment's privilege against compulsory self-incrimination. He based his refusals on the First Amendment, which covers the right of free speech.

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) repeatedly "ordered and directed" Price to answer questions put to him, saying the subcommittee did not recognize his refusal to answer on the ground of the First Amendment. Eastland and counsel J. G. Sourwine told him he could refuse to answer under the Fifth Amendment, but not the First.

Boyer and Mahoney invoked the Fifth Amendment after being told their refusal to answer on the ground of the First Amendment was not recognized. Albertson was the only one of the four witnesses heard today who did not make an issue of the First Amendment. He simply claimed the protection of the Fifth.

The New York Times said editorially today that, "It seems quite obvious that the Eastland investigation has been aimed with particular emphasis at The New York Times." Eastland replied that The New York Times is not under investigation. He has said the inquiry was aimed at communism wherever found, and not at any particular newspaper or group of newspapers.

Three of the seven witnesses called yesterday were employes of the Times. Three others were former employes.

U.S. Army Plans Nike Units In West Europe

HEIDELBERG, Germany Jan. 5 (AP)—The United States Army plans to install its Nike supersonic anti-aircraft guided missiles in Western Europe, it was announced today.

Army headquarters here said survey of sites for the radar-controlled weapons would begin immediately. The announcement described the plan as "a significant step strengthening the over-all European air defense system."

Grangers Expect Stork

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (AP)—Actress Jean Simmons and her husband, Stewart Granger, will be visited by the stork next August or September, her studio announced today.

Jimmy Stewart Injured During Filming Of Movie

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (AP)—Actor James Stewart suffered a painfully wrenched back when a parachute dragged him 50 yards during the filming of the movie "Spirit of St. Louis" last night.

Stewart, who plays Charles Lindbergh, was supposed to have bailed out of a plane during a blizzard and landed in a field. A battery of wind machines hurled artificial snow and caught Stewart's parachute, which jerked him from his feet and dragged him over rough ground.

X-ray pictures were taken today to determine the extent of the back injuries.

Ike Breakfasts With Brazilian President-Elect

KEY WEST, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP) — President Eisenhower today sent Congress a generally optimistic State of the Union report, had breakfast with the President-elect of Brazil, and then relaxed with friends in the Florida sun.

It was another day of almost complete leisure for the convalescing President, preparatory to a work session here tomorrow with Secretary of Agriculture Benson on the special farm message Eisenhower plans to present to Congress Monday.

Farmer Aid Pledged

The problem of declining farm income brought one departure from the generally bright picture he painted in his State of the Union document. With the problem already looming as a campaign issue in this presidential and congressional year, Eisenhower pledged the administration will do everything in its power to help the farmer.

After dispatching the message to Washington, Eisenhower went to his office here and discussed its contents for about seven minutes before television cameras and a radio microphone.

"The national economy, in the general picture, is in very splendid shape," he said.

Balanced Budget Forecast

He predicted balanced federal budgets for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, and for the next year. He ruled out tax cuts at this time, but left the way open for reductions when spending income and outgo actually are in balance.

In his television-radio remarks filmed and recorded for later use at various times, Eisenhower said "we must begin to make some payments" on the 280-million-dollar national debt," if we are to avoid passing on to our children an impossible burden of debt."

Grace Kelly, Prince Of Monaco To Wed Soon After Easter

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5 (AP)—Grace Kelly, blonde, beautiful and elegant star of the movies, today announced her betrothal to Prince Rainier of Monaco and said the wedding date will be soon after Easter.

Announcement of the engagement, which came after a courtship on the Riviera, was made jointly in Monte Carlo and by Miss Kelly's parents in Philadelphia.

Plans for the actual marriage were disclosed later in the day at a news conference in the Kelly home—an event which sent hundreds of newsmen and photographers, film cameramen and television technicians to the scene.

Grace's father, John B. Kelly, millionaire builder, gazed with a slight touch of dismay at the big crowd and said:

"It's a good thing that I built this house myself or there'd be no place for any of them."

The humor in his voice and in his demeanor generally showed plainly that it was to be a jolly occasion.

Both Miss Kelly and the prince, head of the tiny European principality and considered one of the most eligible bachelors in the world, were in high spirits, indeed.

Someone asked the star if she planned a large family.

She laughed, nodded a blithe yes. Then her mother, herself a decidedly attractive woman, cut in: "Why certainly she'll have a large family. I'm a grandmother and I like a lot of grandchildren."

The prince, all in blue except for his shoes, told the gathering that his bride-to-be will be known in Monaco as, "Her Serene Highness, Princess of Monaco."

Miss Kelly said the actual wedding date has not been set, nor has it been decided where the ceremony will be performed. She added it doubtless will be either in Philadelphia or Monaco.

"I am leaving for the West Coast this weekend," she went on, "to start work on one of two pictures I'm contracted for. Work on the first one is scheduled to start Jan. 17, and this assignment should take about two months."

She said she intended to take a leave of absence after completing the two pictures, but declined to say whether she would retire from the screen after her marriage.

"I plan to live in Monaco," she said. And that was all.

In Monaco itself, the news was received with lively enthusiasm. At Monte Carlo, the country's capital and site of the famed casino that provides most of Monaco's revenue, official and private buildings were gayly decorated with flags and bunting.

The Monacans were overjoyed that their prince had found the fiancee he had gone to America to seek—and there was also the little matter of the tiny kingdom's future.

Should Prince Ranier die without heir, Monaco—which requires its 1,000 permanent residents to pay no taxes—would revert to French rule with French tax rates prevailing.

President Sees Budget Balance

National Debt Token Payment Contemplated

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower laid before Congress today a massive "program for the Republic" that contemplates a balanced budget, a token payment on the national debt, but no tax cuts now.

In language paralleling that of some leaders of both parties in Congress, Eisenhower spoke against lowering taxes at the expense of "fiscal integrity" and a balanced budget; against "going further into debt to give ourselves a tax cut at the expense of our children."

He forecast that government income will match outgo by midyear, and said he would propose a continued balance for the year following. Many Republicans and some Democrats applauded that, but the reaction to the message in general was the usual melange of plaudits and digs, keyed pretty much to party allegiances in this election-year Congress.

Farm, Road, School Aid

The presidential report encompassed recommendations — some new, some old, most of them advertised in advance—for a stepped-up, "many-sided attack" on the farm problem, for highway, school, housing, health and disaster relief programs.

It urged immigration legislation, aid for chronically depressed communities, labor law changes, an atom-powered commercial ship, water and power projects, equal pay for equal work for women, and an investigation to determine whether Negroes are being deprived of their right to vote and are being "subjected to unwarranted economic pressures."

With Russia's leaders following "tactics of retreat and zigzag" and still unwilling "to create the indispensable conditions for a secure and lasting peace," Eisenhower proposed "constant improvement" of America's defenses and those of the free world.

8,500-Word Document

He backed this up with a bid for limited authority to make longer-term foreign aid commitments, a request for a substantial boost in funds to spread understanding of America through the U.S. Information Agency, and a promise to keep up the pressure against the "vast wrongs" of a divided Germany, the "bondage of millions elsewhere, and the exclusion of Japan from United Nations membership."

The 8,500-word document was plunked down in Senate and House and read to the legislators while the President continued recuperating from a September heart attack at Key West, Fla.

Nowhere in it was there a definite clue as to how long Eisenhower proposes to stay around to give stewardship to his program—the biggest political puzzle of a politically-minded Congress.

But in tone and content it was much like the message a year ago which a number of Democrats, at least, interpreted as something of an announcement for a second term try.

Although some legislators were not giving up hopes for squeezing in a tax cut later on, there was considerable support for Eisenhower's financial stand.

Demos Demand President Keep Farm Promises

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — A farm debate flared up in the Senate late today, accompanied by Democratic demands that President Eisenhower "keep the promises" he made to agriculture in 1952.

The argument began a few hours after Eisenhower, in his State of the Union message, said he will open a stepped-up attack on the "deep-seated problems" plaguing farmers.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) complained that Eisenhower "promised more than any other candidate" four years ago and "has delivered less." Now that another election looms, Humphrey said, the President is adopting many farm proposals that Humphrey, as a Democrat, has pushed for three years.

President Makes Appeal

In today's message to Congress, the President urged that the plight of agriculture be placed "above and beyond politics."

"Too much is at stake," he said. "No group is more fundamental to our national life than our farmers."

Humphrey suggested that Eisenhower call in Secretary of Agriculture Benson, read to him the farm pledges Eisenhower made in 1952, and then instruct him to "carry them out or resign."

This brought Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) to his feet with a protest that the Democrats, now in control of the Senate and House, "have done nothing" about the legislation referred to by Humphrey.

Earlier, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate's Democratic leader, said it is obvious that the Eisenhower administration "has become frantic about the farm situation."

Concern "Tardy But Welcome"

"The deep concern—which somehow did not find expression until an election year—is welcome even though it is tardy," Johnson declared.

Sen. Langer (R-ND) also took the President to task, saying he permitted rye, oats and wheat to come in from Canada last year when the prices of these crops were declining in the United States.

He spoke after Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) got up to urge that the government's seven billion-dollar supply of surplus farm products be given away if necessary.

French Forces Kill 34 Algerian Rebels

ALGIERS, Algeria, Jan. 5 (AP)—French forces killed at least 34 rebels in scattered clashes in Algeria today. Two pro-French Algerians were slain by insurgents at Guelas in eastern Algeria and one French soldier died in battle.

In the biggest action, 21 rebels were shot down and seven taken prisoner in a fight with a French paratroop detachment. The battle occurred east of Batna in the Constantine area. The French said one paratrooper was killed and another wounded.

The other 13 rebels were killed in several separate actions, some near the Moroccan border.

Germany Gives Adenauer His Biggest Birthday Party

BONN, Germany, Jan. 5 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was 80 today—and his countrymen gave him his biggest birthday party.

Tributes and gifts by the thousands flowed in to the "grand old man" of Germany from his people and world statesmen of both sides of the Iron Curtain.

The Bonn Republic's leaders and foreign diplomats trooped to the white Chancellery on the Rhine to wish him "herzliche glueckwuensche (hearty good wishes)." Throughout the nation, newspapers printed huge pictures of Adenauer and praise of his statesmanship.

Hundreds of Germans paid their respects by standing throughout the day in raw winter chill at the entrance to the Chancellery. All mail delivered in Bonn bore a postmark of roses in his honor. Adenauer is a famous rose grower.

It was a great day for the iron-willed man who in six years has piloted West Germany from ruin to recovery and a position of honor in the free world. And Adenauer, despite a head cold, enjoyed every minute of his all-day birthday celebration.

There were congratulatory messages from President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Eden, Soviet Premier Bulgianin, Sir Winston Churchill and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. From Pope Pus XII he received the Vatican's second highest award—the Order of the Golden Spur.

A book and three paintings were sent by President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

Monroney Says Ike May Not Have Seen Key Lee Document

Letter Explained Why He Desired To Keep CAA Post

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) suggested today that President Eisenhower may not have seen a key document in the case before accepting the resignation of Frederick B. Lee as civil aeronautics administrator.

The document was a letter from Lee to the President, setting forth reasons why Lee wanted to retain the CAA office he has held since 1953.

Lee, testifying before a Senate Aviation subcommittee headed by Monroney, has said he was fired by his superiors in the Commerce Department.

Questioned about the letter, Lee said he attached it to a formal letter of resignation which was to become effective if the President so wished after reading the first letter.

Both letters, dated last Dec. 8, were introduced before the committee, which is looking into the possiblity that Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Undersecretary Louis Rothschild attempted to take presidential authority upon themselves in firing Lee, a presidential appointee.

Also introduced was Eisenhower's Dec. 10 reply that "I . . . can only accept your request to be relieved of your duties."

Monroney, meanwhile, submitted legislation to divorce the CAA from the Commerce Department and make it an independent agency. The senator has accused "groundminded" officials of the Commerce Department of attempting through CAA to control the aviation industry.

Monroney asked Lee whether both letters were sent to Eisenhower when he was at Gettysburg, Pa.

Lee said he knew only that both letters were "physically attached" when he took them to the office of presidential assistant Sherman Adams.

Monroney observed that "If the President saw only your second letter, it would have appeared to be a voluntary resignation and he would have had no way of knowing your side of the case."

Maryland's Tourist Business Increases

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 5 (AP)—Maryland's tourist business continued an upward swing in 1955, according to figures announced today by the Department of Information.

Earle R. Poorbaugh, department director, said Ft. McHenry attracted 650,935 visitors in 1955 compared to 605,164 the previous year and the Statehouse drew a record 53,808 compared to 43,542 for 1954.

"From these and other indications, I would guess that our travel business was 10 per cent better than the year before," Poorbaugh added.

He said this was also reflected in increased yields from the gasoline tax and toll bridges.

Poorbaugh's department received 42,173 requests for information on Maryland from travel agencies and other organizations compared to 34,186 in 1954 and mailed out 379,805 pieces of literature compared to 284,491 in the previous year.

President Sees

fears that military power will be reduced. Eisenhower said the budget is approaching a balance "while we continue to strengthen our military security."

"I expect the budget to be in balance," he said, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1956.

Excise Taxes Must Stay

This, he said, will require keeping excise (sales) taxes, on items such as liquor, cigarettes, cars, cosmetics at the present level. It also means, he said, that corporation income taxes, which otherwise would come down April 1, must be held at present rates.

While he bragged a bit about tax reductions in past years, he assessed the prospects for further slashes this way:

"Under conditions of high peacetime prosperity, such as now exist, we can never justify going further into debt to give ourselves a tax cut at the expense of our children. So, in the present state of our financial affairs, I earnestly believe that a tax cut can be deemed justifiable only when it will not unbalance the budget, a budget which makes provision for some reduction, even though modest, in our national debt. In this way we can best maintain fiscal integrity."

Ike Reports U.S. Pace Stepped Up In Missiles Race

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower reported today that the United States has speeded its pace in the race to develop continent-to-continent missiles before Russia does. Such missiles could be armed with hydrogen warheads.

He said, in his State of the Union message, that "the development of long-range missiles has been on an accelerated basis for some time."

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash), chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy, said yesterday "there is reason to believe" that Russia already may have a supersonic missile capable of delivering a hydrogen explosive on a target 1,500 miles away.

Such a missile would be a step toward development of the Inter-Continental Ballistic Missile (ICBM) of 5,000-mile range.

While Eisenhower's statement seemed related to Jackson's comment, the President actually completed work on his State of the Union message last Tuesday.

The message reflected optimism on the state of national defense. "Short of war, we have never had military strength better adapted to our needs with improved readiness for emergency use," he said.

But he cautioned that this would continue to cost money —"the maintenance of this strong military capability for the indefinite future will continue to call for a large share of our national budget."

What does that mean?

Indications are that next year's national spending budget — covering all government operations — may be in the range of 63 to 65 billion dollars.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson recently suggested that Pentagon spending next year probably will be about 35½ billion dollars, up a billion over estimates for this fiscal year's spending. At one time, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey was hoping aloud that the Pentagon could save a billion this year.

These figures do not include expenditures for atomic weapons, which are produced by the Atomic Energy Commission. The exact atomic figures are never disclosed, but they total hundreds of millions for just the fabrication of weapons.

Army Lieutenant Is Found Guilty In Shooting Case

FT. BELVOIR, Va., Jan. 5 (AP)—A nine-officer Army general court martial today convicted 1st Lt. George E. Balcom on four counts, including the Oct. 15 pistol shooting of a blonde government stenographer.

The board deliberated about two hours before returning a verdict in the case of the 32-year-old former company commander from Nashua, N.H.

He was convicted on a charge of assaulting Sylvia V. Miller, 18, of Leesburg, Va., with a pistol with intent to commit murder Oct. 15. The shooting, in which Miss Miller suffered six wounds inflicted by three .22 caliber bullets, took place at a post officers' club.

The court martial also convicted him of aggravated assault in the wounding of a bystander hit by a bullet that night, giving false official information and assaulting Miss Miller last Aug. 27.

The last count was reduced by the board from aggravated assault to a lesser assault.

NBC Reports Rise In TV-Radio Income

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—National Broadcasting Co. reported today it gained a record 34.6 per cent in total gross billings and 22.5 per cent in overall income from its television and radio operations in 1955 as compared with the previous year.

NBC, in a year-end report signed by Sylvester L. Weaver Jr., board chairman, and Robert W. Sarnoff, president, declared it had increased its color TV schedule in 1955 by 500 per cent to 40 hours a month.

The company said it set a new record for the number of advertisers using network television — 231. During the year, it brought 44 new advertisers into network TV, more than all other networks combined, the report said.

Mistinguett, Former Queen Of Paris Music Halls, Dies

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP)—Mistinguett, whose shapely legs and throaty voice made her queen of the Paris music halls for half a century, died today of pneumonia. She was 82.

She suffered a paralytic stroke three weeks ago, but was recovering when pneumonia struck. Her last days were spent in an oxygen tent. Physicians, including her only son, were in constant attendance. She died in her sleep at her brother's home in suburban Bougival.

Mistinguett's career spanned three generations. American soldiers of both world wars remember those fabulous legs that once were insured for three million dollars and never seemed to age.

Mistinguett was adept at the Apache dance, a music hall staple and pranced and sang a variety of routines. She introduced the song "My Man." But her greatest impression on audiences was the number in which, clad largely in ostrich feathers, she descended the stairs of an elaborate Folies Bergere set, flashing the silk-sheathed legs at every step.

Born Jeanne Bourgeois in the town of Montmorency, she already was a top star when she opened at the Folies in 1911, swinging across the stage in a leggy waltz with Maurice Chevalier.

In 1923, she went to the United States and had a grand time among celebrities of the day and was introduced to President Coolidge. But she was not a great success with New York audiences. A second visit to the United States in 1951 after engagements in Canada also was disappointing.

Such a missile would be a step toward development of the Inter-Continental Ballistic Missile (ICBM) of 5,000-mile range.

While Eisenhower's statement seemed related to Jackson's comment, the President actually completed work on his State of the Union message last Tuesday.

The message reflected optimism on the state of national defense. "Short of war, we have never had military strength better adapted to our needs with improved readiness for emergency use," he said.

But he cautioned that this would continue to cost money —"the maintenance of this strong military capability for the indefinite future will continue to call for a large share of our national budget."

What does that mean?

Indications are that next year's national spending budget — covering all government operations — may be in the range of 63 to 65 billion dollars.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson recently suggested that Pentagon spending next year probably will be about 35½ billion dollars, up a billion over estimates for this fiscal year's spending. At one time, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey was hoping aloud that the Pentagon could save a billion this year.

These figures do not include expenditures for atomic weapons, which are produced by the Atomic Energy Commission. The exact atomic figures are never disclosed, but they total hundreds of millions for just the fabrication of weapons.

Army Lieutenant Is Found Guilty In Shooting Case

FT. BELVOIR, Va., Jan. 5 (AP)—A nine-officer Army general court martial today convicted 1st Lt. George E. Balcom on four counts, including the Oct. 15 pistol shooting of a blonde government stenographer.

The board deliberated about two hours before returning a verdict in the case of the 32-year-old former company commander from Nashua, N.H.

He was convicted on a charge of assaulting Sylvia V. Miller, 18, of Leesburg, Va., with a pistol with intent to commit murder Oct. 15. The shooting, in which Miss Miller suffered six wounds inflicted by three .22 caliber bullets, took place at a post officers' club.

The court martial also convicted him of aggravated assault in the wounding of a bystander hit by a bullet that night, giving false official information and assaulting Miss Miller last Aug. 27.

The last count was reduced by the board from aggravated assault to a lesser assault.

Balcom, who had pleaded innocent to all charges against him, faces maximum sentences totaling more than 20 years.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—National Broadcasting Co. reported today it gained a record 34.6 per cent in total gross billings and 22.5 per cent in overall income from its television and radio operations in 1955 as compared with the previous year.

NBC, in a year-end report signed by Sylvester L. Weaver Jr., board chairman, and Robert W. Sarnoff, president, declared it had increased its color TV schedule in 1955 by 500 per cent to 40 hours a month.

The company said it set a new record for the number of advertisers using network television — 231. During the year, it brought 44 new advertisers into network TV, more than all other networks combined, the report said.

Mistinguett, Former Queen Of Paris Music Halls, Dies

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP)—Mistinguett, whose shapely legs and throaty voice made her queen of the Paris music halls for half a century, died today of pneumonia. She was 82.

She suffered a paralytic stroke three weeks ago, but was recovering when pneumonia struck. Her last days were spent in an oxygen tent. Physicians, including her only son, were in constant attendance. She died in her sleep at her brother's home in suburban Bougival.

Mistinguett's career spanned three generations. American soldiers of both world wars remember those fabulous legs that once were insured for three million dollars and never seemed to age.

Mistinguett was adept at the Apache dance, a music hall staple and pranced and sang a variety of routines. She introduced the song "My Man." But her greatest impression on audiences was the number in which, clad largely in ostrich feathers, she descended the stairs of an elaborate Folies Bergere set, flashing the silk-sheathed legs at every step.

Born Jeanne Bourgeois in the town of Montmorency, she already was a top star when she opened at the Folies in 1911, swinging across the stage in a leggy waltz with Maurice Chevalier.

In 1923, she went to the United States and had a grand time among celebrities of the day and was introduced to President Coolidge. But she was not a great success with New York audiences. A second visit to the United States in 1951 after engagements in Canada also was disappointing.

Change In Labor Attitude And Rising Production Is Key To New Argentina

By FRED L. STROZIER

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 5 (AP) — Juan Domingo Peron often boasted that he had built a political organization to last into the next century.

He was overthrown last Sept. 19, and his vaunted machine fell to pieces in little more than two months.

Today Peronism appears to be dead but that does not mean Argentina is one big happy family. The new revolutionary government has great problems. The Communists have become more active. Some people believe a lot of diehard Peronistas are quietly joining forces with the Reds. Old traditional parties that had little freedom under Peron are squabbling for top positions with new parties.

But the army, navy and air force, as victors over Peron, are showing unity in trying to make the revolutionary government a success.

Many changes have occurred since the services toppled Peron from the presidency and sent him into exile.

The schools are teaching the three R's instead of Peronista propaganda. The press has been taken from control of Peron's hired hands and is being given back to independent newspapermen. Politicians who dared to oppose Peron are out of jail, out of hiding, back from exile. Juan Perez, the average man, sips his weak wine-and-soda at the sidewalk cafes and talks politics freely without peering fearfully over his shoulder.

Business is struggling to get back to normal, but it has a long way to go. The most hopeful change on the industrial front is a new attitude on the part of labor, and with it rising production.

That is the key to the story of the new Argentina.

Peron won his way into the presidency in 1946 and fortified his positions by wooing labor. He corrected many inequities, gave the workingman higher wages and in many cases better working conditions, though inflation robbed the worker of much of what he had won. Unions that refused to fall into line were penalized by getting nothing at all, and soon were forced to join Peron's machine. Eventually the General Labor Confederation (CGT) claimed six million members, probably could count on close to five million.

Discipline was rigid. A union rarely dared ask more wages for its members unless the high command first cleared the request at the top. A few hardy unions tried to buck the boss, and Peron showed some new wrinkles in strike breaking and union busting.

The tight labor organization on election day gave Peron big majorities over the gagged and browbeaten opposition. The military uprising of September 1951 was smashed by labor action—truck drivers blocked key centers, workers' sons drafted into the army drained gasoline from tanks and military vehicles.

The first military man to take over from Peron, Gen. Eduardo Lonardi, tried to win labor to his side. Every time old Peronista labor leaders threatened a general strike, he worked out a compromise. They considered his attitude a sign of weakness.

Lonardi was ousted by fellow officers after less than two months. Generals and admirals who pushed him out felt that he had taken too many "totalitarians" into his government.

The provisional government today is mainly a military junta aided by several civilian ministers and an advisory council representing nontotalitarian political parties.

The provisional President, Maj. Gen. Pedro Eugenio Aramburu, in action, as in words, appears to be Peron's opposition.

Aramburu avoids pomp and has chosen to live in a modest residence instead of the presidential estate. Although a career army officer, he never occupied a sensitive command under Peron. He says he is interested only in laying the groundwork for democracy. He speaks simply and unemotionally, in contrast with Peron's fiery oratory.

Labor relations in each big factory are under the eye of an army or navy officer, watching the resurgence of Old Guard pro-Peron leaders.

Aramburu has a hard job to lead the country back from Peronismo. But he has made a start.

Adenauer, Entering 81st Year, Counsels Patience In Seeking Reunited Germany

Editor's Note—Daniel De Luce has been on assignment in Germany for The Associated Press for the last 10 years. He is soon to join the executive staff of The AP in New York. Chancellor Adenauer of Germany talked with De Luce for a half hour in a farewell visit.

By DANIEL DE LUCE

BONN, Germany, Jan. 5 (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, on the eve of his 80th birthday, counseled the German people yesterday to "avoid undue haste" in seeking national reunification.

"Patience and confidence in what is right" will ultimately end Germany's partition, he said.

Disturbed by the French elections, the Chancellor made this guarded comment:

"Nothing can as yet be said about the formation of a government in France. But the great gains of the Communists in France should be very closely noted by all European peoples and also by those of other countries of the free world."

The German leader is entering his 81st year with much concern for the world outlook, though he is confident that his own people will contribute their full share to Western unity and strength in the future.

He received this correspondent in his wide-windowed office in the Palais Schaumburg for a half-hour visit.

Recovered from a siege of bronchial pneumonia, Adenauer is now troubled by a head cold. He is looking forward to sunshine in the Canary Islands, if he can arrange such a vacation in February.

The strain of office, his since the Bonn Republic was established in 1949, is lightened just now by a spontaneous wave of affection throughout West Germany for his 80th birthday. His policies will be submitted to voters next year and the Chancellor is confident that his Christian Democratic Union, which stands for a close alliance with the free world and middle-of-the-road government at home, will be successful at the polls again.

As the Chancellor sees it, patience is an indispensable requirement for Western negotiations with the Soviet Union, above all when knotty issues are involved.

Germany's reunification is his No. 1 goal, but he sees no way to achieve this in peace and freedom other than by first strengthening the West.

At Moscow last September, Premier Nikolai Bulganin told him the Soviet Union would never sacrifice Communist "social achievements" in East Germany. Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov spelled this out at Geneva two months later, demanding in effect Communist domination of both East and West Germany.

Russia now appears to be waiting out the American and German elections in 1956-57. There seems little prospect for serious new negotiations with the Soviet government on the German problem before 1958.

By that time, it is hoped here, the Atlantic Alliance will have demonstrated its ability to weather political readjustments in Europe and to withstand the weakening lure of Soviet-style "peaceful coexistence."

By that time, too, the integration of the new German Wehrmacht into NATO will be considerably advanced. At present only 1,800 German volunteers are under arms.

Last year, Adenauer's countrymen soared to the eights of optimism over quick reunification when Moscow offered diplomatic relations with Bonn—and plunged into gloom when Molotov delivered his "nyet" at Geneva.

Recalling this, the Chancellor said:

"In world political decisions of such importance as the question of the reunification of Germany, a solution cannot be expected from one month to another.

"There must be patience, and the tireless pursuit of the concept of reunification.

"The whole world situation demands of us all that we avoid undue haste, and that we do not diminish our strength by being too hasty.

"Patience and confidence in what is right, in the higher values, in freedom and justice, will lend strength to the efforts to overcome successfully the present tiation.

"It must remain one of the first duties, particularly of the federal government, to keep alive and strengthen the moral forces of our countrymen in the Soviet occupation zone. I believe we shall be successful.

"It is worthy of note that young people, in particular, are coming over to the (West German) Federal Republic in large numbers, because they are no longer able to endure the conditions in the Soviet zone."

Movie Moral Ratings

BRUSSELS, Jan. 5 (AP)—Belgian movie-goers now can get moral ratings of films by calling the Catholic Movie Review Board. Sample judgements: Walt Disney's "The Lady and The Tramp"—suitable for anyone, recommended; "On The Waterfront"—for adults, recommended; "Female on The Beach"—inadvisable; "The French Line"—unsuitable.

Ham Fisher Estate Set At $2½ Million

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — Ham Fisher, creator of "Joe Palooka," left an estate estimated at 2½ million dollars, his will revealed today. A cryptic paragraph said the will was not to be affected by any "subsequent birth of a child or children said to be mine."

The comic strip cartoonist left the legal minimum to his second wife, Marilyn. The rest went to his 17-year-old daughter by his first marriage, Wendy. The will was filed for probate yesterday.

Fisher, 54, committed suicide in a friend's Manhattan studio Dec. 27. He left notes that spoke of failing eyesight and diabetes.

Fisher married his second wife in April 1954. No children have been born to them.

His will left her $2,500 in cash and the income from one-third of his estate for the rest of her life—the least he could do under New York State law. Because of the size of the estate, this will amount to a considerable sum.

Wendy is to receive the income from the remaining two-thirds. On the death of the wife, her third is to revert to Wendy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Department of Agriculture says hybrid lambs "promise ranchers increased efficiency in the production of meat and wool."

Durocher To Star In New TV Variety Show Sunday

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4 (AP) — Leo Durocher, figuring that Ed Sullivan can't be any tougher than Casey Stengel, goes before the cameras next Sunday as the star of an expensive variety show.

The former New York Giants manager, hired by NBC as a $50,000-a-year executive, switches to performer to act as master of ceremonies of the "Comedy Hour"—a new series replacing the "Colgate Variety Hour" which rival CBS' Ed Sullivan knocked off the air in a battle of ratings. The two shows are on at the same hour.

"This game pays better than baseball," Durocher told an interviewer, "only the hours aren't as good."

And he admits he has doubts about his future.

NBC wanted to sign him for 14 shows. Durocher would sign only for three.

"We'll see how it goes," he said. "If they yank me after three—or I want to yank myself—then we're not tied down with contracts."

He plans some innovations.

"There will be guys hawking popcorn and peanuts in the aisle and all members of the orchestra will wear numbers on their backs."

Adenauer, Entering 81st Year, Counsels Patience In Seeking Reunited Germany

Editor's Note—Daniel De Luce has been on assignment in Germany for The Associated Press for the last 10 years. He is soon to join the executive staff of The AP in New York. Chancellor Adenauer of Germany talked with De Luce for a half hour in a farewell visit.

By DANIEL DE LUCE

BONN, Germany, Jan. 5 (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, on the eve of his 80th birthday, counseled the German people yesterday to "avoid undue haste" in seeking national reunification.

"Patience and confidence in what is right" will ultimately end Germany's partition, he said.

Disturbed by the French elections, the Chancellor made this guarded comment:

"Nothing can as yet be said about the formation of a government in France. But the great gains of the Communists in France should be very closely noted by all European peoples and also by those of other countries of the free world."

The German leader is entering his 81st year with much concern for the world outlook, though he is confident that his own people will contribute their full share to Western unity and strength in the future.

He received this correspondent in his wide-windowed office in the Palais Schaumburg for a half-hour visit.

Recovered from a siege of bronchial pneumonia, Adenauer is now troubled by a head cold. He is looking forward to sunshine in the Canary Islands, if he can arrange such a vacation in February.

The strain of office, his since the Bonn Republic was established in 1949, is lightened just now by a spontaneous wave of affection throughout West Germany for his 80th birthday. His policies will be submitted to voters next year and the Chancellor is confident that his Christian Democratic Union, which stands for a close alliance with the free world and middle-of-the-road government at home, will be successful at the polls again.

As the Chancellor sees it, patience is an indispensable requirement for Western negotiations with the Soviet Union, above all when knotty issues are involved.

Germany's reunification is his No. 1 goal, but he sees no way to achieve this in peace and freedom other than by first strengthening the West.

At Moscow last September, Premier Nikolai Bulganin told him the Soviet Union would never sacrifice Communist "social achievements" in East Germany. Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov spelled this out at Geneva two months later, demanding in effect Communist domination of both East and West Germany.

Russia now appears to be waiting out the American and German elections in 1956-57. There seems little prospect for serious new negotiations with the Soviet government on the German problem before 1958.

By that time, it is hoped here, the Atlantic Alliance will have demonstrated its ability to weather political readjustments in Europe and to withstand the weakening lure of Soviet-style "peaceful coexistence."

By that time, too, the integration of the new German Wehrmacht into NATO will be considerably advanced. At present only 1,800 German volunteers are under arms.

Last year, Adenauer's countrymen soared to the eights of optimism over quick reunification when Moscow offered diplomatic relations with Bonn—and plunged into gloom when Molotov delivered his "nyet" at Geneva.

Recalling this, the Chancellor said:

"In world political decisions of such importance as the question of the reunification of Germany, a solution cannot be expected from one month to another.

"There must be patience, and the tireless pursuit of the concept of reunification.

"The whole world situation demands of us all that we avoid undue haste, and that we do not diminish our strength by being too hasty.

"Patience and confidence in what is right, in the higher values, in freedom and justice, will lend strength to the efforts to overcome successfully the present tiation.

"It must remain one of the first duties, particularly of the federal government, to keep alive and strengthen the moral forces of our countrymen in the Soviet occupation zone. I believe we shall be successful.

"It is worthy of note that young people, in particular, are coming over to the (West German) Federal Republic in large numbers, because they are no longer able to endure the conditions in the Soviet zone."

Movie Moral Ratings

BRUSSELS, Jan. 5 (AP)—Belgian movie-goers now can get moral ratings of films by calling the Catholic Movie Review Board. Sample judgements: Walt Disney's "The Lady and The Tramp"—suitable for anyone, recommended; "On The Waterfront"—for adults, recommended; "Female on The Beach"—inadvisable; "The French Line"—unsuitable.

Ham Fisher Estate Set At $2½ Million

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — Ham Fisher, creator of "Joe Palooka," left an estate estimated at 2½ million dollars, his will revealed today. A cryptic paragraph said the will was not to be affected by any "subsequent birth of a child or children said to be mine."

The comic strip cartoonist left the legal minimum to his second wife, Marilyn. The rest went to his 17-year-old daughter by his first marriage, Wendy. The will was filed for probate yesterday.

Fisher, 54, committed suicide in a friend's Manhattan studio Dec. 27. He left notes that spoke of failing eyesight and diabetes.

Fisher married his second wife in April 1954. No children have been born to them.

His will left her $2,500 in cash and the income from one-third of his estate for the rest of her life—the least he could do under New York State law. Because of the size of the estate, this will amount to a considerable sum.

Wendy is to receive the income from the remaining two-thirds. On the death of the wife, her third is to revert to Wendy.

Hybrid Lambs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Department of Agriculture says hybrid lambs "promise ranchers increased efficiency in the production of meat and wool."

According to the department, the lambs—"some of which have been developed at USDA's agriculture research center, Beltsville, Md."—have "far outclassed their parent stock in production and in reduced mortality."

Durocher To Star In New TV Variety Show Sunday

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4 (AP) — Leo Durocher, figuring that Ed Sullivan can't be any tougher than Casey Stengel, goes before the cameras next Sunday as the star of an expensive variety show.

The former New York Giants manager, hired by NBC as a $50,000-a-year executive, switches to performer to act as master of ceremonies of the "Comedy Hour"—a new series replacing the "Colgate Variety Hour" which rival CBS' Ed Sullivan knocked off the air in a battle of ratings. The two shows are on at the same hour.

"This game pays better than baseball," Durocher told an interviewer, "only the hours aren't as good."

And he admits he has doubts about his future.

NBC wanted to sign him for 14 shows. Durocher would sign only for three.

"We'll see how it goes," he said. "If they yank me after three—or I want to yank myself—then we're not tied down with contracts."

He plans some innovations.

"There will be guys hawking popcorn and peanuts in the aisle and all members of the orchestra will wear numbers on their backs."

Idea Of Communicating Faith By Telephone Is Spreading Like Wind All Across Country

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Telephone lines in dozens of cities are humming with religious messages—night and day.

All across the country, the idea of communicating faith by phone has been spreading like the wind.

In several cities, circuits have been jammed and knocked out of commission temporarily by the flood of callers.

"We cut our messages from one minute to 30 seconds to give more people a chance to hear them," said the Rev. J. Herbert Garner, of First Presbyterian Church, Battle Creek, Mich., after the new service became swamped.

When the East Cleveland (Ohio) Congregational Church recently started its "Dial-a-Prayer" program, the traffic overload crippled an entire exchange and forced the church to run extra lines to 10 answering machines.

"It was just unbelievable," said the Rev. Earle C. Hockwald, pastor.

The projects use various names, such as "Telephone Ministry," "Prayer Phone," "Dial-a-Devotional," "Prayer of the Day," and "Inspiration, Please."

The Trinity Temple Methodist Church, Louisville, Ky., recently began its service with one machina, quickly had to put in seven others to take the calls—up to 1,000 an hour.

A pioneer of the plan was Los Angeles' Christ Memorial Church, whose "Dialathought" was begun Sept. 15, 1952.

Says the Rev. Herbert Schneider, pastor: "It's a means of helping people refocus on real values in the midst of everyday problems."

Late in 1954, the Community Congregational Church, of Chula Vista, Calif., picked up the plan. Since then, dozens of churches have done so.

Mission houses, YMCA's and other organizations also have installed automatic speaking devices, and sent out an almost unceasing flow of words of comfort and hope to all who call.

"There seems to be a great hunger among people for good thoughts," said F. W. Stahl, who records the Baltimore YMCA's "Inspiration" messages heard by an average of about 5,000 people each day.

Some of the recorded messages—a minute or half minute in length—include Scripture verses or religious quotations, with brief commentaries. Others use only a prayer, composed so as to have wide application.

"There are so many people who would like someone to pray with them in times of stress or great need, but who would hesitate to ask for that help," said Emma H. Conboy, secretary of First Presbyterian Church, Orlando, Fla.

Most of the telephone services are kept working almost full time. Often it takes several tries to get past a busy signal. The same heavy duty goes on, whether it's noon or midnight.

The YMCA in Paterson, N.J., reported its three answering machines will handle about 900 calls an hour, and they're kept buzzing most of the time.

Equipment used is the same as that which provides automatic time or weather information. By turning a knob to one position, a message can be recorded, then to another position for automatic answering.

The messages are changed daily, or twice daily.

The machines, about the size of a portable typewriter, were developed by American Telephone and Telegraph Co. in 1946. Churches rent them from local utility systems for about $12 a month each.

ROME, Jan. 5 (AP)—Renato Raschel, pint-size comic, is leaving on a world tour Jan. 15 that will take a total of 321 hours and features one-night stands. He said profits would go to Italian children's charities.

Canadian Highway

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (AP) — Federal Works Minister Robert Winter plans to ask the new Canadian Parliament for 250 instead of 150 million dollars to finance 90 per cent of the gap-closing operations for completion of the trans-Canada highway in the next four years. Provinces would put up 10 per cent for completion of the 4,580-mile federal highway project. Other road building will be paid for 50-50.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Department of Labor reports that "union wage scales for time-rated local truck drivers advanced an average of 11 cents an hour in the 12 months ending July 1, 1955." As of that date, the hourly wage scales for local drivers averaged $2.09.

U.S. Discouraging Casual Travel Into Red East Berlin

BERLIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—U.S. authorities are discouraging casual travel into Communist East Berlin an effort to avoid incidents that might feed the Red propaganda mill.

Orders have gone out, it was learned today, requiring soldiers to notify their commanding officer if they intend to visit the East sector. Officers are required to notify their superiors.

Visitors here on leave or temporary duty are given written instructions pointing out that the command discourages visits to the Soviet sector unless on guided tours which are conducted three times a week.

The new U.S. orders were issued after two recent incidents, both involving American soldiers.

Two Americans were arrested by the East Berlin Communist police after one of them struck a German cabaret performer who was shouting that "American swine" had no business on "sovereign" East German territory. The Communists demanded German trials but the Russians turned the men back to U.S. custody.

D. John Markey To Begin Active Campaign Soon

FREDERICK, Jan. 5 (AP) — D. John Markey, retired Army general making his third try for the U.S. Senate, said today he is about recovered from an October automobile accident and expects to begin active campaigning in mid-February.

The 72-year-old Republican is the only GOP candidate who has filed for the Senate seat now held by John Marshall Butler, who has said he will seek reelection.

Markey was injured Oct. 10 at Salisbury and was laid up for some time, including seven weeks in traction. Many political observers had speculated that the accident might cause Markey to withdraw from the race.

But the retired brigadier general, who served in the Spanish-American War and both world wars, said he is still "very much in the campaign."

He said he did not consider the accident a handicap to his campaign, that he had made a number of contacts before the mishap and had seen numerous other persons during his convalescence.

The announcement yesterday that Rep. James P. S. Devereux of the Second District would seek reelection and a statement by Rep. Edward T. Miller of the First District that he "probably" will do likewise, removed two Republicans from Butler's path to nomination for a second term in the Senate.

Butler just narrowly beat Markey for the GOP nomination in 1950. Markey won the popular vote by a margin of 1,889 but lost out in Maryland's unit count vote.

In 1946, Markey won the Republican nomination but lost in the general election to Democrat Sen. Herbert R. O'Conor, who polled 1,624 more votes.

D.C. Stream Pollution Study Is Advocated

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Rep. Broyhill (R-Va) today introduced a bill in the House asking $250,000 for a study of metropolitan Washington stream pollution and 10 million dollars for sewage treatment plant construction.

The study would be undertaken by the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin.

It would take in the pollution problems of Prince Georges and Montgomery counties in Maryland, the District of Columbia, Alexandria, Falls Church and Fairfax and Arlington counties in Virginia.

Broyhill said the study would try to develop a "comprehensive master plan designed to end pollution in the Potomac River in the metropolitan Washington area."

As a stop-gap measure, the surgeon general would be authorized to make grants totaling 10 million dollars to build sewage treatment plants while the study is in progress.

This money would be available to the states and their political subdivisions, as well as the District of Columbia. Each political jurisdiction would be entitled to grants not exceeding 60 per cent of the cost of the treatment plants.

Union Station Train Wreck Suits Filed

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—Three damage suits, asking $35,000 each, were filed in Federal Court today against the Pennsylvania Railroad as a result of a train wreck in Washington's Union Station three years ago.

The suits, filed by Amos I. Meyers, Baltimore lawyer, allege negligence and carelessness on the part of railroad employes and a defective braking system on the engine which plowed through the terminal gates and dropped through the floor of the main concourse Jan. 15, 1953.

The plaintiffs ask damages for bodily injuries, loss of time from work and medical expenses.

The suits were brought by Kay H. Hand, Washington; Edwin Reisman, Silver Spring, and Victor Braffman, Baltimore.

MANAGER TOLD TO CLEAR OUT

It came as no surprise. He had been expecting this to happen, but even so, Mr. Mack, manager of the Peoples Store, held his breath as he tore open the envelope from New York. The neatly typed letter from the Home Office said simply and emphatically . . . "Mr Mack, clear out . . . and clear out fast!"

There was not much he could do about it . . . there was no way out . . . orders must be followed and so he got ready as best he could.

Breaks News To Sales Staff

Mr. Mack assembled the Peoples Store's employees and told them of the turn of events. To impress upon them its full significance, he read the entire letter aloud . . . "Clear out and clear out fast! We want empty shelves . . . all 1955 merchandise must be sold to make room for smart new 1956 apparel.

"Reduce prices! Relax credit terms! Do everything you think advisable, but sell every bit of merchandise you have. We want this to be the greatest clearance sale in history."

And so with these instructions in mind, Mr. Mack has launched the Peoples Store's terrific clearance sale. Everyone is invited. Buy now and save plenty. Pay later on easy credit terms. The Peoples Store is located at 34 N. Centre St.

Mahoney Claims Support Of Another Big Demo Bloc

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—George P. Mahoney tonight claimed the support of another big bloc of county Democratic leaders in his quest for the party's nomination for U.S. Senate. Mahoney said he had the endorsement of 21 Democratic leaders in Howard County.

It was the third such mass endorsement announced by Mahoney headquarters within the week. Similar announcements from Carroll and Harford County leaders were produced earlier.

Mahoney is the only active and announced Democratic candidate for the Senate seat now held by Sen. John Marshall Butler, a Republican.

The Howard County statement that Mahoney has "earned the support of a united Democratic Party" was signed by six members of the county's State Central Committee and a number of other party leaders and office holders, including:

Delegate W. Howard Brown; Mrs. Gertrude M. Carter, Central Maryland chairman of the United Democratic Women's Clubs; E. Walter Scott, president of the county board of commissioners, and Norman E. Moxley, a member of the board.

State Central Committee members who signed included Chairman Jerome A. Loughran of Ellicott City, William B. Dorsey of Sykesville, Louis M. Brown of Simpsonville, Howard J. Bauman of Elkridge, John J. Votta of Ellicott City, and Raymond E. White of Savage.

Presentment Charges Cop Accepted Bribe

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—Charles Simms, Negro patrolman, was presented by the Baltimore Grand Jury today on a charge of accepting a $10 bribe from a motorist.

Simms said he took the money as a Christmas gift, Dec. 24.

The patrolman was freed on $1,500 bail.

Miss Evelyn Murray, said to have been with Borman in the automobile Simms stopped, has been held in jail as a state's witness. Judge John T. Tucker set her bail at $100.

Smith Gets 10 Years For Manslaughter

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 5 (AP)—Anthony Edward Smith, 39-year-old civilian employe at Andrews Air Force Base, has been sentenced to 10 years in prison for manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Alexander Kelly, 36, of Drury, Md.

Circuit Judge Benjamin Michaelson sentenced Smith to a maximum term after a jury convicted him late last night.

Smith testified that Kelly was shot accidentally while Smith was trying to break up a fight between him and Charles (Little Charlie) Livingstone during a party at the Smith home. Smith said he hit Livingstone on the head with a pistol and the weapon fired. A bullet from it struck Kelly in the chest.

The body was dumped in the Patuxent River. When it was recovered a week later, police thought Kelly had been a drowning victim until medical examination disclosed a bullet wound.

Employe Of Dairy Is Killed By Truck

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—Joseph R. Day, 53-year-old employe of the Western Maryland Dairy, was run over and killed by a truck today at the dairy's unloading area.

Edward Baumgardner of Taneytown, another employe, said he was turning his empty tank truck away from the unloading area and did not see Day until he heard a shout and found the man's body under the truck.

Fruit Production Increase Urged

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 5 (AP)—Fruit growers in the Maryland area were urged today to increase production and step up their advertising.

William C. Main, president of the State Horticultural Society, told the group at its annual convention here advertising was necessary to better business.

"Educating the public as to the use, quality and value of apples is a business essential," said Main.

"While we are putting so much work into growing better apples, why not put more money into advertising?"

Sam R. Levering, a grower from Ararat, Va., gave the convention some tips on increasing production, which he said averages about 175 bushels per acre in this area, compared with 500 in the State of Washington.

Although the Maryland area has less favorable frost, sunshine and frost conditions, said Levering, growers could boost production by such steps as using milder fungicides and pruning young trees lightly so they would get into production earlier.

The convention, which ends tomorrow, drew about 200 delegates from Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Mahoney Claims Support Of Another Big Demo Bloc

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—George P. Mahoney tonight claimed the support of another big bloc of county Democratic leaders in his quest for the party's nomination for U.S. Senate. Mahoney said he had the endorsement of 21 Democratic leaders in Howard County.

It was the third such mass endorsement announced by Mahoney headquarters within the week. Similar announcements from Carroll and Harford County leaders were produced earlier.

Mahoney is the only active and announced Democratic candidate for the Senate seat now held by Sen. John Marshall Butler, a Republican.

The Howard County statement that Mahoney has "earned the support of a united Democratic Party" was signed by six members of the county's State Central Committee and a number of other party leaders and office holders, including:

Delegate W. Howard Brown; Mrs. Gertrude M. Carter, Central Maryland chairman of the United Democratic Women's Clubs; E. Walter Scott, president of the county board of commissioners, and Norman E. Moxley, a member of the board.

State Central Committee members who signed included Chairman Jerome A. Loughran of Ellicott City, William B. Dorsey of Sykesville, Louis M. Brown of Simpsonville, Howard J. Bauman of Elkridge, John J. Votta of Ellicott City, and Raymond E. White of Savage.

Presentment Charges Cop Accepted Bribe

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—Charles Simms, Negro patrolman, was presented by the Baltimore Grand Jury today on a charge of accepting a $10 bribe from a motorist.

Simms said he took the money as a Christmas gift, Dec. 24.

The patrolman was freed on $1,500 bail.

Miss Evelyn Murray, said to have been with Borman in the automobile Simms stopped, has been held in jail as a state's witness. Judge John T. Tucker set her bail at $100.

Smith Gets 10 Years For Manslaughter

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 5 (AP)—Anthony Edward Smith, 39-year-old civilian employe at Andrews Air Force Base, has been sentenced to 10 years in prison for manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Alexander Kelly, 36, of Drury, Md.

Circuit Judge Benjamin Michaelson sentenced Smith to a maximum term after a jury convicted him late last night.

Smith testified that Kelly was shot accidentally while Smith was trying to break up a fight between him and Charles (Little Charlie) Livingstone during a party at the Smith home. Smith said he hit Livingstone on the head with a pistol and the weapon fired. A bullet from it struck Kelly in the chest.

The body was dumped in the Patuxent River. When it was recovered a week later, police thought Kelly had been a drowning victim until medical examination disclosed a bullet wound.

Employe Of Dairy Is Killed By Truck

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—Joseph R. Day, 53-year-old employe of the Western Maryland Dairy, was run over and killed by a truck today at the dairy's unloading area.

Edward Baumgardner of Taneytown, another employe, said he was turning his empty tank truck away from the unloading area and did not see Day until he heard a shout and found the man's body under the truck.

Fruit Production Increase Urged

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 5 (AP)—Fruit growers in the Maryland area were urged today to increase production and step up their advertising.

William C. Main, president of the State Horticultural Society, told the group at its annual convention here advertising was necessary to better business.

"Educating the public as to the use, quality and value of apples is a business essential," said Main.

"While we are putting so much work into growing better apples, why not put more money into advertising?"

Sam R. Levering, a grower from Ararat, Va., gave the convention some tips on increasing production, which he said averages about 175 bushels per acre in this area, compared with 500 in the State of Washington.

Although the Maryland area has less favorable frost, sunshine and frost conditions, said Levering, growers could boost production by such steps as using milder fungicides and pruning young trees lightly so they would get into production earlier.

The convention, which ends tomorrow, drew about 200 delegates from Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Awareness Of Blind

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Last year saw "a greater public awareness and concern for the welfare of the blind" as well as scientific advances, a report of the American Foundation for the Blind says.

The report by Robert Barnett, executive director of the foundation, also predicted the greatest advances in 1956 would be in new methods of making talking books, a survey of libraries for the blind, public education, and better personnel and service.

1955 Rainfall Was 1.77 Inches Above Normal Here

Rainfall in Cumberland was 1.77 inches above average last year, but most of it fell in three months, according to records kept by R. R. Golden, Weather Bureau observer here.

The total precipitation was 36.42 inches, as compared to the normal rainfall total of 34.62 inches.

In 1954, 40.24 inches was recorded and in 1953, there were 37.02 inches.

During the past year, most of the rain fell during March, June and August.

The 6.31 inches in March, 7.27 inches in June, and 5.93 in August amounted to 19.51 inches, or 53.5 per cent of the year's total.

As a matter of record, the 7.27 inches in the month of June is the most that fell in any month for the past three years.

The year started and ended with months of little precipitation, January having only .26 of an inch and December .3 of an inch.

Golden said the three-tenths of an inch last month is the smallest amount of rainfall for any December in his records, which go back to the first of the century.

Seven months fell below the average—January, May, July, September, October, November and December.

The month having the most rainfall above its average was March which had 3.31 inches above normal.

Few School Absences Attributed To Measles

Despite many reports of measles reaching epidemic proportions among local students, a check of public and parochial schools yesterday revealed absenteeism due to the disease as practically nonexistent, except in three schools.

The greatest number of students out of school with measles was reported at SS. Peter and Paul's where 85 were reported to be in various stages of the disease.

Johnson Heights reported approximately 50 students absent, with most of the number believed to be suffering from measles, and Pennsylvania Avenue School had 44 students out, the majority of them believed to have measles.

School officials in some cases reported heavier than usual absenteeism, but said it apparently is the result of virus infection. The majority of schools reported low or normal absenteeism. Individual cases of measles were reported in several schools, and some principals said they had heard of the disease striking students during the Christmas holiday period.

Health Department personnel said few cases of measles had been officially reported, adding that in some cases the spots might be caused by chicken pox or some other disease with similar symptoms.

Man Guilty In Theft Of Auto

Theodore O. Bennett, 41, Ambridge, Pa., yesterday was found guilty of car theft by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Sentence of Bennett was withheld by Judge Harris pending a check of the man's background by David M. Steele, state probation officer.

Judge Harris said Bennett has not been in any trouble since 1943 but prior to that time had been guilty of larceny of a car, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and failing to stop after an accident. Bennett also spent some time in institutions after nervous breakdowns, the court said.

Bennett took a car owned by Edward R. Shilling on November 18. The machine was valued at $200.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

WASHINGTON—Details of a new program designed to keep homes from slipping into the construction world's "Skid Row" will be released here within the next few weeks.

Until now, the plan has been kept under somewhat loose wraps while being discussed by representatives of industry, labor and the government. But soon the nation will get a public, top-level invitation to pitch in on "Operation Home Improvement."

The slogan for the campaign will be:

" '56 — The Year to Fix."

Rotten Apples

Behind the undertaking is the old idea that one rotten apple can spoil the barrel.

Likewise, according to the promoters of "Operation Home Improvement," a single slum residence can eventually spoil a street, a neighborhood, or an entire community.

As soon as the project is launched officially I will be able to report on how it will affect specific areas of Maryland, but in the meantime I can give you some idea of its national importance.

The Federal Housing Administration, which is the No. 1 backer of the undertaking, estimates that 1,000,000 homes deteriorate into the slum category each year.

There are also figures showing that approximately 30,000,000 of the homes in the United States have not been painted during the last 10 years.

Homes, in this respect, are a lot like many women; they not only look and feel better after a little sprucing up, but they also help freshen the spirits of those around them.

Repairs Called For

Consequently, the FHA will encourage homeowners to "fight blight" in every city, town and community by fixing up places which are succumbing to time and wear.

The nationwide campaign will have a good start, according to the FHA, since records show that the rate of home repairs is already rivaling the booming construction rate.

As a member of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, to which the FHA reports, I have been extremely interested in such programs, and I intend to do everything possible to aid in the success of the coming operation.

1955 Rainfall Was 1.77 Inches Above Normal Here

Rainfall in Cumberland was 1.77 inches above average last year, but most of it fell in three months, according to records kept by R. R. Golden, Weather Bureau observer here.

The total precipitation was 36.42 inches, as compared to the normal rainfall total of 34.62 inches.

In 1954, 40.24 inches was recorded and in 1953, there were 37.02 inches.

During the past year, most of the rain fell during March, June and August.

The 6.31 inches in March, 7.27 inches in June, and 5.93 in August amounted to 19.51 inches, or 53.5 per cent of the year's total.

As a matter of record, the 7.27 inches in the month of June is the most that fell in any month for the past three years.

The year started and ended with months of little precipitation, January having only .26 of an inch and December .3 of an inch.

Golden said the three-tenths of an inch last month is the smallest amount of rainfall for any December in his records, which go back to the first of the century.

Seven months fell below the average—January, May, July, September, October, November and December.

The month having the most rainfall above its average was March which had 3.31 inches above normal.

Few School Absences Attributed To Measles

Despite many reports of measles reaching epidemic proportions among local students, a check of public and parochial schools yesterday revealed absenteeism due to the disease as practically nonexistent, except in three schools.

The greatest number of students out of school with measles was reported at SS. Peter and Paul's where 85 were reported to be in various stages of the disease.

Johnson Heights reported approximately 50 students absent, with most of the number believed to be suffering from measles, and Pennsylvania Avenue School had 44 students out, the majority of them believed to have measles.

School officials in some cases reported heavier than usual absenteeism, but said it apparently is the result of virus infection. The majority of schools reported low or normal absenteeism. Individual cases of measles were reported in several schools, and some principals said they had heard of the disease striking students during the Christmas holiday period.

Health Department personnel said few cases of measles had been officially reported, adding that in some cases the spots might be caused by chicken pox or some other disease with similar symptoms.

Man Guilty In Theft Of Auto

Theodore O. Bennett, 41, Ambridge, Pa., yesterday was found guilty of car theft by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Sentence of Bennett was withheld by Judge Harris pending a check of the man's background by David M. Steele, state probation officer.

Judge Harris said Bennett has not been in any trouble since 1943 but prior to that time had been guilty of larceny of a car, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and failing to stop after an accident. Bennett also spent some time in institutions after nervous breakdowns, the court said.

Bennett took a car owned by Edward R. Shilling on November 18. The machine was valued at $200.

Chosen Friends Lodge To Install Officers

The newly-elected officers of Chosen Friends Lodge 34, IOOF, will be installed in a ceremony today at 7:30 p. m. at Odd Fellows Temple, South Mechanic Street, by an installing staff with T. Ralph Croyle, district deputy grand master, in charge.

The new noble grand, LeRoy Klingler, will present his program for the year and make his appointments of officers to serve with him during the term.

Refreshments will be served by Cloyd O'Neal and his committee.

First signal transmitted by wireless was the letter "S"—three dots.

Senate Cloakroom
by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

WASHINGTON—Details of a new program designed to keep homes from slipping into the construction world's "Skid Row" will be released here within the next few weeks.

Until now, the plan has been kept under somewhat loose wraps while being discussed by representatives of industry, labor and the government. But soon the nation will get a public, top-level invitation to pitch in on "Operation Home Improvement."

The slogan for the campaign will be:

" '56 — The Year to Fix."

Rotten Apples

Behind the undertaking is the old idea that one rotten apple can spoil the barrel.

Likewise, according to the promoters of "Operation Home Improvement," a single slum residence can eventually spoil a street, a neighborhood, or an entire community.

As soon as the project is launched officially I will be able to report on how it will affect specific areas of Maryland, but in the meantime I can give you some idea of its national importance.

The Federal Housing Administration, which is the No. 1 backer of the undertaking, estimates that 1,000,000 homes deteriorate into the slum category each year.

There are also figures showing that approximately 30,000,000 of the homes in the United States have not been painted during the last 10 years.

Homes, in this respect, are a lot like many women; they not only look and feel better after a little sprucing up, but they also help freshen the spirits of those around them.

Repairs Called For

Consequently, the FHA will encourage homeowners to "fight blight" in every city, town and community by fixing up places which are succumbing to time and wear.

The nationwide campaign will have a good start, according to the FHA, since records show that the rate of home repairs is already rivaling the booming construction rate.

As a member of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, to which the FHA reports, I have been extremely interested in such programs, and I intend to do everything possible to aid in the success of the coming operation.

Ryan To Decide On Political Plans Soon

May Seek Hyde's Post In Congress

Edward J. Ryan, Cumberland and Frostburg attorney, yesterday said he will make up his mind in a few days as to whether he will run for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Sixth Maryland District.

He made the announcement after J. Graham Walker, 56-year-old Rockville lawyer, threw his hat in the ring for the Democratic nomination.

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde, the Bethesda Republican who represents this district, also filed for re-election.

Ryan in 1952 defeated Charles M. Irelan, of Silver Spring, but lost to Rep. Hyde. It is reported Irelan will not seek the Democratic nomination as it is said that he is content with his present position as Montgomery County attorney, and would be disinclined to give it up except, perhaps, to be a contender for one of the two Circuit Court judgeships that will be vacant next year.

Rep. Hyde won in 1952 over Mrs. Stella Werner, also of Montgomery County.

Although candidates have until February 27 to file, the political pot is beginning to boil.

One congressman who might have been a would-be senator has decided to stay put and a colleague indicates he'll do likewise, thereby averting a multi-pronged Republican primary race for the Senate nomination.

Sen. John Marshall Butler, who holds the seat, is expected to try again. The only opposition to date comes from D. John Markey of Frederick, 72-year-old retired Army general who has formally filed for the nomination.

There has been speculation Rep. James P. S. Devereux of the Second District and Rep. Edward T. Miller of the First District might oppose Butler for the GOP nomination.

But Devereux, a retired Marine brigadier general, said Wednesday he'll seek re-election. Miller said he probably will, too, although he indicated he hasn't made up his mind yet.

Butler is winding up his first Senate term. He narrowly won the Republican nomination in 1950 over Markey who polled 1,889 more popular votes but lost out in the unit vote count.

Markey made another try for the Senate in 1946, winning the GOP nomination but losing to Democrat Herbert O'Conor in the general election by 1,624 votes.

In other political developments:

Top State GOP leaders, including Senators Butler and Beall and Gov. McKeldin, met in Baltimore Wednesday to launch the ticket sale for the $100-a-plate fund raising dinner set for Jan. 20 in Baltimore.

The dinner is one of a series being held in the country on the third anniversary of President Eisenhower's inauguration.

Former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will speak.

Anne Arundel County Democrats get together Jan. 18 for a dinner at which several leading Democrats will speak.

Speakers include George P. Mahoney, seeking the Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate; J. Millard Tawes, Maryland comptroller, who could be a gubernatorial candidate next election; and Rep. Richard E. Lankford (D)Md) seeking re-election in the Fifth Congressional District.

Ketchum Named To PPG Position

PITTSBURGH — Appointment of Paul A. Ketchum as manager of safety glass sales for Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company has been announced by D. C. Burnham, vice president, merchandising division.

In his new capacity Ketchum succeeds William J. Miller who has resigned recently. Prior to his appointment, Ketchum had served as assistant to the president of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company during the past year.

Associated with Pittsburgh Plate since he joined the firm as a student trainee in 1931, Ketchum has since held supervisory sales positions in the merchandising division's distributing branches at Louisville, Columbus and Toledo, Ohio. He transferred to Pittsburgh in 1945 as assistant general manager of the company's merchandising division, and seven years later became manager of trade sales, glass division.

A native of Quincy, Mass., Ketchum received a bachelor of arts degree from Harvard University where he specialized in government and economics.

Nine More Truckers Are Arrested

In an effort to keep the streets of Cumberland clean, City Police are continuing their drive against truckers who have been hauling trash through the city without a cover or canvas on their trucks.

Wednesday's patrol resulted in nine truckers being arrested for violation of Chapter 24, Section 2 of the City Code, which states that persons hauling trash or garbage should have a cover over the vehicles.

Last Friday local authorities arrested six persons on the Oldtown Road for violation of the law. Tuesday, six more truckers were nabbed by City Police, and this was followed by the nine arrested yesterday on the Oldtown Road.

Several complaints have been received recently from residents of the Oldtown Road section concerning the matter.

Each trucker is required to post a $5 bond for hearings in Police Court.

Arrested Wednesday were Gaetond O. Rocca, 47 North Mechanic Street; Charles D. Mathews, 137 Reynolds Street; Herman D. Davis, 726 Bedford Street; Baker D. Brelsford, RD 2, Keyser; Edward R. Seaders, 133 North Mechanic Street; John J. Herboldsheimer, 247 North Centre Street; Dorsey W. Robinson, 319 Laing Avenue; Clyde W. Holler, 208 Springdale Street, and Edwin G. Ryan To Decide On Political Plans Soon

May Seek Hyde's Post In Congress

Edward J. Ryan, Cumberland and Frostburg attorney, yesterday said he will make up his mind in a few days as to whether he will run for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Sixth Maryland District.

He made the announcement after J. Graham Walker, 56-year-old Rockville lawyer, threw his hat in the ring for the Democratic nomination.

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde, the Bethesda Republican who represents this district, also filed for re-election.

Ryan in 1952 defeated Charles M. Irelan, of Silver Spring, but lost to Rep. Hyde. It is reported Irelan will not seek the Democratic nomination as it is said that he is content with his present position as Montgomery County attorney, and would be disinclined to give it up except, perhaps, to be a contender for one of the two Circuit Court judgeships that will be vacant next year.

Rep. Hyde won in 1952 over Mrs. Stella Werner, also of Montgomery County.

Although candidates have until February 27 to file, the political pot is beginning to boil.

One congressman who might have been a would-be senator has decided to stay put and a colleague indicates he'll do likewise, thereby averting a multi-pronged Republican primary race for the Senate nomination.

Sen. John Marshall Butler, who holds the seat, is expected to try again. The only opposition to date comes from D. John Markey of Frederick, 72-year-old retired Army general who has formally filed for the nomination.

There has been speculation Rep. James P. S. Devereux of the Second District and Rep. Edward T. Miller of the First District might oppose Butler for the GOP nomination.

But Devereux, a retired Marine brigadier general, said Wednesday he'll seek re-election. Miller said he probably will, too, although he indicated he hasn't made up his mind yet.

Butler is winding up his first Senate term. He narrowly won the Republican nomination in 1950 over Markey who polled 1,889 more popular votes but lost out in the unit vote count.

Markey made another try for the Senate in 1946, winning the GOP nomination but losing to Democrat Herbert O'Conor in the general election by 1,624 votes.

In other political developments:

Top State GOP leaders, including Senators Butler and Beall and Gov. McKeldin, met in Baltimore Wednesday to launch the ticket sale for the $100-a-plate fund raising dinner set for Jan. 20 in Baltimore.

The dinner is one of a series being held in the country on the third anniversary of President Eisenhower's inauguration.

Former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will speak.

Anne Arundel County Democrats get together Jan. 18 for a dinner at which several leading Democrats will speak.

Pity For Taxpayer From Uncle Sam

In a country where few have complete faith in the balance their check books show, a sizable army of taxpayers no doubt gave a silent prayer at news the U. S. Internal Revenue Service, after all, will not leave them completely to their own resources in filling out their income tax returns for 1955.

The new U. S. Internal Revenue commissioner, in rescinding orders of his predecessor, has directed that taxpayers are to get "all of the advice and assistance they need in preparing their returns." Until that reprieve was issued, the ruling had been that help was to be limited to the illiterate, those unable to read English, and persons physically unable to prepare their own returns.

In October, when those orders were issued, there was speculation whether the policy makers in the Internal Revenue Service might not be opening the door to a flood of faulty returns which would cost more man hours in rectifying errors than would be saved by the change. Some literate persons come up with different answers no matter how often they add the same column of figures.

And the mere fact a taxpayer can read English hardly qualifies him as an interpreter of the instructions that come with federal income tax forms. There have been years when there were reasons to doubt the instructions were written in English.

The "do-it-yourself" group movement which the Internal Revenue Service tried out last year had some merit. It saved time that taxpayers formerly lost queuing up while awaiting their turns for individual assistance—as well as the time of the tax office staffs. But there are many taxpayers whose returns are too complicated for arithmetic which has become infirm with age and lack of use. After all, why should tax collectors be reluctant to help relieve taxpayers of their hard-earned cash?

Emergence Of Dewey

Reports from Texas indicate that Tom Dewey is seeking the second choice preference from Republicans in that state. By second choice preference is meant that in the event that Eisenhower will decide not to run or cannot run or dies, this delegation would be for Dewey. At any rate, word to that effect is being spread among Republicans with the hope of scaring off the followers of Nixon and Knowland.

From other quarters come evidences that the Dewey organization is playing up his willingness to run for vice president. The statements are going the rounds that Thomas E. Dewey is willing to sacrifice himself by accepting a second place on the ballot, so that should Eisenhower not be able to complete his second term, the United States would not be left in the lurch. Dewey, it may be recalled, ran twice for the presidency, was twice defeated, and was the principal sponsor of Eisenhower for president. For such a man to take second place is indeed a sacrifice. Suppose Eisenhower lives, as we all hope he may, to be as old as Herbert Hoover and Bernard Baruch, Dewey could go down in the back pages of the "World Almanac" as among the vice presidents.

It is clear now that Senators Knowland, Bridges, McCarthy and others will run in some states as favorite sons. Should they carry the states in the primaries in which they enter, enough votes would be withdrawn to make nomination impossible on the first ballot at the Republican Convention. It is not yet clear how many favorite sons there will be, but most senators and governors like the mention and applause and when this game gets started, it rolls on and on. A favorite son operation will also appear in the Democratic convention. Unless Eisenhower runs, neither convention will be of short duration therefore.

I have talked to some Democrats about the re-emergence of Tom Dewey and they seem pleased because, they say, it means renewal of the Dewey-Taft split, an attack on the White House regency, particularly on Sherman Adams, James Hagerty, Herbert Brownell Jr., and Maxwell Rabb by Republicans of the Taft persuasion, much of it on the floors of Congress. The Democrats say that it will help them enormously.

On the other hand, it must be recalled that it was the Dewey group in the administration, who organized and directed the fight on Senator Joe McCarthy which McCarthy lost but which nobody won. Up to now, the McCarthyites have been blaming Vice President Nixon for the character of the Watkins Committee and there is a long story behind that. But if Dewey's name appears at the Republican convention, animosity will shift from Nixon to Dewey who will become the target of the McCarthyites.

In the convention, what counts are delegates. If the opposition to Dewey has enough votes, the Republican convention can be disrupted. As a matter of fact, if Eisenhower does not run, it is safe to say that the disruption is assured. If Eisenhower does run and Dewey runs for vice president, the disruption is assured. That is why all the Democratic leaders I have talked to display such enthusiasm over any form of Dewey candidacy. They know that it means a fight inside the Republican party.

The Dewey-Taft enmity unforunately lives on and will be kept alive by those who, while they cannot oppose Eisenhower, can oppose Dewey. It is difficult to believe that the regency has already decided to side-track the vice president, Richard Nixon, in favor of Dewey, but that could happen because most of the regents are followers and associates of Tom Dewey and are beholden to him for their advancement. If, therefore, he really wants the vice presidency, they would have no way of rejecting him.

On the other hand, it is not believed in strong Eisenhower circles that the President would reject Nixon who has made a more than satisfactory vice president, behaved admirably during the President's illness, and does not deserve to be treated as Franklin D. Roosevelt treated Henry Wallace.

So, as one adds up all the little items that come to hand, fact, rumor, propaganda, inside dope, unconfirmed reports, it looks like a fight at the Republican convention over the re-emergence of Thomas E. Dewey.

"Here They Come!"

"Court Martial Of Billy Mitchell" Film Cold-Shouldered By Pentagon

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The armed services have been at each other's throats over everything from helicopters to troop-transport planes, but suddenly they have decided to carry out "unification" in regard to motion pictures.

The Pentagon has decided to give the cold shoulder to Gary Cooper's new picture, "The Court Martial of Billy Mitchell," because it puts the Air Force in a favorable light compared with the Army and the Navy.

Instead of opening with a big hurrah, with a send-off from the Pentagon brass, the picture is opening at an inconspicuous downtown theater. But, more important, the Navy slashed to ribbons one important part of the fight-over-air-power story.

This was the real history of how the Navy, in trying to promote its lighter-than-air dirigible, the Shenandoah, forced Commander Zachary Lansdowne to go on a flying junket over Midwest county fairs despite his protest that he couldn't carry enough fuel to make the trip and avoid approaching storms.

As a result, the Shenandoah crashed in one of the worst air disasters in naval history.

Commander Lansdowne was a close friend of Billy Mitchell. Both were fighting for aerial warfare as against infantry and battleships. But when Milton Sperling, producer of "Court Martial of Billy Mitchell," asked the Navy where he could locate Lansdowne's widow, the Navy claimed she was dead. Finally he located her in Washington, the present Mrs. Betsy Caswell, and got from her the story of how her late husband, Commander Lansdowne, had written a protest against taking the dirigible on a flight at the request of congressmen to cover a series of county fairs.

Safe Is Rifled

The Navy, however, overruled the protest. It was lobbying for Congressional appropriations and wanted to appease the congressmen.

After the dirigible was lost in an electric storm, Commander Lansdowne's safe at Lakehurst, N. J., was found broken open and his written protest gone. His widow, however, had carbon copies, and at the naval board of inquiry called to fix the blame for the disaster, she read his confidential protest and cleared her husband's name.

Later she also testified at the Billy Mitchell court martial.

However, when Warner Brothers proposed putting this part of the story in the Billy Mitchell picture, the Navy protested, threatened such road blocks that this part of the story was eliminated.

Despite this censorship, however, the picture is sensational enough that top Pentagon brass decided it put the Army and Navy in a bad light, and that for "unification's" sake, the picture would be officially ignored.

NOTE—This is the second recent attempt at government movie censorship, the other being the crackdown of Narcotics Commissioner Harry Anslinger on "The Man with the Golden Arm." Anslinger objected because Frank Sinatra, who plays the part of the dope addict, gets cured instead of committing suicide as happened in the original plot. Government frowns seem to help, however, for "The Man with the Golden Arm" is now big box office.

Ike's Democratic Congressman

The President probably doesn't know it, but it was his own congressman who got Internal Revenue to reverse itself and help taxpayers to fill out income tax returns.

The congressman, Jim Quigley, Democrat, represents the Gettysburg Congressional District. Incidentally both of Ike's home areas are represented by Democrats, the other being Congressman Herbert Zelenko of Morningside Heights, New York.

When Congressman Quigley heard that Internal Revenue was closing down its sub-office in Gettysburg, he jumped into action.

Actually he wasn't so much interested in Ike's home town as in the fact that Internal Revenue was also closing its sub-offices in nearby Carlisle and Hanover, Pa. As a result of Quikley's protests Internal Revenue finally assured him that the three sub-offices would be opened just before April 15 to help taxpayers fill out their tax forms.

But on October 17 this was rescinded. New Commissioner Russell Harrington ordered that no field offices would help prepare tax returns. This applied not only to Gettysburg and Quigley's district, but all over the nation.

This sent Ike's Congressman on the warpath again. He claimed Internal Revenue was going back on its word, threatened a public attack in Congress. Finally Commissioner Harrington yielded, rescinded his order, told tax agents to help fill out forms not only at Gettysburg but all over the nation.

Liquor By Air

A tax-cheap liquor pipeline is operating secretly out of Bolling Field here, fed by a prosperous Washington liquor merchant named Harry Slavitt.

With tax-free liquor now barred from sale on U.S. military bases due to congressional action, Air Force brass hats are thus beating high liquor taxes in the 48 states by ordering their booze from the nation's capital, where such taxes are much lower.

Air Force crews stopping at Bolling Field on official flights do the rum-running. They merely telephone Harry Slavitt at Metropolitan 8-5080 and within an hour a truck rolls into Bolling Field — each case of hooch carefully disguised in plain brown paper.

Slavitt is cleaning up—two weeks ago, for example, collecting $3,920 on a single sale of Scotch to airmen from Maxwell Field in dry Alabama. The brand: Greerson's No. 1.

Slavitt's part in the bootleg operation is probably perfectly legal, since it's the Air Force that admits his trucks to Bolling Field and also the Air Force that flies the liquor across state lines. Naturally state revenue officers don't have airplane police facilities to challenge the plane as it enters the state.

Fund For Republic Has Chance To Redeem Itself

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — There's a chance for "The Fund for the Republic" to redeem itself and meet the argument of its critics that the $14,000,000 fund originally donated to it by the Ford Foundation for "education" on American principles of government has not been used for that purpose.

Heretofore the money has been spent to distribute various books and pamphlets and to support projects on one side of the controversy about the Communist party in the United States. Only materials that tend to show that the Communist party is merely a political party — not a conspiracy directed by a foreign government—and also booklets that tend to minimize the problem of "security risks" have thus far been distributed with the Ford money.

N Circulation

Now, however, the subcommittee of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary which has been investigating the whole internal security problem has issued a 100-page "Handbook for Americans." It tells how the Communist party works. This pamphlet can hardly have a wide circulation, as there is no fund in Congress to send out millions of copies to the citizens.

But, if "The Fund for the Republics" wishes to prove its impartiality and disinterestedness, the booklets can be obtained by it at cost from the Government Printing Office and sent to every school and college and to every member of every university faculty and to every writer, every school teacher and every clergyman in the country as well as to members of all civic and fraternal organizations.

The booklet was authorized by the Senate subcommittee and, in its foreword, is the following statement:

"The average American is unaware of the amount of misinformation about the Communist party, U. S. A., which appears in the public press, in books, and in the utterances of public speakers. In part, this misinformation is consciously planted by members of the party using ways and means calculated to have the greatest effect in poisoning the channels of American public opinion. In part, it is due to our ignorance of the problem—the problem of the existence in our midst of a mass conspiratorial organization controlled by a foreign power. The Communist problem is unique in our history...

"We earnestly believe that, given a more accurate knowledge of the Communist conspiracy, fewer Americans will fall victim to its wiles."

Believes Party Persecuted

But Robert M. Hutchins, formerly president of the University of Chicago, who is president of "The Fund for the Republic" gives in his annual report the impression that he believes the Communist party is just another political party and hence is being persecuted. One of the Hutchins projects calls for payment to a prominent Communist for information on the workings of the Communist party, but with the understanding that he is not be be questioned on the conspiratorial phases of the Communist party's work. This is a strange way to get information from a Communist agitator who refuses to tell what he knows to the government of the United States, yet asks that same government to give him protection under the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution.

If it is so necessary to pay Ford money to Communist witnesses to obtain facts to which the public is entitled anyhow, why wouldn't it be better, or at least as good, to let the American people read copies of the testimony sworn to under oath by Communists and ex-Communists who know the full story of all phases of the Communist party activity in America? The new handbook touches only the high spots, but there have been extensive hearings on these same subjects which have been printed by Congress. There are also available for distribution by "The Fund for the Republic" if it really wishes to be impartial and present "both sides."

The new handbook says the Communist party in the United States was founded in September 1919 and declares:

Fundamentally Different

"It is not a true political party and differs fundamentally from all political parties in this country. It is in fact a Russian-inspired, Moscow-dominated, anti-American, Quasi-mjlitary conspiracy against ot government, our ideals, and our freedoms."

Surely the detailed proofs and arguments to support the foregoing might be expected to be part of the educational task of "The Fund for the Republic." Certainly the idea ought to appeal to Paul Hoffman, chairman of the Studebaker Corporation, who is chairman of the board of directors of "The Fund for the Republic" and a fair-minded man with a long experience in public service.

Baering Down On The News

Concensus of fresh 1956 opinion is we are going to arm our allies to the teeth. But are not going to give 'em anything to bite.

Nobody's worrying over Nashua's feed bill because he's as self-supporting as a corn-borer in Ioway. But we've been fattening up Europe for 10 years, come next dinner bell. What shows?

All we have to show for it is an ultimatum from the Congo cannibals demanding curb service.

It was Prescott who diagnosed the empty stomach as the laboratory of discontent. If we get those fellows hungry enough to fight they may turn on us like a neck hair under a tight collar.

Tips For Parents Whose Child Has Heart Disease

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

A woman from a small town in Illinois was told her 6-year-old son had heart trouble. Her question, "What do I do now?" comes up so often I decided to give my opinion along this line.

Most physicians realize that heart disease usually is a lifelong disability and will not make this diagnosis until they are sure of their ground. If there is any question, a consultation is in order. The child need not be told until he is old enough to understand.

The parents should decide to rear the youngster like any other child so that he will never be regarded as different or burdened with a serious handicap. It is natural for parents to overprotect and restrict the afflicted boy or girl. This is the wrong thing to do because it encourages invalidism, which may be more disabling than the heart condition.

The youngster should be given the same understanding, affection, and responsibilities as the other offspring. There is no harm in discipline nor will crying aggravate the cardiac condition. Two sets of standards in the home create a hardship on the afflicted tyke as well as on the healthy children.

The latter resent the extra attention their cardiac sibling receives and feel cheated when they do not get their share of affection. The parents should obtain authoritative knowledge of heart disease in general and the youngster's type in particular. Sudden death is not the rule; consequently, there is no need to be critical of every move the little fellow makes.

Inactivity does not make the cardiac live longer. Each child must learn his limitations and stop when he becomes tired or short of breath. Explaining the situation to the youngster and letting him take the initiative is better than pleading, nagging, and a constant "don't do this" or "don't do that."

As the boy grows older, parents may be forced to put their foot down on competitive sports. They are strenuous and the cardiac may push himself beyond the point of fatigue. The school will help in this respect because it does not allow a student with congenital or rheumatic heart disease to compete along this line.

Children with heart disease must be schooled in the rules of good hygiene. They should be immunized against diptheria, tetanus, whooping cough, and smallpox.

A respiratory infection, especially a strep throat, may lead to rheumatic fever with additional damage to the heart. Hence it is necessary to guard against colds and call the family physician at the first sign. Special precautions also are necessary for dental extractions. Many advances have been made in heart surgery but not all cardiac disturbances are amenable to this procedure.

A CONTROLLABLE DISORDER

F. T. writes: Is pernicious anemia a serious disease?

REPLY

It was, prior to the discovery that liver is an effective remedy. The disease must not be neglected, however, and today vitamin B12 is used in addition to liver extract.

DEFECTIVE ARM

Mrs. S. writes: What causes a child to be born with a withered arm?

REPLY

A developmental defect could be responsible, or injury during birth.

CORD POLYPS

Mrs. A. writes: Are vocal cord polyps likely to regrow after removal?

REPLY

They can recur but the chances are minimized when the voice is spared.

LUNG INFECTIONS

G. T. writes: Does bronchiectasis culminate in tuberculosis?

REPLY

No. Bronchiectasis menas stretching and dilatation of the bronchi, which encourages the accumulation of mucus in these passageways. Many victims of tuberculosis develop this complication but bronchiectasis can occur in the absence of tuberculosis.

CHILD GOES BLIND

Mrs. F. writes: Could a child who has perfect vision become blind at age 7 because of an eye defect that was present at birth?

REPLY

Yes, because causes of blindness (cataract, glaucoma, or tumor) may start to develop shortly after birth.

LUNG OPERATION

H. B. writes: When a patient has an operation for bronchiectasis, what is done?

REPLY

The involved part or parts of the lung will be removed.

WHO SUFFERS MORE?

M. P. writes: Do single women suffer more than the married during the menopause?

REPLY

Not necessarily. Only a small percentage from both groups complain of distress and remedies are available for relief.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Deilan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

In his book of excellent verse called "Light Armour," Dick Armour observes:

Women, one finds,
Make up their minds,
Quarrels, and faces
In public places.

Art Carney tells one of those stories about the smart young brother who always was underfoot when his pretty sister wanted to pitch a little woo with her boy friend. To get rid of him one afternoon the b.f. suggested, "Why don't you go down to the street, Willie, and count the men who are wearing red hats. I'll give you a quarter for every one that goes by."

To the surprise of both love birds, Willie, usually very cagey, fell in with this suggestion. Fifteen minutes later, however, they heard his triumphant voice from below. "I don't know how you two are doing up there," he hollered, "but my ship is about to come in. Here comes the Shriners' parade!"

Going, Going, Going!

WASHINGTON

The biggest, most disturbing feature of the present world situation can be rather simply summed up. The United States is now losing its air-atomic lead to the Soviet Union. Or you might say that the sole defense of the free world is being limply cast away.

One indicator of the general trend is the Soviet progress with intercontinental ballistic missiles, discussed in the last report in this space. The ICBM is rightly called "The Ultimate Weapon." Yet these vast rockets are such complex mechanisms that there will be no overnight revolution because of the mere testing of a prototype.

For some years to come, manned aircraft will certainly continue to dominate the air-atomic weapons system. For the immediate future, therefore, the most important indicators of the present trend are the figures on Soviet and American production of combat planes of advanced types.

Soviet Output Ahead

In brief, Soviet output is now far ahead of American output in three of the four major categories of combat aircraft, day-fighters, night-fighters and long range jet-bombers. These are the categories, moreover, of highest importance to this country. Concerning these categories, the figures speak for themselves.

In the category of night-fighters, the United States has no advanced type worth mentioning except the F-102. About 10 F-102s are now being produced each month, and no step-up is promised.

The Soviet "Flashlight" night-fighter is rated at least as good as the F-102, if not somewhat better. The Soviets are now producing at least 50 "Flashlights" each month—or five times as many advanced night-fighters as we are producing. Furthermore "Flashlight" output is going up.

In the category of day-fighters, the United States has only two advanced types, the F-101 and the F-104, that are fit to meet the new Soviet "Farmer" fighter in the air. A great increase in output of these planes was promised by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson last spring, after the Moscow overflights. If anything, however, output has been slowed down. Present output is an inconsiderable trickle, and we shall be lucky to be getting a score or so per month of F-101Bs and F-104s by the end of next year. Meanwhile, Soviet productoin of the "Farmer" fighter is already running at the rate of at least 60 per month; and it is also going up. Overall, Soviet output of advanced day and night fighters may well be running at a combined rate of around 200 to 250 per month by the end of 1956; as against an American production rate that will still be trifling.

More Astonishing Figures

But the figures are still more astonishing in the category of the overlord of the air, the long range jet bomber. Last spring, American production target was ostensibly raised to 17 of our great B-52 bombers per month—which was a long way to go, since production was then virtually nil. Today, however, we are actually turning out not more than five B-52s per month; and restrictions on sub contracts suggest to insiders that the real Pentagon target still very distant, remember, is no more than 13 B-52s per month.

Meanwhile, the Soviets are already producing more than 13 per month of their "Bisons," which are broadly comparable to our B-52s. Furthermore, there has been a drastic change since last spring, when eventual Soviet capacity was believed to be 17 "Bisons" per month, and 17 B-52s became the American target.

Since then, new information has caused the estimates to be revised. By the end of this year, the Soviets are expected to be turning out 25 "Bisons" per month, or about twice as many of the over-lords of the air as will be turned out in America. Moreover, the change in estimates of Soviet output has caused no change in the American production target. In the most vital of all categories of combat aircraft, we are apparently content to stay far behind.

LeMay Thinks It's Dangerous

That leaves the single category of modern range jet bombers, in which Soviet output has not yet overtaken American output. The Soviets are turning out something like 30 of their new "Badger" bombers each month. But we got a head start with our comparable B-47. We now have about 1,500 B-47s in the Strategic Air Command, and these planes constitute SAC'S main striking force.

Unfortunately, however this complete reliance on medium range bombers is plainly regarded as intensely dangerous by SAC's brilliant commander, General Curtis LeMay. One of the great secret dreams of the struggle over this year's budget was caused by LeMay's bold demand for an urgent program to produce no less than 1,900 B-52s. His purpose was to replace his B-47s with planes of true intercontinental range.

But it is current doctrine that the richest country in the world is too poor to pay for its own defense. So of course LeMay's request was rejected.

Pity For Taxpayer From Uncle Sam

In a country where few have complete faith in the balance their check books show, a sizable army of taxpayers no doubt gave a silent prayer at news the U. S. Internal Revenue Service, after all, will not leave them completely to their own resources in filling out their income tax returns for 1955.

The new U. S. Internal Revenue commissioner, in rescinding orders of his predecessor, has directed that taxpayers are to get "all of the advice and assistance they need in preparing their returns." Until that reprieve was issued, the ruling had been that help was to be limited to the illiterate, those unable to read English, and persons physically unable to prepare their own returns.

In October, when those orders were issued, there was speculation whether the policy makers in the Internal Revenue Service might not be opening the door to a flood of faulty returns which would cost more man hours in rectifying errors than would be saved by the change. Some literate persons come up with different answers no matter how often they add the same column of figures.

And the mere fact a taxpayer can read English hardly qualifies him as an interpreter of the instructions that come with federal income tax forms. There have been years when there were reasons to doubt the instructions were written in English.

The "do-it-yourself" group movement which the Internal Revenue Service tried out last year had some merit. It saved time that taxpayers formerly lost queuing up while awaiting their turns for individual assistance—as well as the time of the tax office staffs. But there are many taxpayers whose returns are too complicated for arithmetic which has become infirm with age and lack of use. After all, why should tax collectors be reluctant to help relieve taxpayers of their hard-earned cash?

These Days

Emergence Of Dewey

Reports from Texas indicate that Tom Dewey is seeking the second choice preference from Republicans in that state. By second choice preference is meant that in the event that Eisenhower will decide not to run or cannot run or dies, this delegation would be for Dewey. At any rate, word to that effect is being spread among Republicans with the hope of scaring off the followers of Nixon and Knowland.

From other quarters come evidences that the Dewey organization is playing up his willingness to run for vice president. The statements are going the rounds that Thomas E. Dewey is willing to sacrifice himself by accepting a second place on the ballot, so that should Eisenhower not be able to complete his second term, the United States would not be left in the lurch. Dewey, it may be recalled, ran twice for the presidency, was twice defeated, and was the principal sponsor of Eisenhower for president. For such a man to take second place is indeed a sacrifice. Suppose Eisenhower lives, as we all hope he may, to be as old as Herbert Hoover and Bernard Baruch, Dewey could go down in the back pages of the "World Almanac" as among the vice presidents.

It is clear now that Senators Knowland, Bridges, McCarthy and others will run in some states as favorite sons. Should they carry the states in the primaries in which they enter, enough votes would be withdrawn to make nomination impossible on the first ballot at the Republican Convention. It is not yet clear how many favorite sons there will be, but most senators and governors like the mention and applause and when this game gets started, it rolls on and on. A favorite son operation will also appear in the Democratic convention. Unless Eisenhower runs, neither convention will be of short duration therefore.

I have talked to some Democrats about the reemergence of Tom Dewey and they seem pleased because, they say, it means renewal of the Dewey-Taft split, an attack on the White House regency, particularly on Sherman Adams, James Hagerty, Herbert Brownell Jr., and Maxwell Rabb by Republicans of the Taft persuasion, much of it on the floors of Congress. The Democrats say that it will help them enormously.

On the other hand, it must be recalled that it was the Dewey group in the administration, who organized and directed the fight on Senator Joe McCarthy which McCarthy lost but which nobody won. Up to now, the McCarthyites have been blaming Vice President Nixon for the character of the Watkins Committee and there is a long story behind that. But if Dewey's name appears at the Republican convention, animosity will shift from Nixon to Dewey who will become the target of the McCarthyites.

In the convention, what counts are delegates. If the opposition to Dewey has enough votes, the Republican convention can be disrupted. As a matter of fact, if Eisenhower does not run, it is safe to say that the disruption is assured. If Eisenhower does run and Dewey runs for vice president, the disruption is assured. That is why all the Democratic leaders I have talked to display such enthusiasm over any form of Dewey candidacy. They know that it means a fight inside the Republican party.

The Dewey-Taft enmity unforunately lives on and will be kept alive by those who, while they cannot oppose Eisenhower, can oppose Dewey. It is difficult to believe that the regency has already decided to side-track the vice president, Richard Nixon, in favor of Dewey, but that could happen because most of the regents are followers and associates of Tom Dewey and are beholden to him for their advancement. If, therefore, he really wants the vice presidency, they would have no way of rejecting him.

On the other hand, it is not believed in strong Eisenhower circles that the President would reject Nixon who has made a more than satisfactory vice president, behaved admirably during the President's illness, and does not deserve to be treated as Franklin D. Roosevelt treated Henry Wallace.

So, as one adds up all the little items that come to hand, fact, rumor, propaganda, inside dope, unconfirmed reports, it looks like a fight at the Republican convention over the re-emergence of Thomas E. Dewey.

"Here They Come!"

"Court Martial Of Billy Mitchell" Film Cold-Shouldered By Pentagon

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The armed services have been at each other's throats over everything from helicopters to troop-transport planes, but suddenly they have decided to carry out "unification" in regard to motion pictures.

The Pentagon has decided to give the cold shoulder to Gary Cooper's new picture, "The Court Martial of Billy Mitchell," because it puts the Air Force in a favorable light compared with the Army and the Navy.

Instead of opening with a big hurrah, with a send-off from the Pentagon brass, the picture is opening at an inconspicuous downtown theater. But, more important, the Navy slashed to ribbons one important part of the fight-over-air-power story.

This was the real history of how the Navy, in trying to promote its lighter-than-air dirigible, the Shenandoah, forced Commander Zachary Lansdowne to go on a flying junket over Midwest county fairs despite his protest that he couldn't carry enough fuel to make the trip and avoid approaching storms.

As a result, the Shenandoah crashed in one of the worst air disasters in naval history.

Commander Lansdowne was a close friend of Billy Mitchell. Both were fighting for aerial warfare as against infantry and battleships. But when Milton Sperling, producer of "Court Martial of Billy Mitchell," asked the Navy where he could locate Lansdowne's widow, the Navy claimed she was dead. Finally he located her in Washington, the present Mrs. Betsy Caswell, and got from her the story of how her late husband, Commander Lansdowne, had written a protest against taking the dirigible on a flight at the request of congressmen to cover a series of county fairs.

Safe Is Rifled

The Navy, however, overruled the protest. It was lobbying for Congressional appropriations and wanted to appease the congressmen.

After the dirigible was lost in an electric storm, Commander Lansdowne's safe at Lakehurst, N. J., was found broken open and his written protest gone. His widow, however, had carbon copies, and at the naval board of inquiry called to fix the blame for the disaster, she read his confidential protest and cleared her husband's name.

Later she also testified at the Billy Mitchell court martial.

However, when Warner Brothers proposed putting this part of the story in the Billy Mitchell picture, the Navy protested, threatened such road blocks that this part of the story was eliminated.

Despite this censorship, however, the picture is sensational enough that top Pentagon brass decided it put the Army and Navy in a bad light, and that for "unification's" sake, the picture would be officially ignored.

NOTE—This is the second recent attempt at government movie censorship, the other being the crackdown of Narcotics Commissioner Harry Anslinger on "The Man with the Golden Arm." Anslinger objected because Frank Sinatra, who plays the part of the dope addict, gets cured instead of committing suicide as happened in the original plot. Government frowns seem to help, however, for "The Man with the Golden Arm" is now big box office.

Ike's Democratic Congressman

The President probably doesn't know it, but it was his own congressman who got Internal Revenue to reverse itself and help taxpayers to fill out income tax returns.

The congressman, Jim Quigley, Democrat, represents the Gettysburg Congressional District. Incidentally both of Ike's home areas are represented by Democrats, the other being Congressman Herbert Zelenko of Morningside Heights, New York.

When Congressman Quigley heard that Internal Revenue was closing down its sub-office in Gettysburg, he jumped into action.

Actually he wasn't so much interested in Ike's home town as in the fact that Internal Revenue was also closing its sub-offices in nearby Carlisle and Hanover, Pa. As a result of Quikley's protests Internal Revenue finally assured him that the three sub-offices would be opened just before April 15 to help taxpayers fill out their tax forms.

But on October 17 this was rescinded. New Commissioner Russell Harrington ordered that no field offices would help prepare tax returns. This applied not only to Gettysburg and Quigley's district, but all over the nation.

This sent Ike's Congressman on the warpath again. He claimed Internal Revenue was going back on its word, threatened a public attack in Congress. Finally Commissioner Harrington yielded, rescinded his order, told tax agents to help fill out forms not only at Gettysburg but all over the nation.

Liquor By Air

A tax-cheap liquor pipeline is operating secretly out of Bolling Field here, fed by a prosperous Washington liquor merchant named Harry Slavitt.

With tax-free liquor now barred from sale on U.S. military bases due to congressional action, Air Force brass hats are thus beating high liquor taxes in the 48 states by ordering their booze from the nation's capital, where such taxes are much lower.

Air Force crews stopping at Bolling Field on official flights do the rum-running. They merely telephone Harry Slavitt at Metropolitan 8-5080 and within an hour a truck rolls into Bolling Field — each case of hooch carefully disguised in plain brown paper.

Slavitt is cleaning up—two weeks ago, for example, collecting $3,920 on a single sale of Scotch to airmen from Maxwell Field in dry Alabama. The brand: Greerson's No. 1.

Slavitt's part in the bootleg operation is probably perfectly legal, since it's the Air Force that admits his trucks to Bolling Field and also the Air Force that flies the liquor across state lines. Naturally state revenue officers don't have airplane police facilities to challenge the plane as it enters the state.

Fund For Republic Has Chance To Redeem Itself

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — There's a chance for "The Fund for the Republic" to redeem itself and meet the argument of its critics that the $14,000,000 fund originally donated to it by the Ford Foundation for "education" on American principles of government has not been used for that purpose.

Heretofore the money has been spent to distribute various books and pamphlets and to support projects on one side of the controversy about the Communist party in the United States. Only materials that tend to show that the Communist party is merely a political party — not a conspiracy directed by a foreign government—and also booklets that tend to minimize the problem of "security risks" have thus far been distributed with the Ford money.

N Circulation

Now, however, the subcommittee of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary which has been investigating the whole internal security problem has issued a 100-page "Handbook for Americans." It tells how the Communist party works. This pamphlet can hardly have a wide circulation, as there is no fund in Congress to send out millions of copies to the citizens.

But, if "The Fund for the Republics" wishes to prove its impartiality and disinterestedness, the booklets can be obtained by it at cost from the Government Printing Office and sent to every school and college and to every member of every university faculty and to every writer, every school teacher and every clergyman in the country as well as to members of all civic and fraternal organizations.

The booklet was authorized by the Senate subcommittee and, in its foreword, is the following statement:

"The average American is unaware of the amount of misinformation about the Communist party, U. S. A., which appears in the public press, in books, and in the utterances of public speakers. In part, this misinformation is consciously planted by members of the party using ways and means calculated to have the greatest effect in poisoning the channels of American public opinion. In part, it is due to our ignorance of the problem—the problem of the existence in our midst of a mass conspiratorial organization controlled by a foreign power. The Communist problem is unique in our history...

"We earnestly believe that, given a more accurate knowledge of the Communist conspiracy, fewer Americans will fall victim to its wiles."

Believes Party Persecuted

But Robert M. Hutchins, formerly president of the University of Chicago, who is president of "The Fund for the Republic" gives in his annual report the impression that he believes the Communist party is just another political party and hence is being persecuted. One of the Hutchins projects calls for payment to a prominent Communist for information on the workings of the Communist party, but with the understanding that he is not be be questioned on the conspiratorial phases of the Communist party's work. This is a strange way to get information from a Communist agitator who refuses to tell what he knows to the government of the United States, yet asks that same government to give him protection under the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution.

If it is so necessary to pay Ford money to Communist witnesses to obtain facts to which the public is entitled anyhow, why wouldn't it be better, or at least as good, to let the American people read copies of the testimony sworn to under oath by Communists and ex-Communists who know the full story of all phases of the Communist party activity in America? The new handbook touches only the high spots, but there have been extensive hearings on these same subjects which have been printed by Congress. There are also available for distribution by "The Fund for the Republic" if it really wishes to be impartial and present "both sides."

The new handbook says the Communist party in the United States was founded in September 1919 and declares:

Fundamentally Different

"It is not a true political party and differs fundamentally from all political parties in this country. It is in fact a Russian-inspired, Moscow-dominated, anti-American, Quasi-military conspiracy against our government, our ideals, and our freedoms."

Surely the detailed proofs and arguments to support the foregoing might be expected to be part of the educational task of "The Fund for the Republic." Certainly the idea ought to appeal to Paul Hoffman, chairman of the Studebaker Corporation, who is chairman of the board of directors of "The Fund for the Republic" and a fair-minded man with a long experience in public service.

Tips For Parents Whose Child Has Heart Disease

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

A woman from a small town in Illinois was told her 6-year-old son had heart trouble. Her question, "What do I do now?" comes up so often I decided to give my opinion along this line.

Most physicians realize that heart disease usually is a lifelong disability and will not make this diagnosis until they are sure of their ground. If there is any question, a consultation is in order. The child need not be told until he is old enough to understand.

The parents should decide to rear the youngster like any other child so that he will never be regarded as different or burdened with a serious handicap. It is natural for parents to overprotect and restrict the afflicted boy or girl. This is the wrong thing to do because it encourages invalidism, which may be more disabling than the heart condition.

The youngster should be given the same understanding, affection, and responsibilities as the other offspring. There is no harm in discipline nor will crying aggravate the cardiac condition. Two sets of standards in the home create a hardship on the afflicted tyke as well as on the healthy children.

The latter resent the extra attention their cardiac sibling receives and feel cheated when they do not get their share of affection. The parents should obtain authoritative knowledge of heart disease in general and the youngster's type in particular. Sudden death is not the rule; consequently, there is no need to be critical of every move the little fellow makes.

Inactivity does not make the cardiac live longer. Each child must learn his limitations and stop when he becomes tired or short of breath. Explaining the situation to the youngster and letting him take the initiative is better than pleading, nagging, and a constant "don't do this" or "don't do that."

As the boy grows older, parents may be forced to put their foot down on competitive sports. They are strenuous and the cardiac may push himself beyond the point of fatigue. The school will help in this respect because it does not allow a student with congenital or rheumatic heart disease to compete along this line.

Children with heart disease must be schooled in the rules of good hygiene. They should be immunized against diptheria, tetanus, whooping cough, and smallpox.

A respiratory infection, especially a strep throat, may lead to rheumatic fever with additional damage to the heart. Hence it is necessary to guard against colds and call the family physician at the first sign. Special precautions also are necessary for dental extractions. Many advances have been made in heart surgery but not all cardiac disturbances are amenable to this procedure.

No. Bronchiectasis menas stretching and dilatation of the bronchi, which encourages the accumulation of mucus in these passageways. Many victims of tuberculosis develop this complication but bronchiectasis can occur in the absence of tuberculosis.

CHILD GOES BLIND

Mrs. F. writes: Could a child who has perfect vision become blind at age 7 because of an eye defect that was present at birth?

REPLY

Yes, because causes of blindness (cataract, glaucoma, or tumor) may start to develop shortly after birth.

LUNG OPERATION

H. B. writes: When a patient has an operation for bronchiectasis, what is done?

REPLY

The involved part or parts of the lung will be removed.

WHO SUFFERS MORE?

M. P. writes: Do single women suffer more than the married during the menopause?

REPLY

Not necessarily. Only a small percentage from both groups complain of distress and remedies are available for relief.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Deilen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

In his book of excellent verse called "Light Armour," Dick Armour observes:

Women, one finds,
Make up their minds,
Quarrels, and faces
In public places.

Art Carney tells one of those stories about the smart young brother who always was underfoot when his pretty sister wanted to pitch a little woo with her boy friend. To get rid of him one afternoon the b.f. suggested, "Why don't you go down to the street, Willie, and count the men who are wearing red hats. I'll give you a quarter for every one that goes by."

To the surprise of both love birds, Willie, usually very cagey, fell in with this suggestion. Fifteen minutes later, however, they heard his triumphant voice from below. "I don't know how you two are doing up there," he hollered, "but my ship is about to come in. Here comes the Shriners' parade!"

"Piecing" Adds Pounds

Your family is off to work and to school. When noon time arrives, do you open the refrigerator and eat a bite of this and that, then take some cookies from the cooky jar? By the middle of the afternoon you're hungry so you piece some more. Far too many homemakers get into this bad habit, points out food authority Reba Staggs.

For the woman who's the least bit susceptible to adding pounds, piecing during the day is one of the easiest ways to count up those calories. If you want to fit into the slender line decreed for this fall, your daily diet should be made up of foods that are important to body health, yet low in calories.

Of special interest to homemakers wanting to reduce is the fact that a diet rich in meat actually aids this effort. A lunch planed around meat provides a sense of satisfaction so there's no temptation to piece between meals. Also, there's no tendency toward poor disposition often associated with weight reducing.

Here are some simple menu suggestions when preparing lunch just for you—tossed salad topped with strips of luncheon loaf, "boiled" ham or 3 or 4 strips crisp bacon crumbled; slices of luncheon loaf broiled and served with a tomato-cucumber salad; smoked tongue slices with a shredded cabbage—green pepper salad; grilled frankfurters with tomato aspic salad, relishes; panbroiled bologna and a peach-cottage cheese salad. Accompany lunch with a beverage and with fresh or canned fruit if desired.

Panbroiling Know-How

In panbroiling meat patties, it is often desirable to rub the frying-pan with fat to prevent the patties from sticking.

Deviled Seafood With Corn Flake Topping

Lenten meals can be interesting and attractive—even glamorous. Here are a few ways to pretty-up Lenten meals.

Give your foods an attractive topping. Ready-to-eat cereal flakes make unusually attractive, colorful, crunchy, nutritious toppings for fish and seafood, egg, or vegetable casserole. Fine cereal crumbs are used most frequently for coating croquettes, cutlets, and fish.

Breakfast cereals are excellent for ingredient use in recipes. They are inexpensive, add flavor and texture, and make important nutritional contributions of protein, the B-complex vitamins, minerals, and food energy. Just think of the time you can save this Lenten season with ready-to-use cereal every time buttered or fine crumbs are called for in a recipe.

Deviled Seafood with Corn Flake Topping will add variety and interest to your Lenten menus. It's easy to prepare and can be served either in individual casseroles or in one large casserole. The seasonings and cereal flakes add zip and interest and make this a different version of the ever-popular creamed fish casserole.

Deviled Seafood With Corn Flake Topping

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon paprika
- 2 cups milk
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1½ tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated onion
- ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 cups flaked, cooked, seasoned seafood
- 1⅓ cups slightly crushed corn flakes, bran flakes, or whole wheat flakes

Melt butter, add flour, salt, and paprika. Stir to a smooth paste. Add milk gradually; cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from heat and blend in eggs, lemon juice, onion, Worcestershire sauce, seafood, and ¾ of the crushed cereal flakes. Pour into individual casseroles or shells. Sprinkle remaining cereal crumbs over top. Bake in moderate oven (350° to 375°F.) about 20 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Vegetable Chowder For Hungry Families

It isn't meal time but with Dad home from a morning of hunting, Junior in from football practice, or Sis from a strenuous dancing lesson: set a big bowl of vegetable chowder in front of each and watch how eagerly they fall to! Make it by combining a can (16 oz.) of tomatoes and a can of condensed vegetable soup. Add a can of Vienna sausage, sliced, and simmer together about five minutes.

Cooking Frozen Roasts

Frozen roasts should be cooked in the same manner as fresh roasts, 300° F., for fresh beef, veal and lamb, and 350° F. for fresh pork. However, frozen roasts require approximately ⅓ to ½ again as long for cooking as thawed roasts.

Save Cooking Liquid

To get the most food value from the meat which you cook in water, save the cooking liquid. The fine stock makes a nutritious base for sauces, gravies and soups.

Meat Loaves Suit Busy Schedules

When fall house-cleaning cuts your kitchen time to a minimum, you can still serve appetizing meals, and on time, too.

Home economist Reba Staggs suggests meat loaves, favorites with everyone, for these busy days. A meat loaf can be prepared in the afternoon and you can work while it bakes. Or you can prepare a meat loaf in the morning and serve it cold for dinner.

Here's a meat loaf which is easy to prepare and good to eat, too.

Savory Meat Loaf

- 2 pounds ground beef
- ½ pound bologna, ground
- 1½ cups cracker crumbs
- 1 tablespoon grated onion
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 cup chili sauce
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 3 thin slices American cheese
- Paprika

Combine ground beef, bologna, cracker crumbs, onion, beaten eggs, chili sauce, salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly. Pack in 5 x 9-inch loaf pan. Place slices of cheese on meat loaf. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a slow oven (300° F.) for 1½ hours. 8 servings.

Sweet Cherry Fruit Medley Simple But Elegant Dessert

Simplicity is the secret of fine design. But whether it's an original frock, an unusual car, or a culinary concoction, its very simplicity demands that the quality of its ingredients be superior. Any dessert containing plump, canned, dark sweet cherries can afford to be simple, for sweet cherries are an aristocratic fruit, royal in their flavor as well as their color.

This Sweet Cherry Medley, though so simple to assemble you need no advance notice, is elegant enough for a fruit cup preceding a formal dinner and, with grenadine, is an excellent light dessert to close either an informal or formal meal.

Dark sweet cherries make a delightful dish just as they come from the can, swimming in their own tempting juices. They've a flavor that's hard to resist as a little girl's smile. One sweet cherry leads to another, that to still another, and so it goes. Because dark sweet cherries are rich in vitamins, particularly in Vitamin A, you'll want your family to eat them often. Keep several cans on hand always. Serve them for breakfast, use them in salads, and for all sorts of desserts, both elegant and homely.

Yes, and for your lighter moods, when you want to whip up something frivolous and fanciful for the bridge club or your teen-age daughter's platter party, sweet cherry sauce over ice cream is delightful. If the man of the house likes a substantial and unusual Sunday breakfast, sweet cherry sauce over hot cakes, waffles or French toast will hit the spot.

Sweet Cherry Medley

1 pound can dark sweet cherries
1 13½ oz. can pineapple cubes
1 ripe banana
½ cup grenadine syrup or fruit juice

Drain and pit cherries. Drain pineapple cubes. Peel and slice banana, dip into pineapple juice. Arrange fruit in sherbet or fruit glasses. Pour grenadine or juice over fruit. Chill before serving. Makes 4-5 servings.

Creole Lamb For Pot Luck Suppers

Next time you're asked to bring a meat dish to a pot luck supper take Creole Lamb Stew. According to meat expert Reba Staggs, this dish, full of lamb cubes, is not only hearty, but it has flavor appeal.

Creole Lamb Stew

2 pounds boneless lamb for stew, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 pound dried lima beans
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 medium onion, chopped
Water to cover
1 cup canned or cooked tomatoes
6 stalks celery, cut in 1-inch pieces

Cover beans with water and soak over night. Brown the meat slowly in lard or drippings. Season. Add lamb to beans, add onion and water. Cover and cook slowly for 1½ hours. Add tomatoes and celery and continue cooking for 30 minutes or until lamb is tender. Remove meat and vegetables to hot platter. Thicken the remaining liquid for gravy. 6 servings.

Sweet Cherry Sauce

1 pound can dark sweet cherries
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon almond flavoring

Drain and pit cherries, reserving juice. Combine cornstarch and sugar, well mixed with a small amount of juice. Heat juice and add cornstarch-sugar slowly, stirring constantly until slightly thickened. Add lemon juice, cherries and heat. Serve over ice cream, waffles or as a pudding sauce.

Luncheon Quickies

Nutritious Value

In addition to the protein, minerals and vitamins supplied by meat, other characteristics recommend it for the diet. Meat makes the meal more satisfying — it "sticks to the ribs." It aids the digestion of other foods by stimulating the flow of the digestive juices.

Lard Facts

Did you know—
Lard is a rich energy producing food.
Lard is 97% digestible.
Lard makes a very tender and flaky pie crust.
Lard adds flavor to food, whether used as shortening or for frying.

Swift 101 ST YEAR
To Serve Your Family Better

MEATS FOR BABIES
Swift's most precious product!

Cut Sunday's Kitchen Time

Sunday is the day for family dinners, often with extra guests gathered around the table. In order to spend as much time as possible with family and friends, mother must plan meals that are easy and quick to prepare as well as delicious to eat.

Choose a roast that goes in early and needs little attention. Open the meal with an attractive soup made of two or more soups combined. Serve a potato dish that calls for canned sweet or white potatoes. Make salad and dessert the day before.

This menus is a good one to shorten Sunday's kitchen time:

Simple Sunday Dinner

Asparafus - Beef Broth
Pork Loin Roast
Buttered Peas
Honey Orange Sweets
Molded Waldorf Salad
Brown-and-Serve Rolls
Cherry Pie
Coffee
Milk

Honey Orange Sweets

¼ cup butter, or margarine
⅔ cup honey
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.) vacuum pack sweetpotatoes

Combine melted butter, honey, nutmeg, salt, and orange rind; simmer 5 minutes. Arrange sweetpotatoes in a shallow baking dish and pour syrup over them. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) about 30 minutes, basting with the syrup several times. Four to five servings. ¼

Sweet Cherry Fruit Medley Simple But Elegant Dessert

Simplicity is the secret of fine design. But whether it's an original frock, an unusual car, or a culinary concoction, its very simplicity demands that the quality of its ingredients be superior. Any dessert containing plump, canned, dark sweet cherries can afford to be simple, for sweet cherries are an aristocratic fruit, royal in their flavor as well as their color.

This Sweet Cherry Medley, though so simple to assemble you need no advance notice, is elegant enough for a fruit cup preceding a formal dinner and, with grenadine, is an excellent light dessert to close either an informal or formal meal.

Dark sweet cherries make a delightful dish just as they come from the can, swimming in their own tempting juices. They've a flavor that's hard to resist as a little girl's smile. One sweet cherry leads to another, that to still another, and so it goes. Because dark sweet cherries are rich in vitamins, particularly in Vitamin A, you'll want your family to eat them often. Keep several cans on hand always. Serve them for breakfast, use them in salads, and for all sorts of desserts, both elegant and homely.

Yes, and for your lighter moods, when you want to whip up something frivolous and fanciful for the bridge club or your teen-age daughter's platter party, sweet cherry sauce over ice cream is delightful. If the man of the house likes a substantial and unusual Sunday breakfast, sweet cherry sauce over hot cakes, waffles or French toast will hit the spot.

Sweet Cherry Medley

1 pound can dark sweet cherries
1 13½ oz. can pineapple cubes
1 ripe banana
½ cup grenadine syrup or fruit juice

Drain and pit cherries. Drain pineapple cubes. Peel and slice banana, dip into pineapple juice. Arrange fruit in sherbet or fruit glasses. Pour grenadine or juice over fruit. Chill before serving. Makes 4-5 servings.

Creole Lamb For Pot Luck Suppers

Next time you're asked to bring a meat dish to a pot luck supper take Creole Lamb Stew. According to meat expert Reba Staggs, this dish, full of lamb cubes, is not only hearty, but it has flavor appeal.

Creole Lamb Stew

2 pounds boneless lamb for stew, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 pound dried lima beans
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 medium onion, chopped
Water to cover
1 cup canned or cooked tomatoes
6 stalks celery, cut in 1-inch pieces

Cover beans with water and soak over night. Brown the meat slowly in lard or drippings. Season. Add lamb to beans, add onion and water. Cover and cook slowly for 1½ hours. Add tomatoes and celery and continue cooking for 30 minutes or until lamb is tender. Remove meat and vegetables to hot platter. Thicken the remaining liquid for gravy. 6 servings.

Sweet Cherry Sauce

1 pound can dark sweet cherries
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon almond flavoring

Drain and pit cherries, reserving juice. Combine cornstarch and sugar, well mixed with a small amount of juice. Heat juice and add cornstarch-sugar slowly, stirring constantly until slightly thickened. Add lemon juice, cherries and heat. Serve over ice cream, waffles or as a pudding sauce.

Luncheon Quickies

Nutritious Value

In addition to the protein, minerals and vitamins supplied by meat, other characteristics recommend it for the diet. Meat makes the meal more satisfying — it "sticks to the ribs." It aids the digestion of other foods by stimulating the flow of the digestive juices.

Lard Facts

Did you know—
Lard is a rich energy producing food.
Lard is 97% digestible.

Pork Chop Delight

When stuffing pork chops, add ½ cup chopped peanuts to the stuffing. Watch the children's expression. They're sure to ask for more.

SILVERY NOTE FOR LILY PONS

Fearer's Widow

exercising due care and was free from contributory negligence at the time the rig loaded with steel sheeting struck his 1949 Ford sedan in LaVale.

"As a result Fearer was crushed, burned and died at the scene of the said accident, and his automobile was destroyed," the document stated.

The suit pointed out that Fearer, 38 years of age, was assistant manager of the Cumberland Steel Company. His wife is 37 years of age, his son, William, is 17; Jeannette is 12, and Mary Ann, three.

Fearer and three passengers in his car were killed in addition to the operator of a truck driving eastward ahead of Fearer on Route 40.

The other victims were Miss Grace Evelyn Lloyd, 35, Wrights Crossing; Miss Nellie Thomas, 31, of 36 Bowery Street, Frostburg; Francis X. Spearman, 59, of 79 Spring Street, Frostburg, all passengers in Fearer's car, and Samuel J. Brenneman, 29, of Springs, Pa., near Grantsville.

The driver of the tractor-trailer was not injured seriously. He told State Police and officials in the State's Attorney's office that his rig was traveling about 100 miles an hour when it struck the two vehicles.

Vetoed Bills

from "money" measures to "dog and cat control."

One of the so-called money bills was designated as Senate Bill No 52, titled Surplus General Funds.

This bill provided that the Board of Public Works would be required to apply any surplus general funds at the end of the fiscal year, in excess of $2,000,000, "to the payment of authorized current capital exneditures or in lieu of the issuance of certificates of indebtedness that have been authorized." The use of any portion of the surplus over $2,000,000 for general state purposes would be prohibited under this measure. The bill was to become effective July 1, 1956.

Governor McKeldin, in his veto message said the bill is "unwise and unnecessary."

He noted that state fiscal officials disapproved the measure. He termed it another example of advance legislation against an indefinite future fiscal situation which cannot be accurately determined until the 1956 session.

This measure, at the coming session, is expected, some legislators say, to see some heated debate. There are those who agree with the governor. There are others that believe that surplus funds should be used to meet capital expenses as far as they will go.

Governor McKeldin, in his message, also reminded the legislators that the cost of government is mounting and huge surplus funds may not be accumulated.

Among other types of bills vetoed by the governor was one designed to prevent deaths of children in abandoned ice boxes. This measure, known as Senate Bill No. 242, Abandoned Ice Boxes, was one of those "good intention deals" which seems to have been given little thought.

Governor McKeldin vetoed the bill with "great reluctance." He understood its intention and noted that the bill makes it a criminal offense to place an uncrated ice box, refrigerator or freezer in a place accessible to children without first removing the door therefrom.

"Literally construed," the governor wrote, "such a law would render useless every refrigerator or ice box, and every householder would unwittingly become a law-breaker."

He pointed out that no one could use an ice box if it remained crated. If he uncrated it, then he had to remove the hinges to keep from being a law breaker.

Governor McKeldin vetoed the bill and suggested that it be properly drawn to meet its intended purpose.

These and many more are samples of the vetoed measures which, under the Constitution, must be the first order of business at any special or regular session of the General Assembly upcoming.

SILVERY NOTE FOR LILY PONS

exercising due care and was free from contributory negligence at the time the rig loaded with steel sheeting struck his 1949 Ford sedan in LaVale.

"As a result Fearer was crushed, burned and died at the scene of the said accident, and his automobile was destroyed," the document stated.

The suit pointed out that Fearer, 38 years of age, was assistant manager of the Cumberland Steel Company. His wife is 37 years of age, his son, William, is 17; Jeannette is 12, and Mary Ann, three.

Fearer and three passengers in his car were killed in addition to the operator of a truck driving eastward ahead of Fearer on Route 40.

The other victims were Miss Grace Evelyn Lloyd, 35, Wrights Crossing; Miss Nellie Thomas, 31, of 36 Bowery Street, Frostburg; Francis X. Spearman, 59, of 79 Spring Street, Frostburg, all passengers in Fearer's car, and Samuel J. Brenneman, 29, of Springs, Pa., near Grantsville.

The driver of the tractor-trailer was not injured seriously. He told State Police and officials in the State's Attorney's office that his rig was traveling about 100 miles an hour when it struck the two vehicles.

Vetoed Bills

from "money" measures to "dog and cat control."

One of the so-called money bills was designated as Senate Bill No 52, titled Surplus General Funds.

This bill provided that the Board of Public Works would be required to apply any surplus general funds at the end of the fiscal year, in excess of $2,000,000, "to the payment of authorized current capital exneditures or in lieu of the issuance of certificates of indebtedness that have been authorized." The use of any portion of the surplus over $2,000,000 for general state purposes would be prohibited under this measure. The bill was to become effective July 1, 1956.

Governor McKeldin, in his veto message said the bill is "unwise and unnecessary."

He noted that state fiscal officials disapproved the measure. He termed it another example of advance legislation against an indefinite future fiscal situation which cannot be accurately determined until the 1956 session.

This measure, at the coming session, is expected, some legislators say, to see some heated debate. There are those who agree with the governor. There are others that believe that surplus funds should be used to meet capital expenses as far as they will go.

Governor McKeldin, in his message, also reminded the legislators that the cost of government is mounting and huge surplus funds may not be accumulated.

Among other types of bills vetoed by the governor was one designed to prevent deaths of children in abandoned ice boxes. This measure, known as Senate Bill No. 242, Abandoned Ice Boxes, was one of those "good intention deals" which seems to have been given little thought.

Governor McKeldin vetoed the bill with "great reluctance." He understood its intention and noted that the bill makes it a criminal offense to place an uncrated ice box, refrigerator or freezer in a place accessible to children without first removing the door therefrom.

"Literally construed," the governor wrote, "such a law would render useless every refrigerator or ice box, and every householder would unwittingly become a lawbreaker."

He pointed out that no one could use an ice box if it remained crated. If he uncrated it, then he had to remove the hinges to keep from being a law breaker.

Governor McKeldin vetoed the bill and suggested that it be properly drawn to meet its intended purpose.

These and many more are samples of the vetoed measures which, under the Constitution, must be the first order of business at any special or regular session of the General Assembly upcoming.

Brazil Nuts Suggest Many Food Uses

Brazil nuts popular in the nut bowl and in cakes and cookies are congenial with a myriad of foods. They are an excellent flavor and texture addition to poultry stuffings. They may be chopped as a garnish for vegetables and fruit salads; or may be used in butter sauces with fish.

Ground Brazil nuts, via the food chopper, lend their popular nut flavor to pie crusts. With sugar, a two-ingredient, crumb-type crust can be achieved without rolling or baking. If a toasted nut flavor i desired, this crust may be bak in a moderately hot oven un lightly browned before adding t chocolate chiffon filling.

The superb chocolate chiffon fi ing calls for use of semi-sw chocolate and whipped, icy c evaporated milk. No baking necessary for this filling either. the preparation is done in top the double boiler.

Chocolate Chiffon Pie With Brazil Nut Crust

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups milk
1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
⅔ cup icy cold evaporated milk, whipped
1 teaspoon vanilla
*1 9-inch Brazil nut crust

Mix together gelatine, sugar and salt in top of double boiler. Stir in milk; add semi-sweet chocolate morsels. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring occasionally, until gelatine dissolves and chocolate is melted. Remove from heat; beat with a rotary beater until chocolate is blended. Chill until mixture is chilled and mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Fold in whipped evaporated milk and vanilla. Turn into prepared crust; chill until firm. When ready to serve, garnish with whipped cream and Brazil nut curls.

YIELD: 1 9-inch pie.

NOTE: To whip evaporated milk, chill milk in freezer tray of refrigerator until ice crystals form around edge. Turn into chilled bowl and whip with rotary beater or on high speed of electric mixer until milk is stiff.

Brazil Nut Crust

1 cup ground Brazil nuts
2 tablespoons sugar

Mix the Brazil nuts with sugar in a 9-inch pie plate. Press this mixture with back of tablespoon against the bottom and sides, up to rim of the pie plate. If toasted flavor is desired, bake in a moderately hot oven, (400°F.) 8 minutes, or until lightly browned.

Breakfast Or Lunch

Whether it is a hurried breakfast or a quick bite for lunch, serve meat. A quick and easy suggestion is panbroiled liver sausage. Cut liver sausage ½ inch thick, remove casing and add drippings to pan to prevent sausage from sticking. Brown on both sides and serve hot.

Little Knacks

Use sour cream as the liquid in making veal or lamb gravy. Bay leaves cooked in the pan with roast pork or braised pork chops produce a tasty flavor.

Fine-Flavored Punch

Here's a simple and delicious punch, easily made with carbonated fruit-flavored beverages. To insure against flavor dilution, it's a good idea to freeze ice cubes of either the lemon or raspberry soda. For a light and dark effect, you might like to make half the cubes of one flavor and half of the other.

Another variation—and one that will make a hit at any party — omit the ice cubes and lemon slices and garnish the punch with scoops of raspberry ice or lemon ice. If you do this, be sure that your bottles of soda are very cold.

Tangy Raspberry Punch

1 package frozen raspberries
2 28-oz. bottles raspberry soda
1 28-oz. bottle lemon soda
2 lemons, sliced

Combine raspberries and ice cold raspberry and lemon soda. Stir gently to mix. Pour over ice cubes in punch bowl. Garnish with lemon slices. Makes about 36 punch cup servings

Individual Meat Pies Lend Change

Winter is upon us. Family fun and entertaining is usually confined to the indoors type. Laughter is achieving an all time high in the living room, while you stand in the kitchen and cook. No one likes to miss the family fun.

According to Reba Staggs, home economist, try individual meat pies for the family next week. They are simple to prepare and served right in the baking dish casserole. Set the timer on your range after the pies are in the oven and go relax with the rest of the family.

Individual Meat Pies

1½ pounds beef for stew
¼ cup flour
3 tablespoons lard
Salt and pepper
10 small whole carrots
10 small whole onions
2 cups canned or cooked peas
2 cups mashed potatoes

Dredge meat in flour and brown slowly in the lard. Season. Add only enough water to cover. Cover tightly and cook for 1½ hours. Add vegetables, except peas, and continue cooking about 45 minutes or until meat is tender, and vegetables are done. Pour off the cooking liquid and thicken for gravy. Combine vegetables and gravy. Arrange in individual casserole dishes. Force mashed potatoes through a pastry tube around the edge of each casserole dish. Place in a hot over (350° F.) until potatoes are browned. 4 to 6 servings.

Liver And Mushrooms Break Old Cliche

Keep your meals interesting by trying different combinations of old stand-bys. Liver with mushrooms is a new twist that's not only good but simple, too, when you use canned mushrooms. Drain mushrooms and cook with the liver. When liver is done remove to a warm platter. Add sour cream to drippings, heat gently, and pour over liver and mushrooms. Garnish with chopped chives.

AFTER SCHOOL REFUELING

Nothing gives a child a greater sense of being loved than to have something ready for him to eat after school. Youngsters, with their active lives, have need for between meal "refueling" especially when the weather is cold. A hot beverage and butter cookies can serve well for an after school snack.

One mother we know, heats chocolate milk drink—puts it in a heatproof utensil and sets it on a hot plate with the heat turned low about the time the children are expected home. This keeps the chocolate milk drink hot and it will be ready for the children when they arrive from school. Crisp Butterscotch Refrigerator Cookies that are easy to make and delicious to eat will always be a welcome accompaniment. The children will have the feeling that they are helping themselves and in many instances there will be a party atmosphere.

Milk, being so necessary to the child's development and growth, is ideal for midmeal refreshment. Using chocolate milk drink and heating it for cold weather, will be popular and yet, the children will be getting most of the nutrients of milk at the same time.

BUTTERSCOTCH REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

½ cup butter
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg, well beaten
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped nuts (walnuts or pecans)
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and brown sugar together until light. Stir in egg, then add sifted dry ingredients. Add nuts and vanilla and mix thoroughly. Place mixture on waxed paper and form in a roll. Roll up in waxed paper and chill for several hours or over night until firm. Slice with sharp knife into thin slices about ⅛ inch thick. Bake on baking sheet in moderately hot oven 400°F. for about 8 to 10 minutes. Makes 5 to 6 dozen cookies

To insure against flavor dilution, it's a good idea to freeze ice cubes of either the lemon or raspberry soda. For a light and dark effect, you might like to make half the cubes of one flavor and half of the other.

Another variation—and one that will make a hit at any party—omit the ice cubes and garnish the punch with scoops of raspberry ice or lemon ice. If you do this, be sure that your bottles of soda are very cold.

Tangy Raspberry Punch

1 package frozen raspberries
2 28-oz. bottles raspberry soda
1 28-oz. bottle lemon soda
2 lemons, sliced

Combine raspberries and ice cold raspberry and lemon soda. Stir gently to mix. Pour over ice cubes in punch bowl. Garnish with lemon slices. Makes about 36 punch cup servings

AFTER SCHOOL REFUELING

Nothing gives a child a greater sense of being loved than to have something ready for him to eat after school. Youngsters, with their active lives, have need for between meal "refueling" especially when the weather is cold. A hot beverage and butter cookies can serve well for an after school snack.

One mother we know, heats chocolate milk drink—puts it in a heat-proof utensil and sets it on a hot plate with the heat turned low about the time the children are expected home. This keeps the chocolate milk drink hot and it will be ready for the children when they arrive from school. Crisp Butterscotch Refrigerator Cookies that are easy to make and delicious to eat will always be a welcome accompaniment. The children will have the feeling that they are helping themselves and in many instances there will be a party atmosphere.

Milk, being so necessary to the child's development and growth, is ideal for midmeal refreshment. Using chocolate milk drink and heating it for cold weather, will be popular and yet, the children will be getting most of the nutrients of milk at the same time.

1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg, well beaten
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped nuts (walnuts or pecans)

Cream butter and brown sugar together until light. Stir in egg, then add sifted dry ingredients. Add nuts and vanilla and mix thoroughly. Place mixture on waxed paper and form in a roll. Roll up in waxed paper and chill for several hours or over night until firm. Slice with sharp knife into thin slices about ⅛ inch thick. Bake on baking sheet in moderately hot oven 400°F. for about 8 to 10 minutes. Makes 5 to 6 dozen cookies

Winter is upon us. Family fun and entertaining is usually confined to the indoors type. Laughter is achieving an all time high in the living room, while you stand in the kitchen and cook. No one likes to miss the family fun.

According to Reba Staggs, home economist, try individual meat pies for the family next week. They are simple to prepare and served right in the baking dish casserole. Set the timer on your range after the pies are in the oven and go relax with the rest of the family.

Individual Meat Pies

1½ pounds beef for stew
¼ cup flour
3 tablespoons lard
Salt and pepper
10 small whole carrots
10 small whole onions
2 cups canned or cooked peas
2 cups mashed potatoes

Dredge meat in flour and brown slowly in the lard. Season. Add only enough water to cover. Cover tightly and cook for 1½ hours. Add vegetables, except peas, and continue cooking about 45 minutes or until meat is tender, and vegetables are done. Pour off the cooking liquid and thicken for gravy. Combine vegetables and gravy. Arrange in individual casserole dishes. Force mashed potatoes through a pastry tube around the edge of each casserole dish. Place in a hot over (350° F.) until potatoes are browned. 4 to 6 servings.

Liver And Mushrooms Break Old Cliche

Keep your meals interesting by trying different combinations of old stand-bys. Liver with mushrooms is a new twist that's not only good but simple, too, when you use canned mushrooms. Drain mushrooms and cook with the liver. When liver is done remove to a warm platter. Add sour cream to drippings, heat gently, and pour over liver and mushrooms. Garnish with chopped chives.

Dixon, Hamill Seek Re-election In Mineral Co.

Clerks Announce Their Candidacies

KEYSER—James Dixon, present clerk of Mineral County Circuit Court, and Fred Hamill, clerk of the County Court have filed their notices of candidacy for reelection to present offices.

The regular primary will be held on May 8.

Candidates for any county office have until Saturday, February 4, to file notice of their intention.

Dixon will be seeking his second term as circuit court clerk and Hamill will be seeking the full six year term as county clerk. He was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Harry O. Rogers when Rogers retired to become Keyser postmaster.

Dixon is completing his first term in the office of circuit court clerk, and is no stranger to citizens of Mineral County as he had previously been elected to and served the county in the assessor's office for two years; served as sheriff of Mineral County for four years and was assessor for four years.

Hamill is well remembered as proprietor of Hamill's Restaurant at the east end of Armstrong Street, now owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Stanley. Under Hamill's operation, the place was operated from 1910 through 1947, a period of 37 years, and during that time the front door was never locked, as it was operated around the clock as a place to eat for the general public and railroaders of the local division.

Lonaconing Lions Collect Old Eye-Glasses For Chile

ASSIG ED — Donald W. He is a graduate of Southern Garrett County High School.

Light Bulb Plan Shows Progress

LONACONING — Edward Mooney, chariman of the banner committee, presented the new Lions Club banner to the Lonaconing Lions club at their dinner meeting in the Pythian building. The large banner will be used at the head table at their meetings.

Thomas Holmes was appointed chairman of the collection committee for the "Bank of Light" drive, a one-time campaign to collect old eye-glasses, no longer of value to their owners, and then ship them to Chile where they are desperately needed. The International president, Humberto Valenzuela suggested to the Washington Host club that it would be extremely valuable to Lionism and International Good-Will if such a campaign were sponsored by all Lion clubs. William J. Mileham, chairman of the "Bank of Light" drive, of Washington Host Club, contacted the Lonaconing Lions club to take part in the project.

"Buy Light Bulbs from your Lonaconing Lions Club and help someone to see" will be the banner on the trailer to be stationed on Main Street, on Saturday to sell packages of ten electric light bulbs for the Sight Conservation Fund of the Lions Club.

James Langley, chairman of the light bulb sale, reported progress in the campaign underway in the community and members suggested various ways of participating in the campaign.

Jack Getty will be in charge of the trailer with J. A. Petry, Jake Moses, Thomas Ritchie and other volunteers from the club membership assisting on Main Street tomorrow.

Kendrick Y. Hodgdon, president, was presiding officer at the first yearly meeting with John Stakem as song leader. Guests were Robert Robertson and Miss Deanna Martin, introduced to the club by Principal J. A. Petry as "Citizens of the Month."

Dr. George J. Richards will be program chairman for the meeting on Monday, January 16. John Stakem, Zone 22-W chairman, announced that a zone 2 dinner-dance is planned at the Shrine Club on Wednesday, January 25, and Lonaconing members are extended invitations.

Report Shows Population Drop In West Virginia

MOOREFIELD — Hardy County lost 832 people during the five years from 1950 to 1955, according to the report released by the West Virginia Chamber of Commerce. The figures are estimated and are projected for all West Virginia counties.

Pendelton County lost 713.

Many counties in the state have objected to the estimates of current population and the state as a whole lost 42,552 in the five year period making West Virginia's present population 1,963,000.

Despite the loss in population Hardy County leads all the neighboring counties in retail sales according to an official report of the Bureau of Census from the figures compiled from 1954 business reports.

Hardy County sales jumped to $7,100,000 and showed a marked gain over the previous year. Hampshire County's retail sales were $6,770,000, Grant County $5,144,000 and Pendleton County retail sales were $3,444,000.

Lonaconing Lions Collect Old Eye-Glasses For Chile

Light Bulb Plan Shows Progress

ASSIG ED — Donald W. Bennett of Kempton, Md., who enlisted in the Navy at the Cumberland Recruiting Station on September 20, has completed his basic training at Bainbridge and has been assigned to duty at Norfolk, Va., as an electrician's mate. He is a graduate of Southern Garrett County High School.

LONACONING — Edward Moonet, chariman of the banner committee, presented the new Lions Club banner to the Lonaconing Lions club at their dinner meeting in the Pythian building. The large banner will be used at the head table at their meetings.

Thomas Holmes was appointed chairman of the collection committee for the "Bank of Light" drive, a one-time campaign to collect old eye-glasses, no longer of value to their owners, and then ship them to Chile where they are desperately needed. The International president, Humberto Valenzuela suggested to the Washington Host club that it would be extremely valuable to Lionism and International Good-Will if such a campaign were sponsored by all Lion clubs. William J. Mileham, chairman of the "Bank of Light" drive, of Washington Host Club, contacted the Lonaconing Lions club to take part in the project.

"Buy Light Bulbs from your Lonaconing Lions Club and help someone to see" will be the banner on the trailer to be stationed on Main Street, on Saturday to sell packages of ten electric light bulbs for the Sight Conservation Fund of the Lions Club.

James Langley, chairman of the light bulb sale, reported progress in the campaign underway in the community and members suggested various ways of participating in the campaign.

Jack Getty will be in charge of the trailer with J. A. Petry, Jake Moses, Thomas Ritchie and other volunteers from the club membership assisting on Main Street tomorrow.

Kendrick Y. Hodgdon, president, was presiding officer at the first yearly meeting with John Stakem as song leader. Guests were Robert Robertson and Miss Deanna Martin, introduced to the club by Principal J. A. Petry as "Citizens of the Month."

Dr. George J. Richards will be program chairman for the meeting on Monday, January 16. John Stakem, Zone 22-W chairman, announced that a zone 2 dinner-dance is planned at the Shrine Club on Wednesday, January 25, and Lonaconing members are extended invitations.

McKeldin Orders Probe Of Fight Shift From New York

Boone Will Make Report To Governor

Latter Says State Doesn't Want Bouts Illegal In New York

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin tonight ordered a "full and immediate" investigation into boxing in Maryland, saying, "I want to keep boxing 100 per cent clean" here.

The governor's action followed the shift of the Monday night television fights from New York to Baltimore as a major development in the feud between Chairman Julius Helfand of the New York Boxing Commission and the Boxing Guild, an organization composed mostly of managers.

Helfand ordered New York managers to sever their Guild relationship by Jan. 16 or lose their licenses. Referring to that order, Governor McKeldin said:

"I don't want to pre-judge the facts, but it seems to me that if they are disqualified in New York, they should be disqualified in Maryland.

"We don't want them to hold bouts in Maryland if they are illegal in New York."

McKeldin called on Maryland Boxing Commissioner J. Marshall Boone for a "full and complete report" on the proposed promotion of the Monday night bouts here. He added he would hold a hearing if necessary.

Boone said he did not vote when the three member Maryland State Athletic Commission approved the projected move to Baltimore, pointing out that under Roberts Rules of order the chairman usually votes only to break a tie.

Boone declined comment on Gov. McKeldin's statement or on the Helfand charges, adding:

"The governor called me and told me to meet him at his office in Baltimore at 9 o'clock in the morning."

Boxing Guild Will Defy Ban

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Boxing Guild of New York tonight defied a ban leveled at it by the New York State Athletic Commission and voted unanimously not to dissolve its membership as ordered by Commissioner Chairman Julius Helfand.

Helfand outlawed the guild Dec. 12 and ordered managers to sever their guild membership by Jan. 16 or lose their licenses in the state of New York.

Charlie Johnston, president of the parent International Boxing Guild, was present at tonight's meeting the New York group and said:

"We've done nothing wrong. We're ready to fight in New York right now. If he (Helfand) takes our licenses away, we have to go out of town.

"We'll go anywhere we can get fights. None of us is resigning."

Fifty-four of the 69 members of the New York guild were present at the special meeting. Twelve others telephoned their decision to the meeting. There was no mention of the other three members, but the decision was described by guild leaders as unanimous.

Rich Golf Meet Opens On Coast

Top-Flight Players Compete For $30,000

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP)—Top-flight golfers were on hand for a pro-amateur celebrity round of play today but trying to pick the No. 1 threat to win the $30,000 Los Angeles Open when the tournament gets under way tomorrow was impossible.

Ben Hogan was the chief gallery attraction today, but the famous Ben is through with a steady diet of tournament golf and won't be in the field tomorrow.

Big Julius Boros is the leading money winner of 1955, thanks to the $50,000 he earned in the so-called world championship at Chicago. He has been a gallery favorite in the local event, but he has been playing more exhibitions than competitive golf in recent months.

Sam Snead boasted the Vardon Trophy low average score per round, but Snead seldom plays here any more.

So the best bet is to pick a name out of a hat and hope it is some one like Gene Littler, who won the 1955 L.A. Open; Cary Middlecoff, always dangerous but never a winner here; Lloyd Mangrum a three-time winner of the event, or husky Mike Souchak, a comparative newcomer in the winner's circle.

Or try the longshot United States Open champion, Jack Fleck, who beat the great Hogan in a playoff for the title last June and hasn't been heard of much since, or some other dark horse, such as little Fred Wampler, the surprise winner here in 1954.

Terps Upset GWU

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 5 (AP)—Maryland scored a major basketball upset tonight, trouncing 7th ranked George Washington 62-48 behind a slow brand of play that held the Colonials to their lowest point production in years.

Not since 1950 had GW scored less than 50 points. That was when Temple beat the Colonials 66-44.

Joe Holup, GW's star center who was fourth in the nation in scoring with a 28-point average going into the game, was held to 14 points, his smallest production of the season.

Maryland's Bob Kessler, who sank 12 of 12 foul tries, was high man for the night with 22 points.

Ussery Leads Bill Hartack At Tropical

Bobby Posts Double, Boosts Wins To 39

MIAMI, FLA. Jan. 5 (AP)—Bobby Ussery, 21-year-old saddle ace from Vian, Okla., completed a riding double when he drove North Downs Farm's Momus to victory in the featured seventh race before 10,036 overcoated patrons at Tropical Park today.

Ussery, who scored earlier on Derby Morn, $8.10, boosted his meeting total to 39, one winner ahead of Willie Hartack, 1955's champ, who got his 38th in the secondary feature, the sixth, on Myrtle, $5.80. They were even up at 37 apiece before the start of the card.

Momus, unplaced in two distance races here, showed a surprising turn of speed by wearing down F. C. Brach's Brachs Admiral, stout favorite, by a neck in a sparkling 1:10 4/5 clocking for the 6 furlongs. Third choice in the field of eight older sprinters, Momus paid $12.80, $4.10 and $3.70.

Momus is the property of Eric Crodock, member of the stock exchange in Toronto, Can. He also won the ninth race Wednesday with Birch Hills.

The 9 and 9 daily double paid a handsome $395.40 as Bestterm, $9.20, and Blue Guy, $24.90, won the first two races. A $2 parlay on the pair would have been worth around $115.00.

Six American World Records Are Approved

Track-Field Marks Recognized By IAAF

LONDON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Six American track and field athletes received credit for world record performances today at a meeting of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, but their combined record-breaking efforts only matched those of Hungary's Sandor Iharos.

Iharos was credited with five new world records at distances from 1,500 meters to 5,000 meters, plus one mark which he subsequently broke himself.

The IAAF, in its first overhaul of the track and field record book in about a year and a half, approved a total of 45 record-breaking performances but many were immediately superseded by better performances recognized at the same time. Duplications reduced the list to 23 new men's records and six in women's events.

The records approved which were set by Americans were:

100 yards—9.3 seconds by Jim Golliday, Northwestern, May 14, 1955 at Evaston, Ill. Equals record by Mel Patton, U.S., and Hector Hogan Australia).

880 yards—1:47.5 by Lon Spurrier, San Francisco, March 26, 1955 at Berkeley, Calif. (Old record — 1:48.6, Mal Whitfield, U.S.)

400 meters—45.4 seconds by Lou Jones, Manhattan, March 18, 1955 at Mexico City. (Old record—45.8 by George Rhoden, Jamaica).

Javelin throw—268 ft. 2½ in. by Franklin (Bud) Held, San Francisco, May 21, 1955 at Modesto, Calif. (Old record—263 ft. 10 in. by Held).

440 yards (4 x 110 yards) relay—40.2 seconds by University of Texas May 21, 1955 at Modesto, Calif. (Old record 40.5 by Southern California).

Decathlon—7,985 points by Rafer Johnson, UCLA, June 11, 1955 at Kingsbury, Calif. (Old record — 7,887 by Bob Mathias, U.S.).

Iharos Set Five Marks

While the list of American performances was impressive, the Russians and Hungarians, who are expected to take a lot of Olympic gold medals at Melbourne this year, also came up with long lists. Hungary was credited with 10 new world records—five by Iharos—after duplications had been eliminated and Russia with five men's and five women's records.

Benny Trotta Is Blasted As Carbo Representative

Helfand Is Amazed At Maryland; Calls Promoters "Lice"

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, today blasted a Baltimore boxing promoter as "Frankie Carbo's representative" and said he would investigate to determine if the St. Nicholas promoters are associating with criminals in their planned move to Baltimore, Jan. 23.

Obviously miffed at the Maryland Athletic Commission, whose chairman, J. Marshall Boone, had promised to support his fight against the boxing guild, Helfand said it was most amazing to him that Maryland would permit "the likes of these lice" to promote boxing in their state." Carbo is a notorious police character with a powerful influence in boxing, according to Helfand.

In Baltimore, Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin ordered a "full and immediate" investigation into boxing in Maryland and called upon Boone for a "full and complete report" on the Monday night transfer.

Referring to Helfand's order to managers to resign from the Boxing Guild or lose their licenses, McKeldin said:

"I don't want to pre-judge the facts, but it seems to me that if they are disqualified in New York they should be disqualified in Maryland. I don't want them to hold bouts in Maryland if they are illegal in New York."

Plans Finish Fight

Helfand, tanned from a Florida vacation called a press conference, to outline his stand as he dug in for a finish fight with the guild, an organization composed mainly of managers.

"I state from the most unimpeachable source that Benny Trotta (one of the Baltimore promoters) is Carbo's representative in the city of Baltimore," said Helfand. "In the last three weeks, previous to this deal (moving St. Nicholas' Monday televised fights from New York to Baltimore), Frankie Carbo and Benny Trotta whose real name is Benny Magliano met in the city of Baltimore to engineer the deal."

The former racket-buster bristled as he said he would not be intimidated or smeared.

"I intend to find out if Willie Gilzenberg and Tex Sullivan (boxing director and promoter of the London Sporting Club which has promoted boxing at St. Nick's in New York for 86 consecutive Mondays) have been in violation of the law forbidding association with known criminals such as Magliano and his partner, Angelo Munafo, and through them with the boss of both, Mr. Carbo. If the facts indicate, the commission will take disciplinary action, looking to a revocation of their licenses."

Guild Is Outlawed

When he outlawed the guild, Dec. 12, Helfand said it was guilty of "acts detrimental to boxing," "monopolistic" and "a continuing menace to boxing in this state." He also claimed the managers associated with known criminals. Carbo's name was mentioned prominently.

McKeldin Orders Probe Of Fight Shift From New York

Boone Will Make Report To Governor

Latter Says State Doesn't Want Bouts Illegal In New York

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin tonight ordered a "full and immediate" investigation into boxing in Maryland, saying, "I want to keep boxing 100 per cent clean" here.

The governor's action followed the shift of the Monday night television fights from New York to Baltimore as a major development in the feud between Chairman Julius Helfand of the New York Boxing Commission and the Boxing Guild, an organization composed mostly of managers.

Helfand ordered New York managers to sever their Guild relationship by Jan. 16 or lose their licenses. Referring to that order, Governor McKeldin said:

"I don't want to pre-judge the facts, but it seems to me that if they are disqualified in New York, they should be disqualified in Maryland.

"We don't want them to hold bouts in Maryland if they are illegal in New York."

McKeldin called on Maryland Boxing Commissioner J. Marshall Boone for a "full and complete report" on the proposed promotion of the Monday night bouts here. He added he would hold a hearing if necessary.

Boone said he did not vote when the three member Maryland State Athletic Commission approved the projected move to Baltimore, pointing out that under Roberts Rules of order the chairman usually votes only to break a tie.

Boone declined comment on Gov. McKeldin's statement or on the Helfand charges, adding:

"The governor called me and told me to meet him at his office in Baltimore at 9 o'clock in the morning."

Boxing Guild Will Defy Ban

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—The Boxing Guild of New York tonight defied a ban leveled at it by the New York State Athletic Commission and voted unanimously not to dissolve its membership as ordered by Commissioner Chairman Julius Helfand.

Helfand outlawed the guild Dec. 12 and ordered managers to sever their guild membership by Jan. 16 or lose their licenses in the state of New York.

"We've done nothing wrong. We're ready to fight in New York right now. If he (Helfand) takes our licenses away, we have to go out of town.

"We'll go anywhere we can get fights. None of us is resigning."

Fifty-four of the 69 members of the New York guild were present at the special meeting. Twelve others telephoned their decision to the meeting. There was no mention of the other three members, but the decision was described by guild leaders as unanimous.

Rich Golf Meet Opens On Coast

Top-Flight Players Compete For $30,000

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP)—Top-flight golfers were on hand for a pro-amateur celebrity round of play today but trying to pick the No. 1 threat to win the $30,000 Los Angeles Open when the tournament gets under way tomorrow was impossible.

Ben Hogan was the chief gallery attraction today, but the famous Ben is through with a steady diet of tournament golf and won't be in the field tomorrow.

Big Julius Boros is the leading money winner of 1955, thanks to the $50,000 he earned in the so-called world championship at Chicago. He has been a gallery favorite in the local event, but he has been playing more exhibitions than competitive golf in recent months.

Sam Snead boasted the Vardon Trophy low average score per round, but Snead seldom plays here any more.

So the best bet is to pick a name out of a hat and hope it is some one like Gene Littler, who won the 1955 L.A. Open; Cary Middlecoff, always dangerous but never a winner here; Lloyd Mangrum a three-time winner of the event, or husky Mike Souchak, a comparative newcomer in the winner's circle.

Or try the longshot United States Open champion, Jack Fleck, who beat the great Hogan in a playoff for the title last June and hasn't been heard of much since, or some other dark horse, such as little Fred Wampler, the surprise winner here in 1954.

Terps Upset GWU

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 5 (AP)—Maryland scored a major basketball upset tonight, trouncing 7th ranked George Washington 62-48 behind a slow brand of play that held the Colonials to their lowest point production in years.

Not since 1950 had GW scored less than 50 points. That was when Temple beat the Colonials 66-44.

Joe Holup, GW's star center who was fourth in the nation in scoring with a 28-point average going into the game, was held to 14 points, his smallest production of the season.

Maryland's Bob Kessler, who sank 12 of 12 foul tries, was high man for the night with 22 points.

Ussery Leads Bill Hartack At Tropical

Bobby Posts Double, Boosts Wins To 39

MIAMI, FLA. Jan. 5 (AP)—Bobby Ussery, 21-year-old saddle ace from Vian, Okla., completed a riding double when he drove North Downs Farm's Momus to victory in the featured seventh race before 10,036 overcoated patrons at Tropical Park today.

Ussery, who scored earlier on Derby Morn, $8.10, boosted his meeting total to 39, one winner ahead of Willie Hartack, 1955's champ, who got his 38th in the secondary feature, the sixth, on Myrtle, $5.80. They were even up at 37 apiece before the start of the card.

Momus, unplaced in two distance races here, showed a surprising turn of speed by wearing down F. C. Brach's Brachs Admiral, stout favorite, by a neck in a sparkling 1:10 4/5 clocking for the 6 furlongs. Third choice in the field of eight older sprinters, Momus paid $12.80, $4.10 and $3.70.

Momus is the property of Eric Crodock, member of the stock exchange in Toronto, Can. He also won the ninth race Wednesday with Birch Hills.

The 9 and 9 daily double paid a handsome $395.40 as Bestterm, $9.20, and Blue Guy, $24.90, won the first two races. A $2 parlay on the pair would have been worth around $115.00.

FORT ASHBY, W. Va., Jan. 5—Fort Ashby's V.F.W. basketeers defeated the Paw Paw Applemen here tonight by the score of 117 to 76.

Calvary Methodist of the Cumberland Sunday School League nosed out Fort Ashby Junior High in the preliminary game, 24-22.

Six American World Records Are Approved

Track-Field Marks Recognized By IAAF

LONDON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Six American track and field athletes received credit for world record performances today at a meeting of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, but their combined record-breaking efforts only matched those of Hungary's Sandor Iharos.

Iharos was credited with five new world records at distances from 1,500 meters to 3,000 meters, plus one mark which he subsequently broke himself.

The IAAF, in its first overhaul of the track and field record book in about a year and a half, approved a total of 45 record-breaking performances but many were immediately superseded by better performances recognized at the same time. Duplications reduced the list to 23 new men's records and six in women's events.

The records approved which were set by Americans were:

100 yards—9.3 seconds by Jim Golliday, Northwestern, May 14, 1955 at Evaston, Ill. Equals record by Mel Patton, U.S., and Hector Hogan Australia).

880 yards—1:47.5 by Lon Spurrier, San Francisco, March 26, 1955 at Berkeley, Calif. (Old record — 1:48.6, Mal Whitfield, U.S.)

400 meters—45.4 seconds by Lou Jones, Manhattan, March 18, 1955 at Mexico City. (Old record—45.8 by George Rhoden, Jamaica).

Javelin throw—268 ft. 2½ in. by Franklin (Bud) Held, San Francisco, May 21, 1955 at Modesto, Calif. (Old record—263 ft. 10 in. by Held).

440 yards (4 x 110 yards) relay—40.2 seconds by University of Texas May 21, 1955 at Modesto, Calif. (Old record 40.5 by Southern California).

Decathlon—7,985 points by Rafer Johnson, UCLA, June 11, 1955 at Kingsbury, Calif. (Old record — 7,887 by Bob Mathias, U.S.).

Iharos Set Five Marks

While the list of American performances was impressive, the Russians and Hungarians, who are expected to take a lot of Olympic gold medals at Melbourne this year, also came up with long lists. Hungary was credited with 10 new world records—five by Iharos—after duplications had been eliminated and Russia with five men's and five women's records.

Benny Trotta Is Blasted As Carbo Representative

Helfand Is Amazed At Maryland; Calls Promoters "Lice"

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, today blasted a Baltimore boxing promoter as "Frankie Carbo's representative" and said he would investigate to determine if the St. Nicholas promoters are associating with criminals in their planned move to Baltimore, Jan. 23.

Obviously miffed at the Maryland Athletic Commission, whose chairman, J. Marshall Boone, had promised to support his fight against the boxing guild, Helfand said it was most amazing to him that Maryland would permit "the likes of these lice" to promote boxing in their state." Carbo is a notorious police character with a powerful influence in boxing, according to Helfand.

In Baltimore, Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin ordered a "full and immediate" investigation into boxing in Maryland and called upon Boone for a "full and complete report" on the Monday night transfer.

Referring to Helfand's order to managers to resign from the Boxing Guild or lose their licenses, McKeldin said:

"I don't want to pre-judge the facts, but it seems to me that if they are disqualified in New York they should be disqualified in Maryland. I don't want them to hold bouts in Maryland if they are illegal in New York."

Plans Finish Fight

Helfand, tanned from a Florida vacation called a press conference, to outline his stand as he dug in for a finish fight with the guild, an organization composed mainly of managers.

"I state from the most unimpeachable source that Benny Trotta (one of the Baltimore promoters) is Carbo's representative in the city of Baltimore," said Helfand. "In the last three weeks, previous to this deal (moving St. Nicholas' Monday televised fights from New York to Baltimore), Frankie Carbo and Benny Trotta whose real name is Benny Magliano met in the city of Baltimore to engineer the deal."

The former racket-buster bristled as he said he would not be intimidated or smeared.

"I intend to find out if Willie Gilzenberg and Tex Sullivan (boxing director and promoter of the London Sporting Club which has promoted boxing at St. Nick's in New York for 86 consecutive Mondays) have been in violation of the law forbidding association with known criminals such as Magliano and his partner, Angelo Munafo, and through them with the boss of both, Mr. Carbo. If the facts indicate, the commission will take disciplinary action, looking to a revocation of their licenses."

Guild Is Outlawed

When he outlawed the guild, Dec. 12, Helfand said it was guilty of "acts detrimental to boxing," "monopolistic" and "a continuing menace to boxing in this state." He also claimed the managers associated with known criminals. Carbo's name was mentioned prominently.

LaSalle At Ridgeley Tonight, WMI League Season Opens

Bruce Hosts Beall Quint, 1955 Champs

Fort Hill Invades Valley; Mt. Savage Battles Allegany

The Western Maryland Interscholastic Basketball League launches its 36th season tonight and sharing interest with the three games in the six-club circuit is the meeting of LaSalle's Explorers and Ridgeley's Blackhawks on the latter's court.

Ridgeley and LaSalle deserve top billing because of the fact that Coach Chester Payne's quint will be striving to make it three straight wins over Cumberland schools.

Both Win Four In Row

The Blackhawks won at Fort Hill, 68-66, in an overtime contest, and took the Campers at Campobello, 53-44. Both LaSalle and Ridgeley boast four-game winning streaks. The Paynemen own the record, the only reverse coming at the hands of Elk Garden, 69-60, while Coach George Geatz's club has won five and lost one, suffering its only setback at the hands of Bruce High, 71-67.

Last season, Ridgeley, winner of 23 out of 27 games, reeled off nine consecutive wins on its home floor, before being halted by LaSalle, 71-63. The Hawks had beaten the Explorers earlier in the campaign on the Fayette Street court, 51-48. Ridgeley's home record last season was 10-1 and the only blemish was the defeat at LaSalle's hands.

Beall Opens At Bruce

Beall High School's defending champions invade Westernport to play Bruce High, Allegany's Campers tackle Mt. Savage on the latter's court and Valley High's Black Knights host Fort Hill's Sentinels in the W.M.I. League openers tonight.

The W.M.I. League race could be the best in years with six well-balanced clubs scheduled to swing into action.

Four Potomac Valley Conference games appear on tonight's cage schedule. Keyser will invade Romney, Franklin plays at Petersburg, Capon Bridge entertains Fort Ashby and Wardensville plays Mathias on the latter's floor.

Five other scholastic games for district teams include: Elk Garden at Southern, Thomas at Harman, Bayard vs. Kasson on the Parsons High court; West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney at Hyndman High and Berkeley Springs at Moorefield.

Mel Henry's Hagerstown High quint will be shooting for its 7th straight win when it plays host to Westminster while Homer Brooks' undefeated Frederick High Cadets will seek win No. 4 when they play Howard County High School in Frederick.

Patty Berg Top Athlete Third Time

Calls Herself "Meat And Potatoes" Player

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP)—Golfer Patty Berg, today named Woman Athlete of the Year for 1955, calls herself a "meat and potatoes" player.

"By that I mean that last year I was hitting the greens in regulation," said the 37-year-old redhead who won six major tournaments. "That's the meat and potatoes of golf—the key to the game.

"Every winter down at my home in Fort Myers (Fla.) I give my game a complete self analysis," she told a reporter. "A year ago, I decided that my drives and long irons could stand some improvement. So I concentrated on that phase in practices. This winter I'm going in for chipping and putting.

"But I didn't start out 1955 any too well," continued the little veteran of 22 years of competitive golf. "At Jacksonville I was plenty wild all over the course and after the first round was 13th in the field.

Pictures Revealed Flaw

"Then I got a long distance phone call from my stepmother and dad. I told them I didn't know what I was doing wrong but it was something. You know what they did? They began studying pictures they had taken of me playing three weeks previously.

"They called me back and said that those pictures revealed that there was a flaw in my stance—something I unwittingly had been doing. Well, I went out, got my stance back in order and finished second in the tourney. That's what I call remote control coaching."

It is the third time Patty has been voted Woman Athlete of the Year by the nation's sports writers and broadcasters. She won the honor in 1938 and again in 1943, two years after shattering her knee cap in an auto accident and spending 18 months in hospital.

Won $16,492 In 1955

In 1955 she became the first woman to take both the money-winning title ($16,492) and Vare Trophy (based on a low scoring 74.47 stroke average) in the same season. She polled 200 points in the voting, beating out golfer Babe Zaharias by 54 and tennis player Doris Hart, who was third, by a whopping 107.

Babe Leaves Hospital

GALVESTON, Tex., Jan. 5 (AP)—Mildred Babe Zaharias left the hospital today for the first time since she re-entered it Dec. 28 with pneumonia and went for a half hour car ride with her husband, George.

Babe said, "I'm feeling much better now" and hopes to return to her Tampa, Fla., home this month.

Wilson Is Named NFL Rules Advisor

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5 (AP)—Samuel (Mike) Wilson of Philadelphia today was named technical advisor on rules and in full charge of officials of the National Football League.

NFL Commissioner Bert Bell announced the appointment of Wilson, 59, who resides in Abington just outside Philadelphia. Wilson starred in football, baseball and basketball at Lehigh University in 1918, 1919 and 1920, and later played professional baseball with the Pittsburgh Pirates and pro football in the NFL with Rock Island.

Hagerstown High Cagers Added To LaSalle Schedule

Hagerstown High School, undefeated in six games played to date, has been added to LaSalle High School's basketball schedule, it was announced last night by Brother Thomas, athletic director at LaSalle.

Coach Mel Henry's Hubs, who hold decisions over both Allegany and Fort Hill, play LaSalle here February 27, while the return game is set for Hagerstown, March 6, the final of the season for the Explorers.

LaSalle will play at Petersburg (W. Va.) High School on January 12 instead of January 13.

Addition of Hagerstown gives LaSalle a schedule of 22 games.

Lausse Favored To Beat Savage

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — Although it's overlooked in the confusion about boxing guilds and promoters shuffling off to Baltimore, a pretty fair middleweight fight is scheduled tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden between Eduardo Lausse, the Argentine with 31 straight victories, and Milo Savage of Salt Lake City.

This may be the last match at the Garden for a long time if the Boxing Guild of New York and Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, stand fast.

Helfand sent a Jan. 16 deadline for all managers to divorce themselves from the Boxing Guild and all promoters are having trouble making matches after that date.

Television and radio fans will get the usual Friday network (NBC) coverage at 10 p.m. (EST).

Lausse is a 3 to 1 favorite to add Savage to his growing list of victims. The 28-year-old puncher hasn't lost since he dropped a decision to Kid Gavilan Sept. 13, 1952 when the Keed was welter champ. Lausse finally caught up with Gavilan last Sept. 3 shortly before his return to the U.S.

LaSalle At Ridgeley Tonight, WMI League Season Opens

Fort Hill Invades Valley; Mt. Savage Battles Allegany

The Western Maryland Interscholastic Basketball League launches its 36th season tonight and sharing interest with the three games in the six-club circuit is the meeting of LaSalle's Explorers and Ridgeley's Blackhawks on the latter's court.

Ridgeley and LaSalle deserve top billing because of the fact that Coach Chester Payne's quint will be striving to make it three straight wins over Cumberland schools.

Both Win Four In Row

The Blackhawks won at Fort Hill, 68-66, in an overtime contest, and took the Campers at Campobello, 53-44. Both LaSalle and Ridgeley boast four-game winning streaks. The Paynemen own a record, the only reverse coming at the hands of Elk Garden, 69-60, while Coach George Geatz's club has won five and lost one, suffering its only setback at the hands of Bruce High, 71-67.

Last season, Ridgeley, winner of 23 out of 27 games, reeled off nine consecutive wins on its home floor, before being halted by LaSalle, 71-63. The Hawks had beaten the Explorers earlier in the campaign on the Fayette Street court, 51-48. Ridgeley's home record last season was 10-1 and the only blemish was the defeat at LaSalle's hands.

Beall Opens At Bruce

Beall High School's defending champions invade Westernport to play Bruce High, Allegany's Campers tackle Mt. Savage on the latter's court and Valley High's Black Knights host Fort Hill's Sentinels in the W.M.I. League openers tonight.

The W.M.I. League race could be the best in years with six well-balanced clubs scheduled to swing into action.

Four Potomac Valley Conference games appear on tonight's cage schedule. Keyser will invade Romney, Franklin plays at Petersburg, Capon Bridge entertains Fort Ashby and Wardensville plays Mathias on the latter's floor.

Five other scholastic games for district teams include: Elk Garden at Southern, Thomas at Harman, Bayard vs. Kasson on the Parsons High court; West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney at Hyndman High and Berkeley Springs at Moorefield.

Mel Henry's Hagerstown High quint will be shooting for its 7th straight win when it plays host to Westminster while Homer Brooks' undefeated Frederick High Cadets will seek win No. 4 when they play Howard County High School in Frederick.

Patty Berg Top Athlete Third Time

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP)—Golfer Patty Berg, today named Woman Athlete of the Year for 1955, calls herself a "meat and potatoes" player.

"By that I mean that last year I was hitting the greens in regulation," said the 37-year-old redhead who won six major tournaments. "That's the meat and potatoes of golf—the key to the game.

"Every winter down at my home in Fort Myers (Fla.) I give my game a complete self analysis," she told a reporter. "A year ago, I decided that my drives and long irons could stand some improvement. So I concentrated on that phase in practices. This winter I'm going in for chipping and putting.

"But I didn't start out 1955 any too well," continued the little veteran of 22 years of competitive golf. "At Jacksonville I was plenty wild all over the course and after the first round was 13th in the field.

Pictures Revealed Flaw

"Then I got a long distance phone call from my stepmother and dad. I told them I didn't know what I was doing wrong but it was something. You know what they did? They began studying pictures they had taken of me playing three weeks previously.

"They called me back and said that those pictures revealed that there was a flaw in my stance—something I unwittingly had been doing. Well, I went out, got my stance back in order and finished second in the tourney. That's what I call remote control coaching."

It is the third time Patty has been voted Woman Athlete of the Year by the nation's sports writers and broadcasters. She won the honor in 1938 and again in 1943, two years after shattering her knee cap in an auto accident and spending 18 months in hospital.

Won $16,492 In 1955

In 1955 she became the first woman to take both the money-winning title ($16,492) and Vare Trophy (based on a low scoring 74.47 stroke average) in the same season. She polled 200 points in the voting, beating out golfer Babe Zaharias by 54 and tennis player Doris Hart, who was third, by a whopping 107.

Babe Leaves Hospital

GALVESTON, Tex., Jan. 5 (AP)—Mildred Babe Zaharias left the hospital today for the first time since she re-entered it Dec. 28 with pneumonia and went for a half hour car ride with her husband, George.

Babe said, "I'm feeling much better now" and hopes to return to her Tampa, Fla., home this month.

Wilson Is Named NFL Rules Advisor

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5 (AP)—Samuel (Mike) Wilson of Philadelphia today was named technical advisor on rules and in full charge of officials of the National Football League.

NFL Commissioner Bert Bell announced the appointment of Wilson, 59, who resides in Abington just outside Philadelphia. Wilson starred in football, baseball and basketball at Lehigh University in 1918, 1919 and 1920, and later played professional baseball with the Pittsburgh Pirates and pro football in the NFL with Rock Island.

Hagerstown High Cagers Added To LaSalle Schedule

Hagerstown High School, undefeated in six games played to date, has been added to LaSalle High School's basketball schedule, it was announced last night by Brother Thomas, athletic director at LaSalle.

Coach Mel Henry's Hubs, who hold decisions over both Allegany and Fort Hill, play LaSalle here February 27, while the return game is set for Hagerstown, March 6, the final of the season for the Explorers.

LaSalle will play at Petersburg (W. Va.) High School on January 12 instead of January 13.

Addition of Hagerstown gives LaSalle a schedule of 22 games.

Lausse Favored To Beat Savage

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — Although it's overlooked in the confusion about boxing guilds and promoters shuffling off to Baltimore, a pretty fair middleweight fight is scheduled tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden between Eduardo Lausse, the Argentine with 31 straight victories, and Milo Savage of Salt Lake City.

This may be the last match at the Garden for a long time if the Boxing Guild of New York and Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, stand fast.

Helfand sent a Jan. 16 deadline for all managers to divorce themselves from the Boxing Guild and all promoters are having trouble making matches after that date.

Television and radio fans will get the usual Friday network (NBC) coverage at 10 p.m. (EST).

Lausse is a 3 to 1 favorite to add Savage to his growing list of victims. The 28-year-old puncher hasn't lost since he dropped a decision to Kid Gavilan Sept. 13, 1952 when the Keed was welter champ. Lausse finally caught up with Gavilan last Sept. 3 shortly before his return to the U.S.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (INS) — Any outside producer harboring any delusions about borrowing Elizabeth Taylor this year can forget their dreams. The violet-eyed honey of MGM will be kept so busy on her home lot hubby Mike Wilding and her children may find trouble "borrowing" her for a night at home.

Immediately following "Raintree Country" (which has a long, long shooting schedule) Elizabeth will star in James Michener's "Until They Sail" which is now being scripted in New York by Robert Anderson. Anderson, you may recall, is the famed playwright of "Tea and Sympathy" and this is his first writing chore directly for the screen.

Producer Charles Schnee tells me that the Michener story deals with a family of girls living in New Zealand during the last war and that it will be filmed there, meaning that Liz is in for a long location trip.

The start of the New year has been busy for Cornel Wilde, who, in a matter of hours, was on his way to Africa for "The Black Mamba." He'll meet with Donna Reed, Leo Genn and Tony Owen in London and they'll all travel to Nairobi together.

Cornel substitutes for Aldo Ray who bowed out because he didn't want to leave Jeff Donnell with whom he reconciled just before Christmas. Dick English, who has been writing the script, was called upon to make changes to fit Cornel. Director George Marshall has been in Africa since early December making pre-production scenes.

Talked with Susan Hayward, who is off for New York, Philadelphia and Washington on Monday to spend ten days exploiting her picture "I'll Cry Tomorrow," for which she certainly will get an Academy nomination.

"I'm going to give interviews, see shows and have fun," Susan told me.

"Anyone in your life?" I asked.

"I'm still a married woman," she said. "Mine is the longest case on record. I've been trying to get my freedom for over a year. The judge still has my case under advisement. I'm hoping my new year will be happy and that my divorce from Jess Barker, who has made my life pretty miserable all these months, will be granted."

Very quietly, General Charles A. Lindbergh flew into town to take a look at Jimmy Stewart in "The Spirit of St. Louis." The general requested that Warner Brothers give out no publicity, since he didn't want anyone to know of his presence in our town.

Lindbergh has what amounts to almost a phobia about any personal publicity, stemming back to his flight across the ocean, the first one ever made on May 26, 1927. Before he'd even allow Leland Hayward to make his life story, Lindbergh exacted a promise that all stories about him be kept down to a minimum.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Anne Bancroft and Marty May are starting the new year right — with a big reconciliation.

Marlon Brando's date these evenings is Rita Moreno. They celebrated New Year's Eve at the Ranch Club in Palm Springs and have had several dates since.

Ronnie Knox, UCLA's football hero spent a pleasant evening at the Luau with Belinda Hallett, former Las Vegas chorine. Night before she was with George Raft.

Nat "King" Cole sings "Autumn Leaves" both at the beginning and end of William Goetz's picture named for the popular song.

At the Encore, Sydney Chaplin whispered sweet nothings in Jeanne Coyle's ear. She's Gene Kelly's dance assistant. Syd and Joan Collins have written finis to their romance.

Hard to say which takes up more room at Debbie and Eddie's new Palisades estate — the new swimming pool or Eddie's tremendous record collection which is being moved in this week.

Kim Novak is back after three weeks of hard work plugging "Picnic." Says the only thing she missed was a college prom and she hopes to get a bid some day. This should start a stampede from college swains.

Ed Judson, the forgotten man in Rita Hayworth's succession of husbands, is now operating a successful night club in Miami.

At the Mo, Mike Rennie and English Actress Patricia La Ffan (pronounced La Fan) were a cozy twosome.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Small graces, but important—the way you don your coat and remove it.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

On And Off With Your Coat

Do you ever think of how you look when you put on a coat or remove it? Do you dive in with both arms? Do you shrug, twist, and drop it off in a heap? No model ever does, nor any other well-poised, charming woman. They make both processes graceful gestures, and so can you if you practice these model methods:

To be as smooth at removing a coat, grasp both sides of it at collarbone level. Slip the neckline down the shoulder slightly and slide both hands behind your back. When they touch, grasp the left cuff with the third and little finger of your left hand, and the right cuff with its thumb and forefinger. Now as you draw the right arm from its sleeve, pull both sleeves forward with the left hand. Transfer your hold on the sleeves to the right hand and steer the left hand out of its sleeve so it can take a grasp on the center back of the coat at the neck, then drop the sleeves.

DO YOU MEASURE UP?

These easy-to-use tables show you how to calculate your ideal measurements from head to toe. They will make figure readjustments simple and accurate. For a copy of "Do You Measure Up?" send 10c (in coin) and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper.

Steam Helpers Serve Railroad

Due to the heavy traffic on the B&O Railroad a total of eight steam locomotives have been assigned to Hyndman in helper service.

The eight Diesel locomotives which had been performing this type work there have been transferred to through freight service between Cumberland and New Castle, Pa.

B&O officials say that only Diesel locomotive units are used on the line east of Cumberland. There are six steam locomotives which leave Cumberland daily on westbound trips. These are in addition to diesel units which are used west of here.

The B&O was completely Dieselized from Cumberland eastward to New York more than a year ago. A large proportion of its motive power on the western region of the system is Diesel, but there are still many steam locomotives in use on that section.

Smedberg Appointed Naval Academy Head

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Secretary of Navy Thomas today announced the appointment of Rear Adm. William R. Smedberg to be superintendent of the Naval Aacdemy, starting early this spring.

At Annapolis, he will relieve Rear Adm. Walter F. Boone, superintendent since August, 1954, who will be given what the Navy described as an "important sea command." Boone's new post will be announced later.

WIFE PRESERVERS

"Bloom" is a word used to describe the cloudy look on wooden furniture caused by dampness. To remove it wipe the surface with a soapy cloth and rinse with a clean, damp one. When dry, rewax or polish the wood.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 — (INS) — People...places...things...

Frank Hague grew ever and ever grumpier with newsmen as his years stretched. But I claim being recipient of the shortest interview the old line Jersey politician ever gave.

It happened years ago, just before the announcement that racing would return to Jersey. Hague was watching the races at Belmont one day when a fellow who claimed to know him better than a brother suggested to me that I could get a good story out of him on the racing situation in Hagueville. I walked a couple of league's to Hague's box, listening to the fellow saying how well he knew Hague.

At last, there squatted the great man, derby clamped at an angle, staring dyspeptically at the track. His great friend, my liaison officer, stopped in his tracks 10 feet from his highship and actually took off his hat and held it on his chest, like a man listening to the Star Spangled Banner.

"Mr. Mayor, I want you should meet Bob Considine," he said with a nervous cough.

"No," Hague said.

Dr. Joseph Kaplan, one of the top men in the creation of our fantastically complicated space satellite, is an enthusiastic football fan who serves his alma mater, U.C.L.A., as an adviser on the sport. He flew to the Rose Bowl game and mourned the loss by his team to Michigan State in the last seven seconds of the contest.

"I can't understand my colleagues' strange attachment to cardplaying as a means of relaxation," Dr. Kaplan amiably complained to his plane seatmate, Mel Allen "I wish I could get them interested in football. Cards are too complicated. I don't understand card games. But I guess a lot of people can't understand football, either. I live at the Cosmos Club (one of Washington's and the nation's oldest) and you should have seen the look the members gave me one Saturday afternoon this year when I switched on a football game."

An ancient tomb containing the dust of Thomas Walsingham, patron of Christopher Marlowe, will be pried open in a dramatic effort to prove that Marlowe ghosted the plays of William Shakespeare. Marloweites through the centuries have come to believe that Walsingham concocted a mammoth plot which enabled the brilliant dramatist to continue writing after the crown sought his head for treason. Marlows was reported dead in a pub brawl but it was, in truth, a simple plowman who was done in and buried under the playwright's name. Secluded under Walsingham's wing, Marlowe is then supposed to have written "Hamlet," "Romeo and Juliet," "King Lear" and all the others, and Walsingham paid a semi-illiterate Shakespeare, whose wife could neither read nor write, to act as front man —author and producer.

The Marloweites say that Walsingham, with estates at stake, must have taken some of Marlowe's unpublished "Shakespeare" to his grave. They have now won the right to make sure.

But where does that leave the Baconites? Will they dig up and frisk the man they say wrote Shakespeare's stuff?

It should be quickly mentioned that many people believe Shakespeare wrote his own. Their scorn for these other claims was best expressed, perhaps, by Jimmy Isiminger, late great sportswriter for the Philadelphia Inquirer. Jimby, noting wryly that a Notre Dame backfield man named Bill Shakespeare had punted a football 89, yards, wrote, "that's one the Baconites can't claim!"

Surest mark of success for a Miami Beach hotel is that it is the butt of stories. None ever reaped such a harvest as the tremendous new Fontainebleu, where they have ballpoint quills on the desks in the suites. The latest: The Fontainebleu is so exclusive that its room service has an unlisted number.

Advance In Stock Market Cut Back By Late Selling

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—An early promise of a general advance in the stock market today faded away by the close.

Only slight headway was maintained at the finish of trading with prices spread over a range of around 3 points higher to 2 points lower.

Near the close, there was new selling in the railroads, and this depressed a number of key stocks. Chemicals were lower with the rails.

President Eisenhower's state of the nation message to Congress brought out no surprises to Wall Street. The strings tied to a possible tax cut remained a matter to inspire caution in the stock market.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed unchanged at $178.50 after being up 60 cents at noon. It was off 80 cents yesterday and 90 cents the previous day. The industrial component was up 20 cents while railroads declined 50 cents and utilities advanced 30 cents.

General Motors occupied the top of the most active list of 1⅛ at 44. It was down ¼ yesterday.

City Firemen Called

The Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company yesterday morning answered an alarm on Rosewood Avenue when a brush fire broke out over an acre of land. The call was received at 10:30 a. m., and nine firemen reported.

Firemen from Central Station Wednesday were called to the rear of 419 North Centre Street after a railway trestle caught fire. Firemen said the blaze started when a worker using a torch set crossties on fire. No damage was reported.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (INS) — Any outside producer harboring any delusions about borrowing Elizabeth Taylor this year can forget their dreams. The violet-eyed honey of MGM will be kept so busy on her home lot hubby Mike Wilding and her children may find trouble "borrowing" her for a night at home.

Immediately following "Raintree Country" (which has a long, long shooting schedule) Elizabeth will star in James Michener's "Until They Sail" which is now being scripted in New York by Robert Anderson. Anderson, you may recall, is the famed playwright of "Tea and Sympathy" and this is his first writing chore directly for the screen.

Producer Charles Schnee tells me that the Michener story deals with a family of girls living in New Zealand during the last war and that it will be filmed there, meaning that Liz is in for a long location trip.

The start of the New year has been busy for Cornel Wilde, who, in a matter of hours, was on his way to Africa for "The Black Mamba." He'll meet with Donna Reed, Leo Genn and Tony Owen in London and they'll all travel to Nairobi together.

Cornel substitutes for Aldo Ray who bowed out because he didn't want to leave Jeff Donnell with whom he reconciled just before Christmas. Dick English, who has been writing the script, was called upon to make changes to fit Cornel. Director George Marshall has been in Africa since early December making pre-production scenes.

Talked with Susan Hayward, who is off for New York, Philadelphia and Washington on Monday to spend ten days exploiting her picture "I'll Cry Tomorrow," for which she certainly will get an Academy nomination.

"I'm going to give interviews, see shows and have fun," Susan told me.

"Anyone in your life?" I asked.

"I'm still a married woman," she said. "Mine is the longest case on record. I've been trying to get my freedom for over a year. The judge still has my case under advisement. I'm hoping my new year will be happy and that my divorce from Jess Barker, who has made my life pretty miserable all these months, will be granted."

Very quietly, General Charles A. Lindbergh flew into town to take a look at Jimmy Stewart in "The Spirit of St. Louis." The general requested that Warner Brothers give out no publicity, since he didn't want anyone to know of his presence in our town.

Lindbergh has what amounts to almost a phobia about any personal publicity, stemming back to his flight across the ocean, the first one ever made on May 26, 1927. Before he'd even allow Leland Hayward to make his life story, Lindbergh exacted a promise that all stories about him be kept down to a minimum.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Anne Bancroft and Marty May are starting the new year right — with a big reconciliation.

Marlon Brando's date these evenings is Rita Moreno. They celebrated New Year's Eve at the Ranch Club in Palm Springs and have had several dates since.

Ronnie Knox, UCLA's football hero spent a pleasant evening at the Luau with Belinda Hallett, former Las Vegas chorine. Night before she was with George Raft.

At the Encore, Sydney Chaplin whispered sweet nothings in Jeanne Coyle's ear. She's Gene Kelly's dance assistant. Syd and Joan Collins have written finis to their romance.

Hard to say which takes up more room at Debbie and Eddie's new Palisades estate — the new swimming pool or Eddie's tremendous record collection which is being moved in this week.

Kim Novak is back after three weeks of hard work plugging "Picnic." Says the only thing she missed was a college prom and she hopes to get a bid some day. This should start a stampede from college swains.

Ed Judson, the forgotten man in Rita Hayworth's succession of husbands, is now operating a successful night club in Miami.

At the Mo, Mike Rennie and English Actress Patricia La Ffan (pronounced La Fan) were a cozy twosome.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

On And Off With Your Coat

Do you ever think of how you look when you put on a coat or remove it? Do you dive in with both arms? Do you shrug, twist, and drop it off in a heap? No model ever does, nor any other well-poised, charming woman. They make both processes graceful gestures, and so can you if you practice these model methods:

To be as smooth at removing a coat, grasp both sides of it at collarbone level. Slip the neckline down the shoulder slightly and slide both hands behind your back. When they touch, grasp the left cuff with the third and little finger of your left hand, and the right cuff with its thumb and forefinger. Now as you draw the right arm from its sleeve, pull both sleeves forward with the left hand. Transfer your hold on the sleeves to the right hand and steer the left hand out of its sleeve so it can take a grasp on the center back of the coat at the neck, then drop the sleeves.

DO YOU MEASURE UP?

These easy-to-use tables show you how to calculate your ideal measurements from head to toe. They will make figure readjustments simple and accurate. For a copy of "Do You Measure Up?" send 10c (in coin) and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper.

Steam Helpers Serve Railroad

Due to the heavy traffic on the B&O Railroad a total of eight steam locomotives have been assigned to Hyndman in helper service.

The eight Diesel locomotives which had been performing this type work there have been transferred to through freight service between Cumberland and New Castle, Pa.

B&O officials say that only Diesel locomotive units are used on the line east of Cumberland. There are six steam locomotives which leave Cumberland daily on westbound trips. These are in addition to diesel units which are used west of here.

The B&O was completely Dieselized from Cumberland eastward to New York more than a year ago. A large proportion of its motive power on the western region of the system is Diesel, but there are still many steam locomotives in use on that section.

Smedberg Appointed Naval Academy Head

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Secretary of Navy Thomas today announced the appointment of Rear Adm. William R. Smedberg to be superintendent of the Naval Aacdemy, starting early this spring.

At Annapolis, he will relieve Rear Adm. Walter F. Boone, superintendent since August, 1954, who will be given what the Navy described as an "important sea command." Boone's new post will be announced later.

WIFE PRESERVERS

"Bloom" is a word used to describe the cloudy look on wooden furniture caused by dampness. To remove it wipe the surface with a soapy cloth and rinse with a clean, damp one. When dry, rewax or polish the wood.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 — (INS) — People...places...things...

Frank Hague grew ever and ever grumpier with newsmen as his years stretched. But I claim being recipient of the shortest interview the old line Jersey politician ever gave.

It happened years ago, just before the announcement that racing would return to Jersey. Hague was watching the races at Belmont one day when a fellow who claimed to know him better than a brother suggested to me that I could get a good story out of him on the racing situation in Hagueville. I walked a couple of league's to Hague's box, listening to the fellow saying how well he knew Hague.

At last, there squatted the great man, derby clamped at an angle, staring dyspeptically at the track. His great friend, my liaison officer, stopped in his tracks 10 feet from his highship and actually took off his hat and held it on his chest, like a man listening to the Star Spangled Banner.

"Mr. Mayor, I want you should meet Bob Considine," he said with a nervous cough.

"No," Hague said.

Dr. Joseph Kaplan, one of the top men in the creation of our fantastically complicated space satellite, is an enthusiastic football fan who serves his alma mater, U.C.L.A., as an adviser on the sport. He flew to the Rose Bowl game and mourned the loss by his team to Michigan State in the last seven seconds of the contest.

"I can't understand my colleagues' strange attachment to cardplaying as a means of relaxation," Dr. Kaplan amiably complained to his plane seatmate, Mel Allen "I wish I could get them interested in football. Cards are too complicated. I don't understand card games. But I guess a lot of people can't understand football, either. I live at the Cosmos Club (one of Washington's and the nation's oldest) and you should have seen the look the members gave me one Saturday afternoon this year when I switched on a football game."

An ancient tomb containing the dust of Thomas Walsingham, patron of Christopher Marlowe, will be pried open in a dramatic effort to prove that Marlowe ghosted the plays of William Shakespeare. Marloweites through the centuries have come to believe that Walsingham concocted a mammoth plot which enabled the brilliant dramatist to continue writing after the crown sought his head for treason. Marlows was reported dead in a pub brawl but it was, in truth, a simple plowman who was done in and buried under the playwright's name. Secluded under Walsingham's wing, Marlowe is then supposed to have written "Hamlet," "Romeo and Juliet," "King Lear" and all the others, and Walsingham paid a semi-illiterate Shakespeare, whose wife could neither read nor write, to act as front man —author and producer.

The Marloweites say that Walsingham, with estates at stake, must have taken some of Marlowe's unpublished "Shakespeare" to his grave. They have now won the right to make sure.

But where does that leave the Baconites? Will they dig up and frisk the man they say wrote Shakespeare's stuff?

It should be quickly mentioned that many people believe Shakespeare wrote his own. Their scorn for these other claims was best expressed, perhaps, by Jimmy Isiminger, late great sportswriter for the Philadelphia Inquirer. Jimby, noting wryly that a Notre Dame backfield man named Bill Shakespeare had punted a football 89, yards, wrote, "that's one the Baconites can't claim!"

Surest mark of success for a Miami Beach hotel is that it is the butt of stories. None ever reaped such a harvest as the tremendous new Fontainebleu, where they have ballpoint quills on the desks in the suites. The latest: The Fontainebleu is so exclusive that its room service has an unlisted number.

City Firemen Called

The Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company yesterday morning answered an alarm on Rosewood Avenue when a brush fire broke out over an acre of land. The call was received at 10:30 a. m., and nine firemen reported.

Firemen from Central Station Wednesday were called to the rear of 419 North Centre Street after a railway trestle caught fire. Firemen said the blaze started when a worker using a torch set crossties on fire. No damage was reported.

Nightmare In Red

"Nightmare in Red," the NBC-TV documentary about Russia in this century, was a massive undertaking about a massive subject and it was, I should say, about 75 per cent as good as it could have been, which, on the whole is a pretty high mark.

An NBC team under producer Henry Salomon spent six months on this one, dug up some remarkable films from some 76 sources, including some from behind the Iron curtain, and did an extraordinary job of cutting and pasting to give a picture of Russia from the ancient tyranny of Czarist Russia to the contemporary tyranny of communism.

Mr. Salomon is a scrupulous and meticulous producer and I wish he'd stick to producing. However, he is also co-author (with Richard Hanser) and therein lies the chief and only weakness of the documentary. Mr. Salomon is a heavy-handed writer who seems to relish the obvious as if he didn't quite trust either our intelligence or our eyesight. It isn't enough to show us pictures of Cossacks shooting peasants; we must be told that this represents tyrannical oppression. It is not enough to see famine stalking the land; we must be told "Famine stalks the land" by Mr. Salomon, who never shrinks from a cliche.

I had the same complaint about Mr. Salomon's narration for "Victory at Sea," which he also wrote. Again and again, when the films told their own story the narrator broke in with unnecessary and melodramatic words. Similarly, "Nightmare in Red" lost rather than gained potency in not knowing when to shut up.

Apart from this, though, "Nightmare in Red" was a memorable experience. There were magnificent early films of the vanished splendors of the czar—the religious ceremonies, the balls, the palaces, the yachts—interspersed with shots of the grinding poverty of the peasantry. There were rare films of the saintly, white-bearded Tolstoy, of Lenin and his wife Krupskaya, of the secret police of the time.

Old as these films are they are still terribly revealing. I was especially struck by one shot of a priest spraying holy water on lines of the inept, unequipped Russian soldiers who were later to be slaughtered by the thousands, and of the scenes from World War I of massed cavalry and infantry charges which seem as outmoded as the Roman phalanx.

The picture goes on to detail the overthrow of the disorganized czarist regime by the almost as disorganized Kerensky democratic forces and the subsequent overthrow of the provisional government by the highly organized Communists—or Bolsheviki—under Lenin, the death of Lenin, the rise of Stalin, the purges of the old Bolsheviks.

"The Russians since the beginning of recorded time have seen despots come and go. Century after century, a tyrant from the Kremlin has oppressed their lives, powerless to quench their faith. The czar is dead, Lenin is dead and now Stalin is dead. New tyrants come but the people and their faith remain." The real message of "Nightmare in Red" lies in those lines, which underscore the terrible parallels between old tyrannies and the present one. The dogmas change but the Russians remain terribly Russian throughout.

Narrator for the documentary is Alexander Scourby, who has one of those voice-of-doom deliveries which got quite a lot on my nerves. There was a musical score written by Robert Russell Bennett, one of the best arrangers in the business, and it was a very workmanlike job.

As a quick but penetrating glimpse in the dark abysses of the Russian soul under the czar and under Stalin, it was a powerful and at times even blood-curdling experience and it could be well worth repeating. It ended with a little sermon from John Cameron Swayze about how lucky we are to live under our own system of government. After the horrors we had just witnessed in Communist Russia, this may easily have been the most unnecessary bit of comment I ever heard.

College Post To Cox

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Jan. 5 (AP) — Washington College announced today the appointment of J. Stewart Cox of New York City to be assistant director of admissions.

Largest known forest fire was the one which swept over three million acres and caused the loss of 160 lives in Maine and New Brunswick in October, 1825.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

JUST SHORT OF SPECIFICATIONS

THE PHRASE "solid suit" is one of those bridge terms that is used somewhat loosely. Many a suit is judged to be solid—and with considerable justification—that does not quite live up to the specification in the play. For example, consider South's spade suit in this case, and imagine his annoyance over the outcome of the hand.

North dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 80 on score.

	♠ 3 2 ♥ K 8 6 ♦ K Q 7 4 ♣ A K Q 9
♠ A 9 5 ♥ 7 2 ♦ 10 8 5 ♣ J 6 4 3 2	N W E S	♠ 6 ♥ A Q 10 9 5 4 ♦ A J 9 3 ♣ 7 5
	♠ K Q J 10 8 7 4 ♥ J 3 ♦ 6 2 ♣ 10 8

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	2 ♥	2 ♠	Pass
Pass	3 ♥	3 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Needless to say, the fact that North-South had an advanced part-score exerted quite a lot of influence over the bidding.

West opened his top heart. East won with the queen, cashed the heart ace and then led a third round of the suit.

South realized that he could not afford to let West ruff this third lead with a low trump, because then the defenders would take (in all) two hearts, a diamond, the low trump and the spade ace. So South ruffed with the trump king. West correctly discarded a diamond, refusing to waste his trump ace on an overruff.

Declarer now led the spade queen, and West was not slow about taking the trick. A diamond shift put East in with the ace, and when East returned still another heart (even though dummy was now void of that suit), South was in a hopeless position. His king and queen of trumps were gone; he now had only the jack and ten in high trumps against West's nine-five. If South ruffed this present heart lead with an honor, West would of course discard, and later he would have to be given his nine for the setting trick. When, however, South chose to ruff with the trump eight, West overruffed with the nine, and what had appeared to be an undefeatable contract was beaten.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

JUST SHORT OF SPECIFICATIONS

THE PHRASE "solid suit" is one of those bridge terms that is used somewhat loosely. Many a suit is judged to be solid—and with considerable justification—that does not quite live up to the specification in the play. For example, consider South's spade suit in this case, and imagine his annoyance over the outcome of the hand.

North dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 80 on score.

	♠ 3 2 ♥ K 8 6 ♦ K Q 7 4 ♣ A K Q 9
♠ A 9 5 ♥ 7 2 ♦ 10 8 5 ♣ J 6 4 3 2	N W E S	♠ 6 ♥ A Q 10 9 5 4 ♦ A J 9 3 ♣ 7 5
	♠ K Q J 10 8 7 4 ♥ J 3 ♦ 6 2 ♣ 10 8

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	2 ♥	2 ♠	Pass
Pass	3 ♥	3 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Needless to say, the fact that North-South had an advanced part-score exerted quite a lot of influence over the bidding.

West opened his top heart. East won with the queen, cashed the heart ace and then led a third round of the suit.

South realized that he could not afford to let West ruff this third lead with a low trump, because then the defenders would take (in all) two hearts, a diamond, the low trump and the spade ace. So South ruffed with the trump king. West correctly discarded a diamond, refusing to waste his trump ace on an overruff.

Declarer now led the spade queen, and West was not slow about taking the trick. A diamond shift put East in with the ace, and when East returned still another heart (even though dummy was now void of that suit), South was in a hopeless position. His king and queen of trumps were gone; he now had only the jack and ten in high trumps against West's nine-five. If South ruffed this present heart lead with an honor, West would of course discard, and later he would have to be given his nine for the setting trick. When, however, South chose to ruff with the trump eight, West overruffed with the nine, and what had appeared to be an undefeatable contract was beaten.

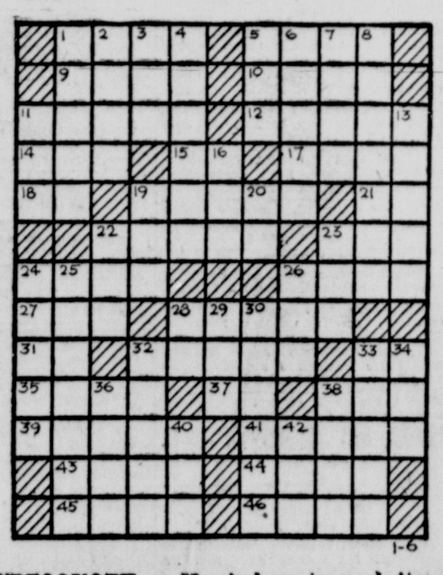
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

M Y N A G M C L E R S Y Q M ; M Y N A G M C L G V V X G Z ; E V V N A G M C R L G V V O A E M C Z — N Z M M K R Y M .

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: FOR SELDOM SHALL SHE HEAR A TALE SO SAD, SO TENDER, AND SO TRUE—SHENSTONE.

CHRYSLER

1952 Plymouth Belvedere Hardtop

This car formerly belonged to a local contractor and we can vouch for the way he gave the car regular checks. This Hardtop has a dark blue finish body with a white top and the contrasting interior makes this a beauty. Has low mileage and very good tires. The equipment includes heater, defroster, radio, signal lights, backup lights and outside mirrors. It's the car for sports minded people. This is another Potomac Motors Special at only $895

Call us for more details or a demonstration.

CHRYSLER

1952 Plymouth Belvedere Hardtop

This car formerly belonged to a local contractor and we can vouch for the way he gave the car regular checks. This Hardtop has a dark blue finish body with a white top and the contrasting interior makes this a beauty. Has low mileage and very good tires. The equipment includes heater, defroster, radio, signal lights, backup lights and outside mirrors. It's the car for sports minded people. This is another Potomac Motors Special at only $895

Call us for more details or a demonstration.

Parsons WSCS Holds Annual Turkey Dinner

PARSONS — Members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Davis held their annual turkey dinner in the social rooms of the church a recent evening.

The rooms were decorated with pines and holly, and the tables were decorated in keeping with the holiday season. Each guest was given a small Christmas tree as a favor.

Following the meal, devotions were conducted by the Rev. William Trowbridge and Mrs. B. T. Walters presented the program. The program included the reading of prophecy and events of the birth of Christ from the Old and New Testaments by Mrs. Leon Steyer and Mildred Eshelman. Christmas carols were sung by the members of Girls Interest Group. The program closed with a candlelight service and a friendship circle.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Charles M. Reel, Plaintiff, vs. Evelyn R. Reel, Defendant. No. 24385 Equity. In The Circuit Court, Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII, divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant. The bill states that the parties were married at Detroit, Michigan, on November 10th, 1951; that no children were born of said marriage; that defendant deserted and abandoned the plaintiff without just cause or reason, and that said desertion has continued uninterruptedly for over eighteen months and is final and deliberate and beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, whereas the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

Europe Assured Of American Aid

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP) — European economic planners today received assurance of continued American aid which probably will prevent any "dollar gap" for the next 2½ years, despite an over-all aid cut of one billion dollars.

U.S. representatives gave these assurances to a special committee of the 17-nation Organization for European Economic Cooperation which is drafting an annual report on the progress and prospects of member countries to be published at the end of this month.

The OEEC, originally founded to help distribute Marshall Plan funds, now acts as the coordinating agency among European nations in breaking down trade barriers and promoting economic integration. One of the key factors in any OEEC estimate of the European situation is the sum of U.S. dollars available.

The U.S. representatives, who attend most OEEC sessions as observers, outlined probable dollar expenditures in OEEC countries and their dependent overseas territories for the fiscal years of 1956-57 and 1957-58—that is, up to June 30, 1958.

The Americans told the OEEC, reliable sources said, that American expenditures will be at an annual rate of roughly $1,600,000,000 by June of 1958, barring some unexpected change in plans. This is much more than the current European trade deficit with the dollar area.

20 More Register For County Vote

Some 20 more prospective new voters registered with the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors during December.

Among then ew registrants signed up by Irvin J. Neat and C. William McDermotht, registrars, were 13 Republicans, seven women and six men, and seven Democrats, four men and three women.

However they were more than offsett by the deletion of the names of 30 deceased voters, 16 Republicans and 14 Democrats. Two others, both Republicans, requested removal of their names so they could register elsewhere. There were 15 transfers from one precinct to another and three changes of address within the same precinct during December.

Queen City Lodge K Of P Installs

Queen City Lodge No. 136, Knights of Pythias, held an installation of officers Wednesday night at the lodge hall on Virginia Avenue. Installing officer was Julius E. Schindler, local attorney and past grand chancellor of Maryland Grand Lodge.

Wilson, treasurer; Nelson W. Russler, financial secretary; E. C. Crist, master at arms; Walter E. Kline, inner guard; Howard Fleagles, outer guard; E. S. Crist, A. F. Weltman, and Howard Fleagles, trustees; W. E. Kline, representative to the grand lodge and Howard Fleagles, alternate.

199 From Three States Seeking Scholarships

Number Nearly 10% Of Total

Almost 10 per cent of the 5,000 high school seniors from throughout the United States who will take a second examination January 14 in the National Merit Scholarship Corporation program are from Maryland and its neighbors, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Pennsylvania, with a larger population and larger student enrollment, has 362 still in the running for more than 400 college scholarships. West Virginia has 82 on the list and Maryland only 55. They total 499, just one under an even 10 per cent.

Allegany County's only representative among the 55 Marylanders still in the running is Miss Betty J. Beck, 812 Edgewood Drive. She said last night that she will take her second test January 14 at City College in Baltimore.

Leading the Maryland Delegation are Balitmore City with 21, and Montgomery County with 20.

Among the Pennsylvanians who still have a chance to win one of the more than 400 cholarships are two from nearby Somerset County and one from Bedford County. From Somerset County are Joseph E. Europe Assured Of American Aid

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP) — European economic planners today received assurance of continued American aid which probably will prevent any "dollar gap" for the next 2½ years, despite an over-all aid cut of one billion dollars.

U.S. representatives gave these assurances to a special committee of the 17-nation Organization for European Economic Cooperation which is drafting an annual report on the progress and prospects of member countries to be published at the end of this month.

The OEEC, originally founded to help distribute Marshall Plan funds, now acts as the coordinating agency among European nations in breaking down trade barriers and promoting economic integration. One of the key factors in any OEEC estimate of the European situation is the sum of U.S. dollars available.

The U.S. representatives, who attend most OEEC sessions as observers, outlined probable dollar expenditures in OEEC countries and their dependent overseas territories for the fiscal years of 1956-57 and 1957-58—that is, up to June 30, 1958.

The Americans told the OEEC, reliable sources said, that American expenditures will be at an annual rate of roughly $1,600,000,000 by June of 1958, barring some unexpected change in plans. This is much more than the current European trade deficit with the dollar area.

Sen. See Favors Later Session On Port Plan

Bill May Not Be Drafted In Time

The possibility that the special State Port Authority session of the Assembly, tentatively set for January 23, may be deferred sounded just fine yesterday to State Senator Charles M. See, who said a bill of such major importance should not be limited to a certain number of days.

Senator See said it is his opinion the special session should follow the regular 30-day session which will open February 1, since the January 23 date would allow only eight legislative days for the port plan legislation.

The Maryland Constitution, he explained, says that all bills vetoed by the Governor after the adjournment of the regular session must be the first order of business when the Legislature next convenes.

Must Act On Vetoes

There are about 60 vetoed bills to be considered, he said, and several of them are going to be of major importance and bound to take up a certain amount of time, which will end on the constitutional date for the opening of the 1956 session.

Consideration of the vetoed bills, he said would take time which should be used to consider the port authority proposal, which is a major piece of legislation and of paramount importance to the citizens of Maryland.

He said that if the special session is set after the regular session, it can run as long as 30 days, which would give the legislators ample time to consider it from all angles.

Plans Conference

An Associated Press dispatch from Baltimore yesterday said Dr. Carl N. Everstine will go to New York today for a conference which may determine whether a special session of the Maryland Legislature will be held this month.

Everstine, director of the Department of Legislative Reference, will meet with lawyers preparing the statewide port authority bill tentatively scheduled for introduction in the special session Jan. 23.

But informed sources said yesterday there was some doubt the measure could be put together by that deadline, raising the possibility that the special session might be put off.

The Legislature's regular session is scheduled to open Feb. 1.

However, lawmakers have been advised by the attorney general's office that the port authority could not be set up at that time.

The 30-day regular session, according to law, must be used for consideration of only the budget, statewide legislation or emergency matters.

Although the port authority would be a statewide agency, its creation also would involve the repeal of local Baltimore legislation.

Everstine said a better idea of whether the special session could be held on the tentative Jan. 23 starting date would be obtained during the weekend conference with the New York firm of Mitchell & Pershing, which is drafting the port legislation.

Feast Of The Epiphany To Be Celebrated Today

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

In many countries of the world today will be celebrated as Little Christmas.

One of the great festivals of the Christian faith, it celebrates the visit of the Magi to Bethlehem.

There are several names for the celebration, Epiphany, the Feast of the Three Kings or Twelfth Night — because it falls 12 days after the birth of the Christ child in a manger in Bethlehem.

In the old world, Christmas ends only with the Epiphany celebration and the children are sure to find another gift and special goodies under the tree which was decorated for Christmas day.

St. Matthew tells the story of the wise men who came out of the East to worship the Christ child.

Led by the star, they came to Bethlehem and inquired:

"Where is he that is born King of the Jews, for we have seen his star."

It is a beautiful story, of how "the star which they had seen in the East went before them until it came and stood over where the Christ child was...and entering the house, they found the Christ child..and falling down they worshipped him.

"And opening up their treasures, they offered him gifts, gold, frankincense and myrrh."

Gifts fit for a king they brought. Balthaser presented prized frankincense, Casper the Ethiopian brought fragrant myrhh and Melchior, purest gold.

They were fabulous gifts in that day but only one could be considered a gift to lay before a king today.

Gold, which is promptly interred in vaults at Fort Knox as soon as it is acquired in this country, is still as precious as it was then, but it is cheap compared to some of the new metals.

Frankincense and myrhh today would be poor gifts indeed to lay before a king.

For the aromatic gum resins are today ordinary articles of commerce, worth 20 to 30 or so cents a pound.

Frankincense, once reserved for the use of the mighty, is better known today as olibanum and is one of the prime ingredients of perfume.

About 35 tons of it are used each year in this country in the manufacture of incense, fumigating preparations and face powder.

Up to five tons of myrhh are imported here each year for use in cosmetics, liquid dentifrices and perfumes.

If the Three Kings were to come to greet the Christ Child today, they might bring precious jewels, some newly discovered antibiotic or some of the products of the atom which could be used fo rthe benefit of mankind.

Vetoed Bills Await Action Of Legislators

Sixty Measures First On Agenda

(This is the first of a series of two articles on bills passed at the last session of the General Assembly and vetoed by Governor McKeldin. All must come up when the Assembly next meets. The articles were prepared by F. Allan Weatherholt of the staff of The Cumberland News).

Under a fairly new provision pertaining to lawmaking in Maryland, the General Assembly, when it next convenes, must consider as a first order of business, all measures from the last session vetoed by the governor.

This new plan, in effect for the first time, gives the legislators a chance to override any of the governor's vetoes, or sustain the action if they wish.

During and after the 1955 session of the General Assembly of Maryland, Governor Theodore R. McKeldin vetoed a total of 61 bills.

One bill was vetoed during the session. It was House Bill No. 47, designed to license and regulate crab meat picking and processing plants by the State Board of Health. On February 25, Governor McKeldin returned it with his veto, explaining that the measure "exactly duplicates Senate Bill No. 58, passed as an emergency measure and signed by the governor on January 31, 1955."

Announcement of the veto of the other 60 measures, it is recalled, was made on April 28. Under Section 17 of Article 2 of the Constitution of Maryland, each of these 60 bills must be referred to the House in which it originated immediately after that House shall have organized at the next special or regular session of the General Assembly. These vetoed bills may then be reconsidered in the same manner as bills vetoed during the session.

Of the 60 vetoed measures of 1955, a total of 20 originated in the Senate of Maryland and 40 originated in the House of Delegates.

In reporting his vetoes, Governor McKeldin in each case gave his reasons for not signing the measures into law. They are many and varied, however, duplication, and what the Governor called "unwise" or "unnecessary" or "of doubtful constitutionality" or "local problems" seemed to predominate.

The bills ranged from everything

Tax Collector's Term Extended

The term of James Park, who served as tax collector for the Third Tax Collection District of Allegany County from 1951 through 1954, inclusive, has been extended until January 1, 1958.

The extension by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Circuit Court was done to enable Park to collect unpaid taxes for the four years he was collector in the Lonaconing area.

Lawsuit Over Asphyxiation Set For Trial

Case To Be Heard In Hagerstown

A suit for $125,000, for support of four minor children, evolving from the death of three persons in a local apartment dwelling three years ago will go to trial in Hagerstown Wednesday, January 11.

The suit was filed by Mrs. Mabel Johnson, of near Parsons, W. Va., against Abraham Feldstein, owner of the building in which the three persons died of asphyxia due to carbon monoxide poisoning caused by fumes from a gas heater.

The jury trial will be heard in Washington County Circuit Court before Judge Kenneth McLaughlin beginning at 9:30 a. m.

Mrs. Johnson filed the suit against Feldstein in behalf of her four children, Catherine, Alma, Martha and Marvin Junior Bohon, following the death of their father, Marvin Paul Bohon, November 18, 1952, in the gas-filled apartment. The children were 12, 7, 10 and 4 respectively at the time their father died.

Dead along with Bohon were his second wife, Flora Ellen Wandless Bohon, and her sister, Pearl E. Wandless. Bohon and Mrs. Johnson were divorced and each remarried prior to the mishap.

Bohon, his wife and her sister had moved into the Feldstein apartment building at 44 North Centre Street the day before all were found dead there on the evening of November 18, 1952.

Although the suit was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court the case was removed to Washington County for trial. Four other suits which also were filed against Feldstein as a result of the deaths were settled out of court.

Attorneys in the case indicated last night at least 20 witnesses from Cumberland will be called upon to testify at the trial.

A pre-trial conference was held last week in the office of Judge McLaughlin at which the plaintiff was represented by Walter C. Capper, Thomas N. Berry, of Cumberland, J. Pat Nichols of Parsons and Charles W. Wagaman of Hagerstown. The defendant is represented by William A. Gunter, William J. Gunter and W. Earle Cobey of Cumberland, and Stuart Bushong of Hagerstown.

Ice Skating Revival Is Under Way Here

Ice skating, for many years a hit-or-miss activity because of mild winters, has become one of Cumberland's most enjoyable activities.

The winter sport, which has the full support of the City Recreation Department, has been made possible this year by the early arrival of cold weather in Western Maryland and the foresight of the Gephart Playground Association, according to Robert E. Pence, city recreation director.

Asked Curved Floor

He recalled that 15 years ago, officials of the association, including Edward Eichner, John Cooper, Leo Wilson, insisted that the tennis courts being built at the playground be curved to provide for ice skating in the winters. Floodlights were also installed to make the area available for night use.

Before this year, Pence recalled, there was no ice skating to speak of before January, and in many years, only three or four nights during the winter when ice was available at the Gephart Rink.

This year, however, there were 21 days in December itself, when ice skating could be enjoyed by citizens of the city. The warmer weather of the past few days, he added, has hampered skating activities at the rink.

More Skating Ahead

He predicted that, with another cold snap approaching, January will be another good month for the city's many skating enthusiasts.

Through the cooperation of the Recreation Department, a parents committee headed by Mrs. Harry Yeager and Mrs. James Snyder, and a teen-age composed of Joe Martin, Sonny Turley, Richard Schute and Suzanne Wilson, the rink has been kept in first-class shape and the concession stand has been repaired and placed into operation.

Does Work Of 10 Tellers

Leo H. Shipley, teller for the Liberty Trust Company, takes it easy as the recently installed Tickometer counts a bundle of $1 bills at the rate of up to 1,000 a minute. The Pitney-Bowes machine is now used to count currency, coupons and checks and soon will be cancelling checks, since the present perforating cancellations may interfere with the processing of punch card orders.

Fearer's Widow, Children Sue For $500,000

The widow and three children of a Frostburg man who was one of the five victims of the tragic crash in LaVale October 19 filed a $500,000 damage suit yesterday in Federal District Court in Baltimore.

This suit was filed in behalf of Willa M. Fearer, widow of Clifford P. Fearer, and her three children, William, Jeannette and Mary Ann, all of Frostburg. Her attorneys and Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson Jr.

Defendants are Ray Wells, RFD 2, Dover, Pa., Daniels Motor Freight, Inc., Warren, Ohio, and Paul Stewart Myers Jr., RFD 2, Dover, Pa.

Blanchard Randall, Maryland's secretary of state, accepted summons in the suit under provisions of the non-resident statute. When out-of-state residents use Maryland highways they automatically designate the Secretary of State as their agent in case of legal action against them. Randall will notify the defendants that he has accepted a summons in the suit in their behalf.

"Defective" Condition Claimed

The declaration pointed out that the tractor-trailer that ran away on Big Savage mountain and struck the car driven by Fearer in LaVale was owned by Ray Wells.

The 1951-model rig was leased on January 12, 1955, by Wells to Daniels Motor Freight, Inc., for an unlimited period of time.

The suit contends that the tractor-trailer was "in a dangerous and defective condition at the time it was leased to Daniels firm."

It was further stated that the vehicle was a "dangerous machine to be used for the purposes intended at the time of the accident," and that "Wells should have known prior to the accident" of its condition.

The suit adds that Myers, an agent and employe of the Daniels firm, "willfully, recklessly and negligently drove or caused to be driven" the tractor-trailer and "he lost control" of it.

Fearer, the suit declares, was

Automation Is Hitting Banking Business Here

Automation is hitting the banking business here.

The Liberty Trust Company this week placed into operation an automatic device which will count currency, coupons, checks and other forms at the rate of from 500 to 1,000 a minute.

The machine, with one operator, will count currency as fast as 10 tellers working at top speed.

Officials explained that before the Tickometer was placed into service, several tellers had to be detailed to count shipments of currency as they were received.

A shipment of $50,000 in $10 bills, for instance, might have required at least an hour's time to count. The job is being done mechanically, by one teller, in less than 10 minutes and this includes setting up time.

The machine, manufactured by Pitney-Bowes, Inc., a name familiar on postage meters, will be used in the company's main office, where most of the bookkeeping and accounting is done.

Similar counters have been available for coins for some time.

It is simple to operate, since tellers only have to stack the bills or checks on a tray, where an automatic feed runs them through and keeps count at a rate of up to 1,000 a minute.

Officials said the device will later be used for speedy printed cancellation of checks.

At present, checks are perforated during processing, which was fine before industries began issuing punch card type checks.

Cancellation perforations, officials said, may interfere with the accuracy of final accounting procedures of the companies which issued the punch card checks.

Prison Guard Is Improving

Podelco, a native of Piedmont, W. Va., has been employed at the state prison for the past three years and was among the first guards to go to the scene of the riot about 1:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Podelco and two other guards were badly beaten with the former and one of his two companions hospitalized at Reynolds Memorial Hospital, Glen Dale. The third guard was treated at the hospital and released.

An estimated 20 prisoners, some believed to be armed, rioted and held a guard hostage for more than an hour at the Moundsville prison. Five or six guards were beaten while trying to quell the disturbance.

Podelco, who now makes his home in Moundsville, is married to a Piedmont girl, the former Lois Seaber.

Polio Shot Plan Upped To Include 1-15 Age Group

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—Maryland youngsters one through 15 years of age now are eligible for polio shots, the State Health Dept. announced today.

The former priority included children one through 10.

Dr. Edward Davens of the health department, said the move is in accord with recommendations of the National Advisory Committee on Poliomyelitis Vaccine.

Davens said even though Salk vaccine is in short supply in some areas of the state, particularly Baltimore, the situation is expected to ease materially by mid-January.

Bowling Green Purchases Site For Fire Hall

The Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Department, Inc., has acquired the property at the northeast intersection of McMullen Highway and Walnut Street where a new fire hall will be constructed.

A deed whereby John S. Cook and Anna F. Cook sold the property to the fire department was filed for record yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The deed includes a number of restrictions on the use of the property. No malt, liquor or other intoxicants shall be made or sold on the premises, no building other than a dwelling, church or fire station can be constructed, the external walls must be of red brick and no structure can be built nearer than 20 feet to the right-of-way of the State Roads Commission on McMullen Highway or nearer than 20 feet to Walnut Street.

Bowling Green several weeks ago sold its present fire hall to the State Roads Commission for $20,000. The existing hall, near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks is along the route of the new U. S. Route 220 between Dingle Hill and the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America.

The SRC plans a divided highway between the city limits and Amcelle.

A new $35,000 fire hall will be built on the new site. Work is expected to start in the spring and completion by August is the department's aim.

Also recorded yesterday was the sale of property on Braddock Road by Wallace H. McGill and Cleo C. McGill to Edward Wolfe and Katherine Wolfe about five-and-one-half miles from Cumberland.

Most County Workers Favor Social Security

Only Three Dissents Counted So Far

Almost all of the approximately 335 Allegany County employes are in favor of Social Security coverage, a check revealed yesterday afternoon.

This week all of the county workers who wish to be included in the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program, under the Social Security Act have been asked to sign authorizations allowing for a two per cent deduction from their pay after January 1 to provide the coverage.

Mrs. Wilbur D. Sills, county auditor, said yesterday that all but 11 of the 114 persons on the county's general payroll have submitted authorization for the Social Security deductions.

She said no one has yet opposed the plan although some of the 11 not heard from may register opposition. They have until Saturday to state their position.

All of the 70 employes in the County Roads Department have signed authorizations in favor of the two per cent deduction for Social Security, according to Walter M. Fuller, who has collected the authorizations for that department.

Earl D. Grim, superintendent of the County Home and Infirmary, said only three of the approximately 150 persons employed at the three institutions had failed to support the Social Security coverage. Two of them work at Sylvan Retreat and one at the County Infirmary.

The Social Security coverage is in addition to their present retirement benefits under the Employes Retirement System of Maryland.

Only a simple majority of the county workers' votes was needed to assure Social Security coverage.

Many Farmers Must Report Social Taxes

Many farm operators in the Cumberland area have already indicated they paid one or more hired hands at least $100 in cash wages during 1955, James E. Robertson, district manager of the Social Security Administration, Cumberland, announced yesterday.

Employer identification numbers for these farmers have been assigned and they have been put on the mailing list to receive social security tax return forms for their employes in January. This means that the farm employer, who has such employes, is withholding 2 per cent social security tax from the cash wages he is paying his employes.

During the month of January, he will complete the tax return form, showing the name, the social security number, and the wages paid each employe who was paid $100 or more in cash during 1955.

Along with this information, he will forward his check or money order for 4 per cent of the wages shown on the return. This 4 per cent represents the 2 per cent that he has previously withheld from his employes and the 2 per cent that he contributes himself.

Coverage for farm workers is based on annual earnings, Robertson continued. It is necessary for the farm operator to keep a record of the earnings of each employe he expects to pay each wages of $100 or more. No elaborate bookkeeping system is necessary, but the farm operator should keep a record of the name, the social security number, the payments to the employe of cash wages for agricultural work, and the amount of the employe tax deducted.

Newly covered farm workers will need social security cards. Workers can secure these cards from the local social security office, Robertson said. A worker who has had a social security number issued at any time since 1936 should apply for a duplicate if he has lost his original card.

Robertson suggested that any farm operator who has already done so should contact the District Director of Internal Revenue or his local social security office in order to be sure of getting needed information if he has hired hands to whom he expects to pay $100 or more in cash wages during 1955.

Injured In Fall

George Lepley, 75, of 613 Henderson Avenue was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday morning for X-rays and observation after he fell down a flight of stairs at his residence.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

ASC Gets New Chairman

James H. Weimer of Mt. Savage, who has been serving on the Allegany County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee and its predecessor for about 15 years, stepped into the position as chairman for the first time yesterday when the committee met to begin its 1956 activities. Seated, left to right, are Bradye H. Dolly, Flintstone, new regular member beginning his first year on the committee; Joseph W. Silber, Oldtown, vice chairman, entering his third year on the committee, Weimer and Miss Elizabeth A. Hoover, office manager. Weimer succeeds Albert O'Neal, chairman for almost 20 years, who retired last month because of ill health. He is now residing with a granddaughter in Piedmont.

Sen. See Favors Later Session On Port Plan

Bill May Not Be Drafted In Time

The possibility that the special State Port Authority session of the Assembly, tentatively set for January 23, may be deferred sounded just fine yesterday to State Senator Charles M. See, who said a bill of such major importance should not be limited to a certain number of days.

Senator See said it is his opinion the special session should follow the regular 30-day session which will open February 1, since the January 23 date would allow only eight legislative days for the port plan legislation.

The Maryland Constitution, he explained, says that all bills vetoed by the Governor after the adjournment of the regular session must be the first order of business when the Legislature next convenes.

Must Act On Vetoes

There are about 60 vetoed bills to be considered, he said, and several of them are going to be of major importance and bound to take up a certain amount of time, which will end on the constitutional date for the opening of the 1956 session.

Consideration of the vetoed bills, he said would take time which should be used to consider the port authority proposal, which is a major piece of legislation and of paramount importance to the citizens of Maryland.

He said that if the special session is set after the regular session, it can run as long as 30 days, which would give the legislators ample time to consider it from all angles.

Plans Conference

An Associated Press dispatch from Baltimore yesterday said Dr. Carl N. Everstine will go to New York today for a conference which may determine whether a special session of the Maryland Legislature will be held this month.

Everstine, director of the Department of Legislative Reference, will meet with lawyers preparing the statewide port authority bill tentatively scheduled for introduction in the special session Jan. 23.

But informed sources said yesterday there was some doubt the measure could be put together by that deadline, raising the possibility that the special session might be put off.

The Legislature's regular session is scheduled to open Feb. 1.

However, lawmakers have been advised by the attorney general's office that the port authority could not be set up at that time.

The 30-day regular session, according to law, must be used for consideration of only the budget, statewide legislation or emergency matters.

Although the port authority would be a statewide agency, its creation also would involve the repeal of local Baltimore legislation.

Everstine said a better idea of whether the special session could be held on the tentative Jan. 23 starting date would be obtained during the weekend conference with the New York firm of Mitchell & Pershing, which is drafting the port legislation.

Case To Be Heard In Hagerstown

A suit for $125,000, for support of four minor children, evolving from the death of three persons in a local apartment dwelling three years ago will go to trial in Hagerstown Wednesday, January 11.

The suit was filed by Mrs. Mabel Johnson, of near Parsons, W. Va., against Abraham Feldstein, owner of the building in which the three persons died of asphyxia due to carbon monoxide poisoning caused by fumes from a gas heater.

The jury trial will be heard in Washington County Circuit Court before Judge Kenneth McLaughlin beginning at 9:30 a. m.

Mrs. Johnson filed the suit against Feldstein in behalf of her four children, Catherine, Alma, Martha and Marvin Junior Bohon, following the death of their father, Marvin Paul Bohon, November 18, 1952, in the gas-filled apartment. The children were 12, 7, 10 and 4 respectively at the time their father died.

Dead along with Bohon were his second wife, Flora Ellen Wandless Bohon, and her sister, Pearl E. Wandless. Bohon and Mrs. Johnson were divorced and each remarried prior to the mishap.

Bohon, his wife and her sister had moved into the Feldstein apartment building at 44 North Centre Street the day before all were found dead there on the evening of November 18, 1952.

Although the suit was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court the case was removed to Washington County for trial. Four other suits which also were filed against Feldstein as a result of the deaths were settled out of court.

Attorneys in the case indicated last night at least 20 witnesses from Cumberland will be called upon to testify at the trial.

A pre-trial conference was held last week in the office of Judge McLaughlin at which the plaintiff was represented by Walter C. Capper, Thomas N. Berry, of Cumberland, J. Pat Nichols of Parsons and Charles W. Wagaman of Hagerstown. The defendant is represented by William A. Gunter, William J. Gunter and W. Earle Cobey of Cumberland, and Stuart Bushong of Hagerstown.

Ice Skating Revival Is Under Way Here

Ice skating, for many years a hit-or-miss activity because of mild winters, has become one of Cumberland's most enjoyable activities.

The winter sport, which has the full support of the City Recreation Department, has been made possible this year by the early arrival of cold weather in Western Maryland and the foresight of the Gephart Playground Association, according to Robert E. Pence, city recreation director.

Asked Curved Floor

He recalled that 15 years ago, officials of the association, including Edward Eichner, John Cooper, Leo Wilson, insisted that the tennis courts being built at the playground be curved to provide for ice skating in the winters. Floodlights were also installed to make the area available for night use.

Before this year, Pence recalled, there was no ice skating to speak of before January, and in many years, only three or four nights during the winter when ice was available at the Gephart Rink.

This year, however, there were 21 days in December itself, when ice skating could be enjoyed by citizens of the city. The warmer weather of the past few days, he added, has hampered skating activities at the rink.

More Skating Ahead

He predicted that, with another cold snap approaching, January will be another good month for the city's many skating enthusiasts.

Through the cooperation of the Recreation Department, a parents committee headed by Mrs. Harry Yeager and Mrs. James Snyder, and a teen-age composed of Joe Martin, Sonny Turley, Richard Schute and Suzanne Wilson, the rink has been kept in first-class shape and the concession stand has been repaired and placed into operation.

Does Work Of 10 Tellers

Leo H. Shipley, teller for the Liberty Trust Company, takes it easy as the recently installed Tickometer counts a bundle of $1 bills at the rate of up to 1,000 a minute. The Pitney-Bowes machine is now used to count currency, coupons and checks and soon will be cancelling checks, since the present perforating cancellations may interfere with the processing of punch card orders.

Fearer's Widow, Children Sue For $500,000

The widow and three children of a Frostburg man who was one of the five victims of the tragic crash in LaVale October 19 filed a $500,000 damage suit yesterday in Federal District Court in Baltimore.

This suit was filed in behalf of Willa M. Fearer, widow of Clifford P. Fearer, and her three children, William, Jeannette and Mary Ann, all of Frostburg. Her attorneys and Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson Jr.

Defendants are Ray Wells, RFD 2, Dover, Pa., Daniels Motor Freight, Inc., Warren, Ohio, and Paul Stewart Myers Jr., RFD 2, Dover, Pa.

Blanchard Randall, Maryland's secretary of state, accepted summons in the suit under provisions of the non-resident statute. When out-of-state residents use Maryland highways they automatically designate the Secretary of State as their agent in case of legal action against them. Randall will notify the defendants that he has accepted a summons in the suit in their behalf.

"Defective" Condition Claimed

The declaration pointed out that the tractor-trailer that ran away on Big Savage mountain and struck the car driven by Fearer in LaVale was owned by Ray Wells.

The 1951-model rig was leased on January 12, 1955, by Wells to Daniels Motor Freight, Inc., for an unlimited period of time.

The suit contends that the tractor-trailer was "in a dangerous and defective condition at the time it was leased to Daniels firm."

It was further stated that the vehicle was a "dangerous machine to be used for the purposes intended at the time of the accident," and that "Wells should have known prior to the accident" of its condition.

The suit adds that Myers, an agent and employe of the Daniels firm, "willfully, recklessly and negligently drove or caused to be driven" the tractor-trailer and "he lost control" of it.

Fearer, the suit declares, was

Automation Is Hitting Banking Business Here

Automation is hitting the banking business here.

The Liberty Trust Company this week placed into operation an automatic device which will count currency, coupons, checks and other forms at the rate of from 500 to 1,000 a minute.

The machine, with one operator, will count currency as fast as 10 tellers working at top speed.

Officials explained that before the Tickometer was placed into service, several tellers had to be detailed to count shipments of currency as they were received.

A shipment of $50,000 in $10 bills, for instance, might have required at least an hour's time to count. The job is being done mechanically, by one teller, in less than 10 minutes and this includes setting up time.

The machine, manufactured by Pitney-Bowes, Inc., a name familiar on postage meters, will be used in the company's main office, where most of the bookkeeping and accounting is done.

Similar counters have been available for coins for some time.

It is simple to operate, since tellers only have to stack the bills or checks on a tray, where an automatic feed runs them through and keeps count at a rate of up to 1,000 a minute.

Officials said the device will later be used for speedy printed cancellation of checks.

At present, checks are perforated during processing, which was fine before industries began issuing punch card type checks.

Cancellation perforations, officials said, may interfere with the accuracy of final accounting procedures of the companies which issued the punch card checks.

Prison Guard Is Improving

Podelco, a native of Piedmont, W. Va., has been employed at the state prison for the past three years and was among the first guards to go to the scene of the riot about 1:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Podelco and two other guards were badly beaten with the former and one of his two companions hospitalized at Reynolds Memorial Hospital, Glen Dale. The third guard was treated at the hospital and released.

An estimated 20 prisoners, some believed to be armed, rioted and held a guard hostage for more than an hour at the Moundsville prison. Five or six guards were beaten while trying to quell the disturbance.

Podelco, who now makes his home in Moundsville, is married to a Piedmont girl, the former Lois Seaber.

Polio Shot Plan Upped To Include 1-15 Age Group

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5 (AP)—Maryland youngsters one through 15 years of age now are eligible for polio shots, the State Health Dept. announced today.

The former priority included children one through 10.

Dr. Edward Davens of the health department, said the move is in accord with recommendations of the National Advisory Committee on Poliomyelitis Vaccine.

Davens said even though Salk vaccine is in short supply in some areas of the state, particularly Baltimore, the situation is expected to ease materially by mid-January.

Bowling Green Purchases Site For Fire Hall

The Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Department, Inc., has acquired the property at the northeast intersection of McMullen Highway and Walnut Street where a new fire hall will be constructed.

A deed whereby John S. Cook and Anna F. Cook sold the property to the fire department was filed for record yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The deed includes a number of restrictions on the use of the property. No malt, liquor or other intoxicants shall be made or sold on the premises, no building other than a dwelling, church or fire station can be constructed, the external walls must be of red brick and no structure can be built nearer than 20 feet to the right-of-way of the State Roads Commission on McMullen Highway or nearer than 20 feet to Walnut Street.

Bowling Green several weeks ago sold its present fire hall to the State Roads Commission for $20,000. The existing hall, near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks is along the route of the new U. S. Route 220 between Dingle Hill and the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America.

The SRC plans a divided highway between the city limits and Amcelle.

A new $35,000 fire hall will be built on the new site. Work is expected to start in the spring and completion by August is the department's aim.

Also recorded yesterday was the sale of property on Braddock Road by Wallace H. McGill and Cleo C. McGill to Edward Wolfe and Katherine Wolfe about five-and-one-half miles from Cumberland.

Most County Workers Favor Social Security

Only Three Dissents Counted So Far

Almost all of the approximately 335 Allegany County employes are in favor of Social Security coverage, a check revealed yesterday afternoon.

This week all of the county workers who wish to be included in the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program, under the Social Security Act have been asked to sign authorizations allowing for a two per cent deduction from their pay after January 1 to provide the coverage.

Mrs. Wilbur D. Sills, county auditor, said yesterday that all but 11 of the 114 persons on the county's general payroll have submitted authorization for the Social Security deductions.

She said no one has yet opposed the plan although some of the 11 not heard from may register opposition. They have until Saturday to state their position.

All of the 70 employes in the County Roads Department have signed authorizations in favor of the two per cent deduction for Social Security, according to Walter M. Fuller, who has collected the authorizations for that department.

Earl D. Grim, superintendent of the County Home and Infirmary, said only three of the approximately 150 persons employed at the three institutions had failed to support the Social Security coverage. Two of them work at Sylvan Retreat and one at the County Infirmary.

The Social Security coverage is in addition to their present retirement benefits under the Employes Retirement System of Maryland.

Many Farmers Must Report Social Taxes

Many farm operators in the Cumberland area have already indicated they paid one or more hired hands at least $100 in cash wages during 1955, James E. Robertson, district manager of the Social Security Administration, Cumberland, announced yesterday.

Employer identification numbers for these farmers have been assigned and they have been put on the mailing list to receive social security tax return forms for their employes in January. This means that the farm employer, who has such employes, is withholding 2 per cent social security tax from the cash wages he is paying his employes.

During the month of January, he will complete the tax return form, showing the name, the social security number, and the wages paid each employe who was paid $100 or more in cash during 1955.

Along with this information, he will forward his check or money order for 4 per cent of the wages shown on the return. This 4 per cent represents the 2 per cent that he has previously withheld from his employes and the 2 per cent that he contributes himself.

Coverage for farm workers is based on annual earnings, Robertson continued. It is necessary for the farm operator to keep a record of the earnings of each employe he expects to pay each wages of $100 or more. No elaborate bookkeeping system is necessary, but the farm operator should keep a record of the name, the social security number, the payments to the employe of cash wages for agricultural work, and the amount of the employe tax deducted.

Newly covered farm workers will need social security cards. Workers can secure these cards from the local social security office, Robertson said. A worker who has had a social security number issued at any time since 1936 should apply for a duplicate if he has lost his original card.

Robertson suggested that any farm operator who has already done so should contact the District Director of Internal Revenue or his local social security office in order to be sure of getting needed information if he has hired hands to whom he expects to pay $100 or more in cash wages during 1955.

ASC Gets New Chairman

James H. Weimer of Mt. Savage, who has been serving on the Allegany County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee and its predecessor for about 15 years, stepped into the position as chairman for the first time yesterday when the committee met to begin its 1956 activities. Seated, left to right, are Bradye H. Dolly, Flintstone, new regular member beginning his first year on the committee; Joseph W. Silber, Oldtown, vice chairman, entering his third year on the committee, Weimer and Miss Elizabeth A. Hoover, office manager. Weimer succeeds Albert O'Neal, chairman for almost 20 years, who retired last month because of ill health. He is now residing with a granddaughter in Piedmont.
